COMPANY A, No 3 of Loyal Crusaders of North Wiltshire, in conjunction with the Sabbath School, held a picnic on the beautiful grounds fronting the residence of Mr. John R. Edwards, on Thursday, the 30th inst. which was a decided success in every respect. The ordinary amusements such as, swinging under the trees, base-ball tug-of-war etc. were heartily indulged in by the juveniles who passed a most enjoyable afternoon. A refreshment booth was also provided which supplied a variety of confectionery, fruit and temperate drinks and was managed alternately by Mr. W. E. Edwards, Miss Lily Campbell and Miss Maggie Smith. At the usual hour for the tea-bell the party were called to partake of an ambrosial repast, which certainly did credit to the ladies of North Wiltshire spread under the arching trees which render the place so picturesque. After supper, when the games heretofore mentioned had become somewhat tiresome the children were started at racing, in which they displayed all that determination and competitive spirit characteristic of the Celt and won the lauds of the assemblage by their ability as athletes. Then only too soon the shadows of evening began to fall and the picnickers dispersed to their homes, loath indeed, to leave such pleasant surroundings, but satisfied that they had spent a pleasant holiday and with hearts full of thankfulness to their beloved teacher Mr. W. E. Edwards, to whose energetic spirit the success of the affair may be largely attributed.

THE S.S. Campana arrived in port about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

ON Sunday afternoon the Oddfellows of the City assembled at their Hall and, arrayed in regalia, with sashes and white ties formed in procession, and with the Band of the Fourth Regiment at their head, marched down Queen Street to the Old Cemetery, where the graves of departed brethren of the Order were beautifully decorated with flowers. The procession was then reformed and the members marched to St. Peter's Cemetery, where the decoration was repeated. Afterwards the People's Cemetery was visited and the ceremony of decoration was there also performed. The singing, which is a part of the impressive ritual, was especially fine. A deputation from the main procession drove to Sherwood Cemetery and strewed flowers upon the last resting place of the brethren who there repose. At the close the procession returned to the Oddfellows Hall. Hundreds lined the streets along the route of procession and many were deeply touched by the affecting ceremony.

MR. KIRKWOOD of the Canadian Trade Review has just shown us a copy of the Halifax Edition of his Journal. The more we examine it the more we are taken with its excellence and convinced of the value of the Review's idea. Besides a remarkably full account of Halifax, Dartmouth, Windsor and Kentville. There are forty pages of superior half-tone engravings, that must perforce impress on every mind the beauty of that section of Nova Scotia. There is no doubt that the Trade Review is doing a great deal in behalf of this eastern portion of the Dominion. THE GUARDIAN is impressed with the fact that the issue of the Review to be devoted to Prince Edward Island can be made quite as attractive and every whit as valuable as any previous number published descriptive of other parts of Canada. We have a Province of unknown possibilities as a dairy country, and for tourists there can be no more attractive resort. Let Charlottetown, Summerside, Souris, Georgetown and Montague send in their photographs of their beauties and charms, that the P. E. I. edition of the Review may be worthy of our Province.
