UNDERWEAR BACK WITH SKI SUITS

(By The Canadian Press)
NEW YORK—The ski suits for the winter's sports are designed with no nonsense.

They are streamlined, cut for action and pruned of the "gingerbread" that used to clutter snow suits before youth took its winter sports seriously. By way of balancing matters, however, mittens, scarfs and other accessories are as gay and giddy as a peasant roundelay.

Wool sweaters or shirts in some bright hue to match the accessories are worn under most of the suits. A pliable elasticized girdle, long woolen underwear, long wool stockings and heavy socks to wear over them complete the list. Something novel and practical is an entire suit of chamous underwear, which is lightweight and said to be very warm.

Trousers are slimmer and cut in three lengths—ankle, plus-four and midway. Plus-fours are less popular though, because they are less becoming. The slim jackets are equipped with some smooth tricks in slide-fastener closing—not really colored as trims, but concealed under bands and laps which make them wind-proof and snow-proof.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

FOOD THAT CARRIED DEATH

Hospital records are stories of life and death. Here is an actual record taken from one of Canada's largest hospitals.

In June, Willie Blank, residing in a town about sixty miles distant from the city in which the hospital is located, developed a headache and fever, quickly becoming very ill. A consultant was called. He diagnosed the case as meningitis, which in lay language is inflammation of the membrane around the brain. The child was rushed to the hospital where it was confirmed that he had bovine tuberculosis meningitis; but despite all efforts known to scientific medicine to save the life of this curly-headed three year old boy, he died.

Where did he get the bovine tubercular germ? From milk most likely. So the Doctors began their investigation and with little difficulty they traced the milk supply of the child's family to one herd of cows and discovered one of the cows to be infected with tuberculosis of the exact type which killed Willie Blank.

Six months previous to the infection and death of this child, the citizens of the town in which he lived defeated a By-Law which, if passed, would have made it compulsory for all milk sold within the town to be pasteurized. Pasteurization kills germs in milk and had the By-Law passed instead of being defeated, it is reasonable to think that Willie Blank would be alive today.

Since pasteurization of all milk sold for public consumption became compulsory in one of Canada's largest cities 23 years ago, there has not been one case of bovine tuberculosis traced to the milk supply within that city.

Pasteurization of milk destroys the germs that destroy life and pasteurization makes milk safe for you and your children. Contrary to many statements made by ill-informed persons who for various reasons oppose pasteurization of milk, it may be said with confidence born of facts that pasteurization does not destroy the food value of milk. Children—hundreds of thousands of them—thrive on pasteurized milk every day.

Safe milk for all children and all adults should be a goal for all Canada. Pasteurization of milk is the answer.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Presentation

A very pleasant evening was spent on Tuesday Dec. 7th when members of Memorial Lodge L. O. B. A. gathered at the home of Mrs. John H. Howatt, Hillboro Street, where a sister Mrs. W. H. MacLeod was an honored guest.

Several enjoyable hours were spent in pleasant and amusing games but, Sister MacLeod was quite unaware of the purpose of the gathering until later in the evening she was suddenly called to the centre of the room, and the following address read to her by Sister Louise Bonnell:

Mrs. W. H. MacLeod,
Dear Sister: Perhaps on this occasion, we your Sisters of Memorial Lodge, of the L. O. B. A. have reason to feel more than usually impressed with the thought that life contains pleasant experiences; and treasured memories sufficient to reward us in full for all the less pleasant ones.

We rejoice also in the fact that our mutual happiness is always greatly intensified by the sharing of all these experiences, one with another, and in this lies true fraternity.

Feeling all this to be true we your Fraternal Sisters, treasure this unique opportunity afforded by the twenty-fifth anniversary of your wedding to exemplify the spirit of our esteemed order and it is in keeping with these treasured principles that we at this time gather, first to congratulate you on your long period of wedded bliss; secondly to honor you and yours for this long period of perfect citizenship in which the principles of our revered order are so grandly reflected; thirdly to ask your acceptance of this small gift as a token of our deep appreciation of your long association with us, and above all to express to you our sincere wish that you and yours may be blessed with many more years of happiness for yourselves as well as benefit for your associates.

Signed on behalf of Memorial Lodge, L. O. B. A.

The address was accompanied by a beautiful silver gift presented by Sister Howatt.

Sister MacLeod although taken entirely by surprise thanked the Sisters in her usual gracious manner.

Refreshments were then served by the Sisters after which another pleasant hour was spent before the happy group decided to call it an evening.

BULK BUYING EGG PROVIDER

GARY, Ind.—How does a mother care for 18 children? Mrs. Edward R. Schultz does it, but she doesn't know exactly how.

Her husband, a laborer, who makes $3 a day, explains: "It's been pretty tough at times to keep the children from going hungry and ragged." His secret is quantity buying. Recently 12 of his children all got new shoes. The bill was $27.

WHERE COSMETICS HAVE POOR SALES

(By The Canadian Press)
LONDON, Dec. 21.—Believe it or not girls, there is still a stronghold on this globe where women do not favor rouge, lipstick or face-powder.

Where? Munich, in Germany—and authority for the statement is a reliable German trade journal, just out.

"Munich girls show the greatest disdain for cosmetics and face powder," the journal declares. "When they see a friend who has made herself up, they do not say 'How nice you look today,' but 'You have painted yourself wonderfully today darling!'"

The journal adds that an expert in make-up who transferred her business from Vienna to Munich, remarked bitterly: "Munich girls seem to be more interested in beer than in beauty."

Women in North America and the British Isles, it is explained, have a strong tendency to resort to the rouge-pot, but they are particularly discriminating and do not favor the "crude colors" of their sisters in Southern Europe.

CANADIAN HELPS BAHAMA ORPHANS

(By The Canadian Press)
NASSAU, Bahamas, Dec. 21.—Mrs. Harry Oakes, wife of the Canadian gold mine operator, has announced she will donate a new home for the children of the Goodwill Orphanage here. It will be constructed on a five-acre tract granted by the crown.

This orphanage, only one in the Bahamas, has grown in five years from one rented room. With one orphan child, Mrs. Birdie Tyler, a native nurse, was responsible for its founding. The orphanage now has a small house and 23 young girls.
