

DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR A BAD LIVER OR SLUGGISH LOWELS.

A harmless cure for sick headache, for biliousness, for a sour, gassy, disordered stomach, for constipation, indigestion, coated tongue, salivaceous, pimples—take delicious Syrup of Figs. For the cause of all these troubles lies in a torpid liver and sluggish condition of your thirty feet of bowels.

A teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs tonight means all poisonous waste matter, the undigested, fermenting food and sour bile, gently moved on and out of your system by morning, without gripping, nausea, or weakness. It means a cheery, happy tomorrow—many bright days thereafter.

Please don't think of feeble, ineffective Syrup of Figs as a "physic." Don't think you are dragging yourself, for luscious figs, senna and aromatics can not injure anyone.

This remarkable fruit preparation is a wonderful stomach, liver and bowel cleanser, regulator and tonic, the safest and most positive ever devised.

The day of violent purgatives, such as calomel, pills, salts and castor oil is past, they were all wrong. You got relief, but at what a cost! They acted by flooding the bowels with fluids, but these fluids were digestive juices. Syrup of Figs embodies only harmless laxatives, which act in a natural way. It does what right food would do—what eating lots of fruit and what plenty of exercise will do for the liver, stomach and bowels.

Be sure you get the old reliable and genuine. Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by The California Fig Syrup Company, Hand-back, with scorn, any Fig Syrup imitation recommended as "just as good."

MARK TWAIN'S TRAMP.

And His Quaint Introduction in the Enterprise Office.

"It was the afternoon of a hot, dusty August day in 1892," says Albert Bigelow Falme in Harper's, "when a worn, travel stained pilgrim drifted languidly into the office of the Territorial Enterprise, then in its new building on O street, and, loosening a heavy roll of blankets from his shoulders, dropped wearily into a chair.

"He wore a rusty slouch hat, no coat, a faded blue flannel shirt and a navy revolver. His trousers were hanging on his boot tops. A tangle of reddish brown hair fell on his shoulders, and a mass of tawny beard, dingy with alkali dust, dropped halfway to his waist.

"Aurora lay 180 miles from Virginia City—hard, hilly miles. He had walked that distance, carrying his heavy load. Editor Goodman was absent at the moment, but the other proprietor, Dennis E. McCarthy, signalled that the caller might state his errand. The wanderer regarded him with a faraway look and said absently and with leisurely reflection:

"My starboard leg seems to be unshipped. I'd like about a hundred yards of line. I think I am falling to pieces." Then he added: "I want to see Mr. Barstow of Mr. Goodman. My name is Clemens, and I've come to write for the paper."

Too Late.

Daniel Webster used to tell a story about an old woman who was very ill and went into a trance. They all thought she was dead, and when she opened her eyes her husband said in a surprised tone, "Why, Mandy, we thought ye was dead." The poor old woman looked at her husband a moment, and then she burst into tears. "And ye never bawled a bit," she sobbed. "Ye thought I was dead, and yer eyes was dry. Couldn't ye have bawled a little bit, Jabez?" The old man was deeply moved, and he did actually bawl then. But his wife said sadly: "It's too late now. Dry yer eyes. If I'd really been dead and ye'd bawled 'twould have done me some good. But it's too late now."

Insulting.

"Could you sing a ragtime song?" asked Mr. Lobrow.

"Why, sir," spluttered the musician who takes himself seriously, "c-c-confound your b-b-bone headed impudence!"

"That's a good start," was the complacent rejoinder. "You have a fine idea of the words. Now see if you can put a melody to them."—Washington Star.

Perfume and the Color of Flowers.

It is stated on the authority of a German botanist who has been investigating the subject that out of 4,800 species of plants cultivated in Europe only 420 have an agreeable perfume. As has long been understood, flowers with white or cream colored petals were found to be most frequently fragrant, after which come those with yellow, red, blue and violet petals in the order named. Only thirteen violet colored flowers had perfume, but this is partly due to the fact that such flowers are not abundant in any flora. Of the total number of flowers examined 2,300 had no perceptible odor of any kind. This does not mean that they have no odor, but simply that they have no odor that man can detect. Many of them may be fragrant to insects and probably are. More than 3,000 of the flowers examined had disagreeable odors of various kinds, but these, again, did not seem to be disagreeable to the insects, but, on the other hand, were often attractive.—American Botanist.

ALL OVER EUROPE

DUBLIN, Dec. 7 (Special)—An oft-quoted example of Daniel O'Connell's acuteness in cross-examination is given in the "Law Magazine." In a trial in which he was engaged, the question at issue was the validity of a will which the plaintiff alleged to be forged, and under which considerable property was devised. The witness for the defence swore that the testator signed the will while "life was in him." The evidence was going strongly in favor of the plaintiff, when O'Connell undertook to cross-examine one of the witnesses. He observed that this witness, like the others, repeatedly swore that "life was in" the testator, when the will was signed, and that he saw the testator append his signature to the document.

"By virtue of your oath, was he alive?" asked O'Connell. "By virtue of my oath," said the witness, "life was in him."

"Now," continued O'Connell with great solemnity, "I call on you, in presence of your Maker, before whom you must one day be judged for the evidence you give here to-day, I solemnly ask—and answer me at your peril—was it not a live man when his hand was placed on the will?" The witness instantaneously fell on his knees, and acknowledged that it was so. A fly had been placed in the mouth of the deceased so that it might be sworn that "life was in him."

BERLIN, Dec. 7 (Special)—Loss of weight has been regarded as a cause for divorce in Germany. Three years ago a Breslau magistrate sued for a divorce because within twelve months of their marriage his wife had reduced herself by 31 pounds. This had been done by dieting and strenuous exercise so that the lady might assume with becoming grace the exiguous costumes which were then beginning to be fashionable.

The injured husband pleaded that this deliberate reduction of her weight, despite his repeated protests, constituted a legal grievance on the wife's part. He further asserted that the system followed has ruined his wife's digestion, and thus spoiled her temper. In giving judgment the court remarked that had the diminution of weight been due to an unavoidable cause the husband would have had no case; but as it was brought about intentionally he was entitled to a divorce.

WHERE DOCTORS FAILED TO HELP

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. Green's Health—Her Own Statement.

Covington, Mo.—"Your medicine has done me more good than all the doctor's medicines. At every monthly period I had to stay in bed four days because of hemorrhages, and my back was so weak I could hardly walk. I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I can stay up and do my work. I think it is the best medicine on earth for women."

—Mrs. JENNIE GREEN, Covington, Mo.

How Mrs. Cline Avoided Operation.

Brownsville, Ind.—"I can say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me more good than anything else. One doctor said I must be operated upon for a serious female trouble and that nothing could help me but an operation.

"I had hemorrhages and at times could not get any medicine to stop them. I got in such a weak condition that I would have died if I had not got relief soon.

"Several women who had taken your Compound, told me to try it and I did and found it to be the right medicine to build up the system and overcome female troubles.

"I am now in great deal better health than I ever expected to be, so I think I ought to thank you for it."—Mrs. O. M. CLINE, S. Main St., Brownsville, Ind.

Constipation and Headache CURED BY Burdock Blood Bitters.

Various kinds of headache exist; for example, nervous, bilious, congestive, and sick headache, headache from constipation or dyspepsia, periodical headache, etc.

In all cases of headache the treatment should be directed to remove the cause, and with the cause removed the headache vanishes for all time.

It is impossible to find a better remedy for headache of every description than is Burdock Blood Bitters, acting as it does on every organ of the body to purify, strengthen and regulate the whole system.

Miss May Bourdage, New Richmond, N. B., writes:—"For years I was troubled with sick headache, and dizziness, and was also constipated. I was advised to take Burdock Blood Bitters, and I only took three bottles when I felt like a new person. I can recommend it to anyone who suffers the same as I did."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for over thirty-five years, and is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Don't set your mind—set Big Ben

Don't bother your head about getting up. Leave it to Big Ben.

You ought to go to sleep at night with a clear brain—untroubled and free from getting up worries. You men, if you are up to date farmers, work with your brains as well as with your hands. Such a little thing as "deciding to get up at a certain time in the morning" and "keeping it on your mind" often spoils a needed night's rest and makes a bad "next day." Try Big Ben on your dresser for one week. He makes getting up so easy that the whole day is better.

Big Ben is not the usual alarm.
