All Stars Hold Snappy Workout

The All-Stars held a snappy workout on Thursday night and also on Friday. The boys are far from being discouraged over the 12-2 lacing which the Abbies handed them on Wednesday and will be right "in there" when the teams again take the diamond on Monday evening. Both practices were devoted largely to batting practice as that is the department where the boys fell down the worst, getting only three hits in a full nine innings contest.

Schurman will be the mound in Monday's fixture and this will necessitate changes at second base. There is a possibility that the two McInnis brothers, Dan and Dan may be pressed into service at second and short with Ward going to the outfield. Jim Millman will be in his regular position in left field and the remainder of the line-up will stand pat.

The game is scheduled to get underway at 5 o'clock and will be on time so as to get the nine innings in. The boys are going to give all they have so let's see the whole town at the School Diamond on Monday evening.—D

Successful Field Day At Richmond

The Field Day at the farm of Mr. Thomas Noonan, Richmond, was very successful and the addresses by the different speakers were very helpful to the farmers and their wives, numbering about 200, who attended.

A special feature of the program was a meeting of the Women's Institutes of the districts who met in conjunction with the Field Day. The Richmond Institute served supper.

Mr. Frank I. Gallant was appointed chairman for the day.

Mr. Noonan's farm is situated in a very beautiful part of Prince County and his well cultivated fields and garden; also his well kept barns and outbuildings brought many favourable comments from the visitors.

Mr. S. C. Peppin, Senior Potato Inspector, was the first speaker on the program and gave a most interesting talk on potato planting. He stated that it had been conclusively proved that large potatoes should be used for seeding. The three ounce potato cut in two had proved the most profitable size and had been found to yield more potatoes to the acre and is less susceptible to virus diseases. The larger seed was more sturdy as the small potato rotted more quickly.

Another important thing to remember was to plant the seed immediately after cutting. Plant and cut should be the slogan, using only the best possible seed. The greatest care should be taken when planting for a certified seed crop. With due care there is no reason why the Island cannot produce the best seed potatoes at all times.

Field Crops

The men then went to the field and inspected the field crops which consisted of nursery or forage crops, clover and grasses.

Schurman had a very fine field of victory oats, and a field of barley.

Mr. Derrick, specialist on oats, demonstrated the good and bad points in the oats under inspection.

Mr. D. C. Schurman spoke on the forage crops. He was pleased to find that the growing of alfalfa was becoming quite popular and the soil was proving very adaptable to this crop. Mr. Noonan had a very fine field of after grass of alfalfa.

Mr. J. C. Jack, of the Experimental Fox Farm, Summerside, gave a very instructive talk on the care and feeding of fox pups, which was listened to by both men and women with great attention. Many questions were asked on feeding, to which Mr. Jack gave satisfactory answers.

He stressed the importance of not mixing commercial feeds with bread or other home foods. Well cooked porridge was a very good feed for pups. If commercial feeds are used they should be well soaked.

He also spoke on the treating of pens with fuel oil which has been found to be very successful in keeping down ear mites and fleas. This should be used with care. Food should not be left lying about in pens which have been treated with fuel oil. He also suggested wooden floors as best for foxes at all seasons. This prevents to a great extent lung and hook worm; but does not control round worm. Mr. Jack's address was instructive and much appreciated by fox ranchers present.

Mr. Irvine's talk on sheep was very much appreciated as there are some very good sheep in the vicinity of Richmond. Many of the farmers have taken advantage of the Federal Loan Club policy, which gives the farmer the opportunity of purchasing a 3X registered Shropshire or Oxford Ram lamb at a cost of seven dollars delivered by rail. These rams have been the means of improving the flocks, for breeding.

They have improved the market value of the flock and the wool formation. The policy also includes a 2X Ram for five dollars. Farmers wishing to improve their flock should get in touch with the Federal Live Stock Branch. More and better sheep should be every farmer's objective.

Mr. Irvine also spoke on the raising of hogs for profit, which is an easy task at present prices. He considered that this was a good time to go into the hog business as good brood sows are easily obtained. He urged the farmers to increase their hog holdings without plugging.

Farmers in Prince County are not raising enough hogs and there is plenty of room for many more; and where there is plenty of milk and other farm feeds the cost of raising good hogs is not large.

Mr. Irvine gave a good outline of the new system, rail grading of hogs.

Mr. Parent gave a talk on rearing baby chicks by the brooder method, which has been particularly successful on the Noonan farm. A demonstration of treating grain for smut was also given.

Women's Institute

While the men were in the fields the ladies held their Institute meeting.

Mrs. Ebba Praught, President of the Richmond Institute presided. Members were present from Wellington Centre, Grand River, Arlington and South West. Lot 18, Miss Hassard, Supervisor of Women's Institutes was present and gave a short talk on the Federated Women's Institute meetings, which were held in Charlottetown this summer.

The chief business of the meeting was to arrange for the annual meeting next year, which is to be held in Wellington.

Mrs. Connell was appointed president for the Convention, and Mrs. Emma MacNeill secretary. It was decided to hold the Convention on the same day as the Field Day if arrangements could be made with Mr. Parent. The National Anthem closed the meeting.—S

Labour Day Sports At Summerside

Good for the Labour Union! There is every indication at the present time that we are to see a fine day of track and field events on Monday at the trotting park. For this, great credit must go to the Labour Union who have sponsored the meet and put the grounds in condition.

Not many years ago there used to be two and three meets every year with each event keenly contested, but in recent years things have sort of died down and the present revival is very pleasing to sport fans.

Many entries have already been received by Jerry Bernard and other members of the committee in charge with more expected today. A fine display of prizes may be seen in Holman's window and all are well worth winning. They include such things as pen and pencil sets, flash-lights, shirts, watches, chocolate and many other useful articles.

Several local athletes have been training this week and appear in good condition. Jim Millman and Reg Pritchard are groomed for the sprints and jumps. Olvin Bowness and Bob Clarke will try the middle distances. Ken Muttart is expected to take the high jump and will also probably be in other events.

Many are training for the mile bike race which offers a dandy cup for first prize.

The sports will get under way at 1:30 and will be carried along quite swiftly so as to be completed in time for the baseball game. All entries must be sent in to Jerry Bernard or George Doucette by Saturday evening so competitors are urged not to delay.

Time Opportune For New Effort Labor Advised

(By The Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, Aug. 30.—Declaring the time was propitious for energetic efforts to promote labor organizations as the most effective manner, by which the process of economic reconstruction might be expedited, A. R. Mosher, president of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor, urged workers of Canada to give more serious consideration to their responsibilities in this direction than ever before.

"I have no hope of any worthwhile progress in the transformation of the economic order from competition to co-operation until the workers have realized the necessity of building up strong industrial unions," said Mr. Mosher in his Labor Day message. He said it was gratifying to be able to refer to the advances the All-Canadian Congress had made, especially during the present year. The convention held in Montreal last May had demonstrated the soundness of the principles on which the organization was founded.

Referring to the "competitive system known as capitalism," Mr. Mosher said it was evident that the failure of the system in spite of heroic measures and vast increases in public debt had made a deep impression on governmental leaders and industrial authorities.

"The present year was introduced by a series of remarkable pronouncements by the prime minister of Canada, in which views were expressed which, even a decade ago, would have appeared radical if not revolutionary," Mr. Mosher continued. "Promises were made that legislation in keeping with these views would be placed before parliament, and while, for various reasons, performance did not keep up with promise, there is ground for satisfaction in the beginning which has been made by the Canadian government in the direction of unemployment and other measures."

Mr. Mosher believed the workers of Canada would also be encouraged by the investigation into business practices, wages and working conditions, particularly in the whole sale and retail trades, by the Stevens committee and the Royal Commission which continued its work.

The report of the committee was a notable document "not only for the facts it makes public but for the enlightened attitude expressed with regard to labor organization."

A great deal must be done before the workers of Canada are organized thoroughly and effectively," Mr. Mosher said, "but it is a significant forward step when such an important body as the Royal Commission on Price Spreads emphasizes the role and value of labor organization."

While, however, it was of great interest to workers that economic reforms be undertaken, and the right to organize and bargain collectively be protected by government, Mr. Mosher declared workers must never overlook the fact that their primary objective of organization having been attained, they must go ahead to the ultimate objective, the establishment of an equitable economic and social order.

Cubs Defeat Ramblers 9-6

The Cubs again excited the Ramblers in an exciting 9-inning struggle on Wednesday afternoon. The score was 9-6 and it was a very fair indication of the play. Both outfields played spectacular ball and came to their pitcher's rescue with many timely put-outs.

The opposing pitchers Ray Arsenault for the Ramblers and "Schoolboy" Sheen for the Cubs were in good form and both gave very creditable exhibitions. Both these youngsters should do well in Town League baseball next season.

A feature of the game was a home run to left field which Irvin Ross belted out in the 5th.

The Cubs opened the scoring with three markers at the first time to bat. They were then held scoreless until the 5th while the Ramblers proceeded to tie the score.

The winners however scored twice in the fifth and then added two in both the 6th and 8th to put the game away.

A very enthusiastic crowd enjoyed the game and everyone seems to be getting a great kick out of these two teams.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 30.—Business conditions generally remained at a level over this time last year, the weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, issued here, showed today.

Wholesalers in most Canadian centres were busy. Retailers reported some contraction from last week, but as a whole sales were much better than Aug. 1934. A marked improvement in Ontario's rural trade was reported.

The Maritime report follows: Halifax—Wholesalers fairly busy, with collections of current accounts very fair. Saint John—Wholesale fairly good and retail trade satisfactory.

LEAVES FOR ROME IN OCTOBER

Rev. J. P. E. O'Hanley to Take Three Years Philosophy Course At Pontifical University.

Rev. J. P. E. O'Hanley, who has been curate of St. Paul's Church, Summerside, for about one year, leaves in October for Rome, where he will take a three years course in Philosophy at "The Angelico" Pontifical University in Rome. This is recognized as the highest college in Rome.

Rev. Father O'Hanley has been signally honoured by His Excellency Most Rev. Bishop J. A. O'Sullivan of Charlottetown in being chosen for this course, as it is very seldom that an Island priest is thus honoured.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young girl engaged to be married to a man who has always been a philanderer and has had many love affairs. He seems to have a fatal fascination for women, married and single. They run after him, make themselves fools over him, deluge him with letters and telephone calls. I love this man dearly, but I look forward to the future with apprehension. He swears that he is faithful to me and always will be, but how about it? Will he be able to settle down to one woman after marriage? DOUBTFUL.

Answer: Any woman who marries a "ladies' man" take the road to the altar at her own risk, and there are ninety-nine chances to one that she will meet with disaster before she reaches the end of the matrimonial journey. For the philanderer is boss that way and he is constitutionally incapable of being faithful to any one woman. Every fluttering skirt is a signal to him to get up and follow, and he can no more resist making love to the car that is nearest than he can stop breathing.

The philanderer may really love his wife. He may admire and respect her more than he does any other woman. He knows that he tortures her with his affairs with other women, but that doesn't keep him from having a romantic adventure with a platinum blonde, or going off on a week-end with some married woman.

And, if he would be good, the women will not let him. They pursue him with temptations that he is not strong enough or man enough to resist.

No girl should marry a man who has a "way" with women unless she is certain that she has not a particle of jealousy in her nature, or else her heart will be continually torn to ribbons. Or unless she is wise enough to see that his flirtations really do not mean anything but a passing diversion, and do not touch his affection for her.

Few women are this philosophical in their attitude toward their husbands. I knew one, however, who was and who lived in peace and happiness with a man who had a hundred affairs. "Oh, Tom, is woman-crazy," she would say. "He can't resist a pretty face, but his flirtations are only skin deep. They don't touch his heart. And he pays me as pretty compliments and as many delicate attentions and sends me as many flowers and is as gallant a lover to me as he is to his newest flame, so I let it go at that and don't worry. Better a universal lover as a husband than a husband who is no lover at all." DOROTHY DIX.
