Apparently emphasizing the warning contained in Matsui's statements, Japanese naval vessels in the Whangpoo River launched a second bombardment of Pootung, industrial area across the Whangpoo from the International Settlement.

The warcraft started the second bombardment less than 24 hours after what the Japanese described as a Chinese shelling of the Hongkong area of the settlement, where Japanese civilians live. Yesterday Japanese army authorities made an armed threat that they would raze the area unless Chinese quit shelling Hongkong.

"I wish to address the Chinese people, hoping that they will resort to proper introspection and view the unfortunate situation (at Shanghai) in its true light," Matsui's new statement said.

"For China to attempt national solidarity at the cost of fostering anti-foreign and anti-Japanese policies would be a far cry from a desire to build international fellowship and maintain peace.

"Making deft use of anti-Japanese propaganda, China provoked Japan with resulting destruction of international good will and crumbling of peace in the Orient. China and Japan cooperate in maintaining peace in the Orient."

"However, with China ideologically and sentimentally adhering to an anti-Japanese policy, Japan has no alternative other than to eradicate the evil at any cost.

"As stated before, we entertain no ill will toward non-combatants. We desire to protect them from the errors of conflict. I urge them to remain away from danger zones."

The Japanese general's proclamation of invasion was thought by some observers to be the prelude of Japan's threatened big push against Chinese Shanghai lines. In the proclamation Matsui referred to the Chinese Government army as "collaboration with Communist influences."

"Cy" Ching To Address Boston Convention

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)
BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Cyrus S. Ching, director of Industrial and Public Relations of the United States Rubber Company and a native of Prince Edward Island, will deliver the keynote speech at the annual conference of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, it was announced today.

Known to labor men and industrial magnates alike as "Cy" Ching, the nationally-known business leader came to Boston from Summerside, P. E. I., as a youth and began his career on the front end of a street car. Later he became inspector of equipment with the Boston elevated railway and saw the need for an officer who would devote his time to labor problems.

He determined he would be that man and went to law school nights to equip himself for the position. He was admitted to the Massachusetts bar and then to the job he sought.

In 1919 he assumed a position of supervisor of labor relations with the United States Rubber Company with its 50 factories throughout the country employing more than 50,000 men and women.

"Sauting his signal success in the national field and his friendly interest still in Massachusetts industries, the Associated Industries of Massachusetts above all recognizes the unbreakable common sense which characterizes Mr. Ching's many efforts," declared President Albert N. Murray. "We'll welcome him as a friend and counselor."

Ching married Anna MacIntosh, a native of Pleasant Bay, N. S.

Ching's many efforts, declared President Albert N. Murray, "We'll welcome him as a friend and counselor."

Tryon Lady Injured When Struck By Car

Condition of Mrs. Wallace Toombs, 22, struck by an automobile operated by Elmer Maybee, 21, Crapaud, P.E.I., near her home at Tryon, P. E. I., at noon yesterday, was regarded as "fairly good" by hospital authorities at Summerside last night and was resting as comfortably as could be expected. She suffered leg injuries and shock.

Mrs. Toombs, accompanied by her daughter, had visited her son, Austin, who resided a short distance from her home and on their return the daughter entered the store of Keith Thomas to get a parcel. Meanwhile Mrs. Toombs who decided to cross the road walked into the path of the automobile.

The aged lady was picked up in a dazed condition and taken to the home of Kenneth MacDonald nearby and Dr. Bell of Cape Traverse, P.E.I., was summoned. Later she was moved to a Summerside hospital.

the troubled Far Eastern situation. With State Secretary Hull, Undersecretary Welles and Norman H. Davis, Ambassador at Large, he spent two hours in a "general discussion" of developments. Later the cabinet met and the situation was canvassed again.

Meanwhile, in England Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain praised Mr. Roosevelt's stand on world peace and pledged his Government's "whole-hearted" cooperation.

"Hitherto it has been assumed the United States, the most powerful country in the world, would remain content with a frankly isolationist policy," he said. "But Mr. Roosevelt has seen that if what he calls an epidemic of world lawlessness is allowed to spread, no country will be safe from attack."

"In his declaration of the necessity for a return to belief in the sanctity of treaties he has voiced the convictions of this country as well as his own, and in his call for concerted effort in the cause of peace, this Government will be wholeheartedly with him."

From within the United States, however, there came a less enthusiastic statement, and one possibly foreboding trouble when Congress reconvenes. Senator Wm. (R-N.D.), chairman of the old Munitions Investigating Committee, said he would propose legislation limiting the President's discretion in imposing the Neutrality Act.

"I will not be alone in this matter," he said. "I believe that the movement for a stricter neutrality policy has been given impetus by all that has recently happened."

allowed to spread, no country would be safe from attack.

READY TO CO-OPERATE
"In his declaration of the necessity for a return to belief in the sanctity of treaties and the sanctity of treaties, he has voiced the convictions of this country as well as his own," Mr. Chamberlain said. "And in his call for concerted efforts in the cause of peace this Government will be wholeheartedly with him."

It would be premature at this stage to commit the Government to any particular course of action, Mr. Chamberlain said. He added: "I will say that our governing objective now as always is restoration and maintenance of peace. We will gladly co-operate in any plan which helps to secure that end."

Mr. Chamberlain then turned to the Mediterranean.
He sincerely rejoiced it had been possible to come to an agreement with the Italian Government over the Mediterranean anti-piracy patrol.

REPLY STILL AWAITED

Great Britain, he said, still was awaiting the Italian reply to an invitation to three-power conversations with France and Great Britain with a view to making the policy of non-intervention in Spain really effective.

The Prime Minister earnestly trusted that when the Italian reply came "it may prove to be of such a character as will bring us all into greater harmony. If we could make real progress in settlement of the Spanish problem the way would be opened for those conversations which formed the subject of recent correspondence between Signor Mussolini and myself."

"Although in neither case has there been a formal declaration of war, there are in fact two major wars in progress," Mr. Chamberlain said, referring to the Sino-Japanese and Spanish civil conflicts.

"Both of them are being characterized by the use of bombing planes and in both cases non-combatants, men, women and children, are being killed and mutilated by action of aerial weapons."

SICKENING AND HORRIFYING
"It is a sickening and horrifying spectacle from which the mind revolts and it has aroused in many countries the strongest feelings of indignation and sympathy with its helpless victims."

He said, however, there was "some danger lest these natural human feelings should miss the real point—that of 'having to resort to force at all, in contradiction to engagements solemnly entered into, without even an attempt to settle differences by peaceful discussion and negotiation.'"

The Prime Minister paid warm tribute to Anthony Eden, Foreign Secretary.

"Happily, in our present Foreign Secretary, Mr. Eden, we have a statesman who combines all the energy and vitality of youth with unrivalled experience of men and affairs in all parts of the world," he said.

"We all have reason to be grateful to him for the tact and skill which he has devoted to the maintenance of peace and the care with which he watches over the interests of the country."

The Prime Minister spoke of the great growth of British armaments, of the increasing production and of what the government had done and proposed to do to develop agriculture.

Words of Warning
But he had words of warning over the vast cost of armaments. It would be merely hiding heads in the sand to imagine that when Great Britain committed herself to vast expenditure on armaments, she could at the same time have just as much to spend for other things.

Program For Fox Educational Week Outlined

Reporting at the Board of Trade meeting on Thursday, Mr. Graham Rogers outlined the program to be carried out during Fox Educational Week at Summerside. It was intended to hold the demonstrations for three or four days. The Curling Rink and the Labour Union Hall have been picked out as suitable places to hold the meetings.

Mr. Burke, Provincial Fox Fieldman and Mr. George Mayers of New York have promised their services as judges of the Demonstration work.

Messrs. Donald Baker, R. S. P. Jardine and Richard Hinton were appointed on the Finance Committee.

A competent man will be in charge of the foxes while they are in the building.

Mr. Rogers says that great interest is being taken in the project, as it will be of great value to ranchers.

He also spoke of the good work Mr. Burke was doing as fieldman. There are 31 clubs organized with over 1,000 members.

Mr. H. T. Holman moved that a resolution be passed that the Board approve the action taken by the fox men in sponsoring this resolution was seconded by Mr. John E. Campbell.

Mr. Arnett commended the efforts of the Fox Committee in arranging for this educational fox week, as there was no doubt that it would prove of real educational value, and should have the whole-hearted support of the citizens generally.—S.

Freight Rates Discussed At Board Meeting

Freight rates and service rendered by the Canadian National Railway generally came up for discussion at the opening meeting of the Summerside Board of Trade.

Mr. H. T. Holman drew attention to the fact that there is not sufficient transportation for motor cars on the Car Ferry.

Hon. L. R. Allen, as chairman of the transportation Committee, stated that he had written about that matter and also about the poor service for express freight on P. E. Island. He said the Maritime Provinces are very much more handicapped than the other Provinces.

Mr. Holman said that he had a reply to his query about better facilities for cars from Mr. Borden and that the railway authorities had replied that they had taken over 301 cars in one day. Mr. Holman said, that might be so, but that they were now resting on their laurels.

Mr. Allen said that unless the C. N. R. tried to improve their freight service, they would soon lose what little business that they had now.

Mr. Allen went on to say that in the old days of the Empire which crossed daily from Point du Chine, merchants could get fruit, which left St. John, N. B., on Tuesday night, in Summerside on Tuesday night. Now it takes four to five days, under the improved railway system. The C. N. R. are responsible in a large measure for the lack of business on the railway.

Mr. Allen also referred to the generous action of the Summerside Town Council in paving each side of the east end rail crossing and the centre strips, which the railway authorities had not considered their duty to do, although it had not been proved to whom the land belonged. The railway put in the rail crossing but did not lay the concrete part between the rails. The town have made a good job of the work and citizens should appreciate the job, said Mr. Allen in conclusion.

Mr. Allen also stated that the Town Council had also informed him that application had been made to place this in the estimates next winter for the paving of the road way north of the railway station, which is also railway property but is not very presentable.

Mr. A. E. MacLean, M. P., asked about refrigerator cars from Tignish and Alberton. Mr. Allen replied that a year or two ago a refrigerator car had been placed on for the west but it was found that it did not pay.

The new freights were discussed and also a pick up delivery for small freight.

Potato Market
Mr. John E. Campbell, in speaking of the potato market said that the movement of potatoes had started early this year, and that the extra piers and new potato sheds at the Marine Wharf would be a great inducement to the large ships to call for the potato trade.

Some more dredging had been done and the depth of water at the low spring tides was now 20 feet at the pier. The piers were wider and three ships could now load at one time. There was now a depth of 25 to 26 feet up the channel at low tide, which would warrant ships coming direct to Summerside.

A shipper had been experimenting with Bliss Triumph seed and has been shipping them since Sept. 15. He hoped next year to have sufficient quantities to charter an ordinary steamer direct from Summerside to points south.

The town had arranged for a pipe line to the head of the wharf, so the ships could now have the best of water at all times.—S.

NEWSY NOTES

The benefits of singing are no confined to the mind alone; it is being gradually elicited that the body is also affected in certain ways. Some time ago it was found that high blood pressure was relieved to some extent by the practice of vocal exercise. In 1935, Dr. Clara Leisman, before the American Society for the Advancement of Science, at Minneapolis acquiesced in the view that the power of suggestion is admitted by science everywhere, and that music is the simplest and direct way to apply it. Another speaker thought that a course of music and its psychology should be a definite and compulsory item in every medical school.
