"AN AMERICAN ROMANCE" AT CAPITOL, SUMMERSIDE

—"An American Romance," the story of the rise of industrial America, long has needed telling, and M-G-M- has told it in handsome Technicolor, with a sweep and grandeour worthy of subject and country. King Vidor, whose countless hits include "The Big Parade", "The Crowd" and "Northwest Passage," has produced and directed "An American Romance" and he has turned in his outstanding success.

Newly-arrived in this country, Steve Dangos meets and falls in love with Anna O'Rourke, and together they make their way in life. Steve works in a steel mill and progresses up through the ranks. Anna bears Steve children and they grow up to bring happiness to their parents. Steve becomes interested in developing a new, strong, light steel for automobiles and becomes known as a production genius. Through the first World War, and into the second, the Dangos family give and fight for their country. This, and the fields and forests and mountains and lakes and rivers—this is "An American Romance." Here is a picture for every American to be proud of and to enjoy. Put it on your "must" list without fail.

49 Special Trains For Service Forces

HALIFAX, N.S., June 25 —Since the commencement of the present large scale movement of returning active service personnel from overseas on June 15th, forty nine special trains carrying a total of 15,293 passengers have left Halifax, over lines of the Canadian National Railways bound for all parts of the Dominion. The peak of the movement came with the arrival of the Ile de France last week. Twenty one specials were required to handle the 9,026 repatriated soldiers coming on the huge troop ship.

During the period of this movement, two hospital ships arrived at Halifax, the Letitia and the Llandovery Castle. Returning wounded from the Letitia travelled on three CNR hospital trains while two trains brought the invalided personnel from the Llandovery Castle.

In addition to the special trains leaving the Atlantic seaport, a third section of the "Ocean Limited" has been in operation daily for the past two weeks, Canadian National passenger officials say, and will continue until further notice. These extra sections accommodate personnel of the Royal Canadian Navy. Approximately 240 returning sailors are handled daily by this means.

Lt.-Gov. Bernard Honored By Citizens Of Tignish

St. Mary's Hall, Tignish, was filled to overflowing Sunday night when more than 500 citizens of that flourishing urban centre met to do honour to Lieut.-Governor J. A. Bernard and his gracious lady.

A guard of honour comprising Boy Scouts and Girl Guides lined the entrance of the Hall as the Governor and Mrs. Bernard entered the spacious building. The chairman of the meeting, Mr. C. F. Morrissey, welcomed the distinguished guests in a brief address which outlined the purpose of the ceremony.

A fine musical program was then enjoyed with Miss Frances Morrissey at the piano.

Among the speakers who expressed their appreciation of the great honour done the western section of the Province in the appointment of Mr. Bernard as Lieut.-Governor were the Rev. John A. McDonald, Tignish; Rev. W. D. Monaghan, Alberton; Rev. Patrick Walsh, Palmer Road; Rev. Ernest McInnis, Tignish; Rev. Eric Robbin, Lot 7, and Mr. C. F. Morrissey, Tignish.

The presentation of an exceptionally fine travelling bag to His Honour was made by Mr. Urbain Gaudet of Tignish. Mrs. Bernard was not forgotten, as was evidenced by the presentation to her by Miss Genevieve Arsenault, Tignish, of a magnificent six-foot electric lamp.

The welcome to the Lieut.-Governor engraved on a scroll was read to His Honour by Mr. C. F. McCarthy after which the scroll was formally presented to His Honour by Dr. J. A. Johnson.

Mrs. C. F. Morrissey read the engraved address to Mrs. Bernard and then formally presented her with the scroll.

The Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Bernard made fitting replies to the addresses.

The Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Bernard were escorted from their residence to St. Mary's Hall by two local naval men, Able Seamen Lester Gavin and Paul Kinch.

ADDRESS TO LT.-GOV.

Following is the text of the address read by the people of Tignish:

To the Honourable J. A. Bernard,
Lieutenant-Governor of Prince Edward Island—
Your Honour,

Your friends of this historic parish of Tignish are proud to greet you this evening, and to inscribe your name upon our Roll of Honour, which already includes the names of many distinguished sons and daughters of Church and State. While we extend to you our sincere congratulations upon your elevation to the highest office in the gift of the Crown in this Province, we, at the same time, must express our deep regret that your acceptance of office necessitates the termination of your residence in our village for a period of years.

During the years you have lived among us, you have been so closely associated with and active in the social, economic, and public life of our community that we find it difficult to realize that you are going away from us, even if your absence may be only temporary. Your generosity, unfailing courtesy, and willingness either to serve or to lead in any worthy cause are so well known and recognized that they require no further comment. It is sufficient to say that those characteristics, coupled with your outstanding ability, have long marked you for special distinction.

To your gracious and devoted consort, Mrs. Bernard, we also extend our greetings and our best wishes for a happy term as hostess in the "White House" of our garden Province. She, too, will be greatly missed by her legion of friends. Despite the onerous duties and cares of family life, Mrs. Bernard has been ever foremost in the work of our charitable organizations and her solicitude for the welfare of the sick and afflicted has been great beyond words.

This address would not be complete were we to omit a reference to your splendid family, the members of which have added so much to the social and moral tone of our community life. To those in the armed services as well as those at home and in the United States we offer our congratulations. We rejoice with them in the great honour bestowed upon you.

In concluding we wish to assure you that in going forth to assume the duties and responsibilities incident to your new position, you will bear with you the best wishes of all your fellow citizens. We know that you will perform those duties with credit to yourself and honour to your native Province.

We now ask you to accept this gift as a symbol of our friendship and as a pleasing remembrance of this hour and place where now we say "Au Revoir."

Signed on behalf of the people of Tignish and adjacent districts.

ADDRESS TO MRS. BERNARD

Following is the text of the address to Mrs. Bernard:

Dear Mrs. Bernard,

It is a great pleasure for us to join with your many friends in offering hearty congratulations on the high dignity you share in our Lieutenant-Governor's recent appointment to office. As life-long friends and neighbors, we rejoice all the more deeply and take a pardonable pride in the ability and efficiency you possess to meet your new responsibilities.

The parting word, however, arouses sentiments of a different character. We cannot see you go without the keenest feelings of regret. In so many spheres of social life, dear Mrs. Bernard, your presence will be deeply missed. You have given your time, your labour, your support to every activity connected with the Tignish division of the Catholic Women's League; also to the care of altar and sanctuary, to the relief of the poor, and in general to every charitable enterprise undertaken in the community. Neither can we forget the hospitality enjoyed at your own home, where kindly, cordial intercourse knit hearts together, kept older hearts young, and young hearts in sound and healthful channels of recreation.

Yes, we fully realize the loss Tignish sustains in the departure of such highly esteemed citizens as His Honour, the Lieutenant-Governor and yourself, but we realize likewise that it is due to this same well merited esteem, you enjoy the dignity of your present position.

In saying farewell we ask you to accept this token of our best wishes. May God bless and prosper all your labours, and may health and happiness be the faithful attendants of your days. May the pleasant memories of the past serve to brighten the days to come.

Farewell! That word has broken hearts
And blinded eyes with tears;
Farewell! One stays and one departs
Between them roll the years:
But,
Is not Adieu the better word for us?
'Tis more than word—'Tis prayer:
They do not part who do part thus,
For God is everywhere.

Signed on behalf of the ladies of Tignish Parish.

39 Boats Built By Summerside Shipyard Firm For Government

The last boat has been delivered to the Department of Munitions and Supply from the Palmer and Williams Co. Ltd. boat building plant at Summerside and now the record of that firm's wartime production can be told for the first time.

Since the spring of 1941 when the first keel was laid down thirty-nine boats of wooden construction have been built for the army, navy and air force. Before the defeat of Germany censorship restrictions barred the reporting in detail of what was being done in the warehouse on the Marine wharf where the plant was located and visitors were discouraged. This is the story.

A few old-timers can remember when there were a number of shipyards along the waterfront at Summerside but the last ship to be built — the schooner "Swordfish"— slid down the ways in the summer of 1887. Since that time there have been a few small boats built by individual craftsmen but until the outbreak of war no attempt was made at steady production and the ever-growing need for more and more supplies caused many new enterprizes to spring up. One of these was the Palmer and Williams Co. Ltd. boat building plant. This firm had already held large plumbing and heating contracts in the building of the airport at Summerside and in 1941 they decided to tender on contracts for the construction of small wooden boats. They received a contract which was followed by many others.

Their first problem was to find a place suitable for year-round work. Eventually, they rented a large storage warehouse located at the end of the marine wharf which is owned by the Federal Government. This warehouse was used for storing potatoes that were to be shipped by water and fertilizer as it was unloaded from freighters. Wartime demands on shipping had temporarily made that type of transportation unavailable and the warehouse was lying idle. It was from this building that thirty-nine boats were launched.

Many Different Types

Many different types of boats were built and equipped. The smallest was the thirty-foot range patrol boat. There was the general service launch, forty-six feet in length, used for carrying material, stores and personnel. It can also do mine-sweeping in shallow waters. The refueling launch, used for refueling seaplanes had four tanks in its hull with a total capacity of 4,000 gallons. The off-shore patrol boat 48 ft. 8 in. in length, was a twin-screw, carried depth charges, and machine guns, had accommodation for eight men and could stay out in almost any kind of weather. The largest boat built was the sixty-foot anti-submarine target towing boat which had accommodation for four men. Its purpose was to tow an under-water target which set up impulses similar to a submarine and was used for testing the detection equipment on Fairmiles, corvettes and destroyers.

At first all the metal fixtures had to be purchased but later a machine shop was constructed at the rear of the company plant on Water Street. It is adequately equipped to manufacture most of the steel fittings that went into the boats. Of course there were many difficulties to overcome many of which would be a story in themselves. But there was one that must be told.

One piece of equipment needed was target-towing reels. From the only place they could be obtained, it was learned that it would be a year before they would be available. That would have brought the work to a stand-still, so Mr. Palmer persuaded the authorities to allow him to turn them out in his own shop. The first ones he turned out were so successful that he was given an order to manufacture all that type of equipment one of which was sent as far away as Scotland.

The operation of this shipyard in Summerside has meant much to the town and vicinity. There were as high as fifty and an average of thirty men on the staff and approximately a half million dollars was paid out in wages. Even yet there are men working there, for since the government contracts have been completed, a twenty-five-foot pleasure boat has been built and also several dinghies. Two fishing boats are being rushed to completion.

The principals of this firm were Allan W. Palmer and Ralph S. Williams of Summerside. About a year ago Mr. Palmer purchased Mr. Williams' interest in the business and Mr. Palmer is now the main shareholder. The foreman of the yards is Mansfield Ross of Yarmouth, N.S. who has had much experience in this line.

Even though the work may be finished, Prince Edward Island still has an association with the plant as the training ship of H.M.C.S. Queen Charlotte in Charlottetown was built there.—S.

In Memoriam

In memory of a loving Husband and Father—
LESTER LAIRD
who passed away June 26th, 1939.
He is gone but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near.
Calm and peaceful he is sleeping
Sweetest rest that follows pain.
We who loved him, sadly miss him
But trust in God to meet again.
Lovingly remembered by
Wife and Family.
Sarnia, Ontario.
