

Real Comfort

In summer the feet ache, perspire, feel damp and uncomfortable—cool shoes and thin stockings help some, but not enough.

If you want real comfort use

Penslar Food Easy

Put a little in the shoes, sprinkle some in the stockings. It absorbs moisture and checks perspiration to a large extent. Then the feet are comfortable, do not swell, do not ache. It prevents formation of corns and callouses—Try it—25c box.

PROOF OF TROUBLE IN GERMAN CAMP

War Council on Failure of the Crown Prince

LONDON, August 7.—Extraordinary disclosures apparently confirming the rumors of dissonance at German headquarters arising out of the Crown Prince's disastrous attack, are published in the newspapers Tages Zeitung, of Essen, the substance of which is that at a council of war held in the presence of the Kaiser, the Crown Prince was severely criticized by Hindenburg, and apparently also by Ludendorff. Something tantamount to a demand for removal from his command was put forward and the Kaiser was constrained to admit the existence of some degree of justification for the remonstrances of his military leaders, but dynastic circumstances have expressed no opinion upon them, and it is vitally important that the policy of America and that of this country should be in complete agreement on economic, as well as other paper, however obscure.

Referring to the Paris resolutions, he said: "Up to the present time America has expressed no opinion upon them, and it is vitally important that the policy of America and that of this country should be in complete agreement on economic, as well as other paper, however obscure."

MRS. ANGUS McDONALD

There passed away suddenly in this city at the residence of her son Mr. J. D. McDonald, 63 Spring Park Road, Charlottetown, Mrs. Angus McDonald of Amherst, N. S. Deceased had come to the island about a month ago on a visit to her son. About a week ago she contracted a slight cold, but nothing serious was anticipated. She arose as usual about 11 on Saturday morning and after partaking of her breakfast was noticed to be taking a weak turn. The attending physician and clergyman were hastily summoned and she passed away at 12.30, after receiving the last rites of the Holy Catholic Church from Rev. Fr. McQuaid. The remains were taken to Amherst Monday morning accompanied by her son, where they will be laid to rest alongside those of her husband who predeceased her sixteen years ago. There are left to mourn the loss of a dear and loving mother two daughters, Mrs. John McMurray of Amherst and Mrs. Melanson of Wakefield, Mass. Also three sons, J. D. of Charlottetown, William of Sackville and Daniel in the West; also one sister Mrs. Martin Connick of Baltic Lot 18, to all of whom the most sincere sympathy is extended.

TERENCE J. MCKENNA

An unusually sad death occurred in the Charlottetown Hospital on Friday July 26th, ult., when Terence J. McKenna, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter McKenna, Baldwin Road, succumbed to appendicitis after suffering agonizing pain for five days. The deceased had always enjoyed good health during his short life of twenty-five years until about a week before his death when he began to complain of not feeling quite well. Three doctors were called in but nothing could be done to relieve the intense pain and it was decided to remove him to the hospital. But it proved too late—he was beyond the aid of human skill. He passed away within twenty-four hours after entering the hospital. Terence was a young man of exemplary habits, with a character beyond reproach and will be much missed in the home and community. He was attended in his last illness by his pastor Rev. J. R. A. McDonald, and the clergy and Sisters of the Hospital. The remains were laid to rest in St. Teresa's Cemetery on Sunday the 28th, the funeral cortege consisting of about 150 carriages. He leaves to mourn his loss a sorrowing father and mother, two sisters and two brothers, Rev. Herman McKenna, Winnow, Minn., Mrs. James Gill, Elliotvale, Maine and Peter at home. The pall bearers were Leo Sullivan, Frank Baldwin, Frank Cain, Aife Curran, Mike Bradley and Ambrose Corcoran. May his soul rest in peace. (Patriot please copy.)

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. JAMES AFFLECK

On Tuesday afternoon, July 23d, there passed peacefully away at Cherry Hill, to her eternal rest, Mrs. James Affleck, at the ripe old age of eighty-six years. She had been in her usual good health up to five days previous to her death. She leaves to mourn a sorrowing family of five sons and four daughters. The sons are, John, of Mount Stewart, James of Donaldston; Alfred of Charlottetown; Joe and Robert of Lawrence, Mass., and the daughters are: Mrs. David Gillan, of Lowell, Mass., Miss Elizabeth, of Lawrence, Mass., Mrs. Fred Jardine, Head of Hillsboro, and Mrs. William McKenzie, St. Andrew's. The pall bearers were, Robert McAssey, Augustine McDonald, Albert Coffin, Jas. McKenna, J. J. McDonald and James Douglas.

JOHN CURLEY

Many friends in Charlottetown and throughout the province are uniting in sympathy with the bereaved widow and family of the late Mr. John Curley, East Royalty. Mr. Curley had been suffering from blood-poisoning in his hand and was ill just one week. He was a man of quiet disposition, a kind and loving husband and father. A sad feature of his death is that his son, Mr. Joseph Curley, left Charlottetown in the last overseas draft. A telegram was sent to him to Aldershot, but was returned marked "Left for Overseas." Besides his heart-broken widow there are left to cherish his memory three sons and one daughter, Mrs. John Garrett of this city. The funeral was held Wednesday morning from his residence in East Royalty, to St. Dunstan's Cathedral. The procession was very large bearing ample testimony to the esteem in which the deceased was held by his fellow men. At St. Dunstan's Cathedral a Requiem High Mass was sung by Rev. J. C. McGuigan, while Rev. Frank McQuaid performed the last rites at the grave.

"WHISPERING CHORUS" SUPERB CECIL B. DE MILLE PRODUCTION A TRIUMPH Its Theme of Man's Supreme Sacrifice and Dramatic Realism Make This a Most Notable Photoplay Presenting a galaxy of actors, seldom, if ever, gathered together in a single Arctcraft picture, and filled with dramatic and tense moments that hold the interest throughout, Cecil B. De Mille's superb production of "The Whispering Chorus" by Percy Poore Sheehan, and picturized by Jeanie Macpherson, was presented at the Prince Edward Theatre to a packed house yesterday. The theme of self-sacrifice which is the dominating note of this great Paramount picture, was treated in a highly artistic manner, and from every standpoint perhaps, this is one of the finest pictures ever seen in this city. The story is exceptionally strong in conception and treatment, and its various details are worked out with unusual skill of craftsmanship. John Trimble, an employee of a large corporation, is harassed by creditors and in a mad effort to make both ends meet, he resorts to theft of money from his firm. Confronted by the imminence of arrest and conviction, he deserts his wife and aged mother to become a hermit on a lonely island in the Ohio river. To create the impression that he is dead, he dons the clothing of a drowned man whose body he has found in the river, and places his own on the body. This done to his satisfaction, he drops out of sight. With the finding of the body, it is surmised that Trimble was murdered and the police begin a search for his slayer. Trimble has assumed the name of Martin and is suspected of being his own murderer. He eludes arrest after a fierce battle with the police and goes to San Francisco where he becomes a stevedore. Remorse fills him when he thinks of his mother and he returns to her. She fails to recognize him as her son, but when she does so, finally, she faints. Trimble runs for a physician into the arms of the police and, Mrs. Trimble dies. Arrested as Martin, Trimble reveals his identity and refers the police to his mother for proofs of his statement, he being unaware of her death. Trimble is tried, convicted of murder and sentenced to death. Meanwhile, his former wife who had remarried under the impression that she was a widow, is appealed to in his behalf, and she visits him in his cell, but when he recognizes her, and realizes that she is happy in her new-found love, he self-sacrificingly convinces her that he is Martin, an assassin, and smilingly goes to his doom. In the cast are Kathryn Williams, Raymond Hatten, Elliott Dexter, Tully Marshall and other well known screen stars, all familiar to admirers of Paramount and Arctcraft pictures. The picture created the deepest impression and evoked much praise. Today is your last opportunity to see this magnificent production. ::DISCOUNT— Saturday is the last day for receiving discounts on electric light bills for July lighting.
