Burglars collect Loot; Fail To take it

Entrance Made to S.A. McDonald's and 5-and-10 Over Christmas Holiday.

While citizens were celebrating the Christmas holiday, burglars were busy attempting to take $800 worth of loot from S. A. MacDonald's Dry Goods store. Helping themselves to three suit cases and a trunk from the stock in the store, they proceeded to fill these containers with goods and remove them to the roof of the building. However, the prowlers left without taking their loot any further. It is believed that they were scared away before completing the job.

The break was discovered yesterday morning when employees returned to start work after the holiday. A casual glance revealed that a number of articles were missing and the city police were immediately notified. Constables A. J. Land and L. A. McNis investigated and found the goods on the roof not far from a skylight.

Apparently the Woolworth building nearby was also visited and a few articles, including hand bags, stolen. This loot was found with the dry goods.

The prowlers selected some of the best goods in the MacDonald store for their loot. Two Hudson seal coats, some best grade dresses, windbreakers and high quality hosiery, were found in the loot left on the roof.

The skylight was forced on the Woolworth building, but the one at the dry goods store showed no signs of having been tampered with. It is suggested that probably the burglars secreted themselves somewhere in the MacDonald store at closing time on Christmas Eve, and went about their work of filling the suitcases and trunk on Christmas morning. It is believed that the loot was taken to the roof with the intention of taking it away that night.

Police Chief A. Birwhistle said he believed the break occurred Christmas night. Mr. Fred Moore, of Moore & MacLeod's, a firm adjoining the Woolworth store, went to the store at about one o'clock yesterday morning to check the furnace. While there he turned on all the lights in the building. He thought the burglars were at work at the time, and seeing the sudden blaze of light nearby, believed their efforts were discovered and fled.

Police investigation of the case continued last night. No arrests were made.

Newsman visits Wodehouse in Prison Camp

(Anrus Thuermer of the Associated Press Berlin staff, made a journey to a prison camp in Upper Silesia, Eastern Germany, with the permission of the British author, G. Wodehouse, the British author, who was taken prisoner when the German armies swept through northern France).

By ANGUS THUERMER Associated Press Staff Writer Constantinople, Dec. 26 (AP)—G. Wodehouse, the imperturbable creator of the Unexamined Jones, is cheerfully writing a book about United States crooks to pass the days in a German civilian internment camp that has become the padded cell of a madhouse.

The English author's companions in confinement are truck drivers, car mechanics, Cambridge graduates, artists, Britons picked up by the Nazis all the way from Brest, Lithuania, Poland, the English Channel and from Kinnear, in Norway, to the Brenner Pass.

Wodehouse was arrested in occupation of a villa in Le Touquet, on the Channel, during the Nazi offensive last May. My visit to the Silesian camp where he and 100 other British subjects now are held inside barbed-wire fences was the result of long argument with German officials, which finally gave its permission.

Concerned With Novel I found him concerned with his new novel. He told me he was thinking of calling it "Money for Jam" but that he had changed the phrase didn't mean anything to a middle western American, he explained.

That's what I was afraid of. What it means is money for nothing, or easy kickbacks. Wodehouse, who is smiling and a battered old cap from his shining head, stretched out a hand and said: "Well, you see, it's certainly grand of you to come down to see me."

He was wearing a long, heavy tan winter coat and a blue turtle-neck sweater; a tweed sports jacket, trousers and a pair of knit socks. He carried a brief case containing sheets of paper—the innards of his new book.

Coming over here to east Germany came as an absolute blow to me," he said. "It all happened so quickly, you know, that I really didn't have a chance to leave France."

Really before I could do anything, the war was over for me. By the end of May the whole thing was settled by treaty, and I was in a French prison. Shortly the prisoners—Wodehouse and his odd assortment of companions—were transferred to this camp, and from here to the present camp, a group of red brick buildings with barred windows which formerly was an insane asylum.

Right Note With Captors Wodehouse, who obviously struck the right note with his German captors by his gracious bearing and cordiality endeared himself to more than one of them. He refused to accept special housing privileges. The commandant, in view of Wodehouse's age (he's 59), his position in the world and the work he is doing, offered to remove him from a room with 60 other internees and place him in a private room.

Wodehouse refused, saying he would stay with the others. In order that he might take to his bunk a half-pound of American pipe tobacco, some soap and a can of baked beans which was a present from the Associated Press, the little group went to the dormitory where the English author is "bedded down."

In the twilight the lone room resembled anything but the villa from which Wodehouse came. Unshaded light bulbs hung down from the ceiling and many of the best were far from looking their best.

Wodehouse, who is president of the camp library, said: "I have of my own books, being read by room-mates. You can imagine how flattering it is to have 14 in one room reading your books at the same time."

As to the food, which the Nazis say is the same in amount and quality as that given the German population, he said he was becoming "a great admirer of the German potato."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26 (AP)—The White House said today that more than 150 prominent United States citizens had urged President Roosevelt to "make it the settled policy of this country to do everything that may be necessary to insure the defeat of the Axis powers." The group, comprising editors, lawyers, authors, educationists, actors, and religious and labor leaders, set forth their appeal in a letter. They urged that all possible be done to promote "resistance" to the plausible but fatal arguments of appeasement.

The Provincial Bank of Canada Annual Report

Profits Well Maintained—High Ratio of Liquidity

The annual report of the Provincial Bank of Canada covering operations for the year ended 30th November last shows profits at about the same level of 1939, as well as a high ratio of liquidity.

The profits for the year, after making all appropriations for contingent accounts, stand at $436,684.43 compared to $407,173.10 in the previous year. These profits added to the balance of $247,908.19 at the credit of Profit and Loss account on November 30th, 1939, total $684,592.62. Out of this account, a provision of $145,600 has been made for Federal and Provincial taxes, which are substantially higher than in 1939; $50,000 has been appropriated for depreciation on real estate; Dividends at the rate of 6 per cent which were paid to shareholders during the year represent a sum of $240,000. These deductions make a total of $435,600, thus leaving a balance at credit of Profit and Loss account of $248,992.62.

There has been a notable increase in the amount of cash on hand which stands at $11,439,400.00, is $2,400,000 in excess of last year. Negotiable securities held by the Bank have been reduced as a result of contraction in deposits of the Federal Reserve Bank of Montreal and in the reduction of balances to Banks in foreign countries.

Security holdings which, last year stood at a high figure as a result of certain temporary deposits, have gone from $32,900,000 to $22,000,000. Short term securities were casted at maturity. Total quick assets including cash amount to $37,083,000 is equivalent to the best ratio of 77 per cent of the liabilities to the public. In 1939, this ratio of liquidity was 75 per cent.

Loans and discounts including loans to municipalities and school commissions remain at approximately the same level. The total amounts to $15,821,000, or a reduction of only $300,000 as compared with the previous year. Deposits by the public stand at $46,359,000 compared to $43,125,000 in November, 1939. This reduction is largely attributable to public subscription to the War Loans. Deposits bearing interest total $37,000,000, a reduction of $3,000,000, while on the other hand non-interest bearing deposits totalling $9,359,000 have increased by $1,400,000. Federal and Provincial Government deposits show a decrease from $4,700,000 to $1,500,000.

The annual general meeting of shareholders which will take place at the Bank's Head Office in Montreal, will be held on 9th January, 1941.

Enterprise Marks 30th Anniversary Of Spencer Company

Reference was made in these columns recently to the plans of the F. G. Spencer Company, Ltd., for the erection of a new picture theatre in Truro. This will make three theatres operated by the Spencer Company in Truro, and twenty-two in all throughout the Maritime Provinces. The occasion is well chosen, as this year marks Mr. Spencer's thirtieth anniversary in the motion picture business.

Summerside was the scene of Mr. Spencer's first venture into the industry. Success came at once, so he looked farther afield. Truro was an almost immediate choice—together with Charlottetown, Picton, New Glasgow, Yarmouth and Saint John.

The following appreciative sketch of Mr. Spencer's career is from the Saint John Evening Times-Globe: Starting with a modest capital, vision of the great development the years have brought in the motion picture business, faith in the Maritimes, and with a fortunate background of experience gained through providing for the public high entertainment of a varied character, Mr. Spencer added business capacity and undoubted energy. All of these factors have made possible continuous progress and enlargement of his enterprise. Today, his circuit of theatres—some constructed by himself—others under lease—are serving the public in the most important Maritime centres.

Mr. Spencer might have continued in the tailoring business, and probably made a success of it, but opportunity along another line came when he was back in the picture industry a boy, in the employ of his uncle in the Gilmour firm of tailors and clothes. Instead, he went into the promotion of musical entertainment and the picture business, finally to all leading Canadian cities, a succession of the queens of song and great men singers and artists who have won reputations on both continents. By dint of hard and patient work, much of it by personal interviews at the outset, Mr. Spencer won the confidence of the public in the merit of his offerings. One success led to another until the cycle had been completed, and he adopted the business which has since engaged his attention. But, Mr. Spencer was to leave memories of splendid success, in the highest field of entertainment, which proved a convenient stepping-stone into a newer, and eventually more popular and reliable type.

Through Various Stages In the motion picture business, Mr. Spencer carried on during the days of the slap-stick and phrasing comedies; the Western thriller; times when vaudeville was interspersed in the picture program and always with faith and confidence in its ultimate future.

Through the years photographic development made possible the successful presentation of the classics and great stories of vital interest, with the added impetus of the world's greatest actors to the screen through the medium of spectacular productions, and then to the "talkies" and the phantasy of the animated cartoon made possible through the genius of Walt Disney. Finally, the motion picture as anticipated came into its own—one of its most recent crowning achievements, probably "Gone With the Wind."

And now, because of the international situation, many hesitate to make a move which might suggest financial risk. Mr. Spencer takes a further step in advance by announcing an additional business outlet as he enters the fourth decade of a busy life in motion picture presentation—not so busy, however, but that much time is taken out for any activity for public good.

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Dec. 26 (CP)—Canada's only quadruplets, the Mahaneys, observed Christmas Day quietly at their modest home here. The occasion, as usual, was a double event for the three girls and one boy, who were born here on Christmas Day 17 years ago. This was the first Christmas to pass without the quads receiving gifts and greetings from outside Saint John.

LONDON, Dec. 26 (CP)—The Government, anxious to make life healthier and comfortable for the millions of Britons who spend their nights underground, is launching a countrywide campaign to educate the public in the use of air raid shelters as dormitories. Millions of leaflets, together with posters, newspaper advertisements, films and radio talks will be used in the campaign to be directed chiefly at health and undisturbed in public shelters.

Guard Barracks Being erected

Old man winter is no hindrance to about 25 Charlottetown carpenters and labourers who have been engaged at the Ordnance Ground at present erecting three large buildings designed for the use of the Veterans Guard of Canada. The workmen are fast changing the landscape from white to red with the clay from post holes which are being dug for the concrete piers.

In types the buildings are similar to those at the Military Training Centre and the Airport. A large building in the shape of the letter "H" will be erected for housing the 170 members of the Guard. Another shaped like the letter "T" will be used for a dining hall and kitchen. A smaller building will be used for housing the officers. This latter one will be built to accommodate eight men. All will be one-storey buildings and the exterior will be covered with roofing material. At present the foundations have been prepared and the concrete pouring has commenced. One crew of men is occupied digging holes, another preparing wooden forms while a third is pouring cement. It is expected that the work will be completed within two months. In the meantime the members of the Guard are housed at the Drill Shed. The project is in charge of Lieut. John Spence, one of the engineering staff of the Royal Canadian Engineers. Mr. Frank Lacey of Charlottetown is foreman of the work. Major R. H. Duvar is Officer Commanding the Veterans' Guard.

OTTAWA, Dec. 26 (CP)—The Earl of Athlone made public today the text of a message sent to the King and Queen on behalf of the people of Canada. The message read: "I have the honor on behalf of the people of Canada to send to Your Majesty and to Her Majesty the Queen our respectful good wishes for Christmas and the New Year."

In Memoriam

In loving memory of John L. Taylor, who died Dec. 27, 1937. God only knows the loneliness That fills our hearts today. Leave them unopened letters ago When he had passed away. If all the world was ours to give We give it yet and more. If we could only see his face And clasp his hand once more, He will never be forgotten. Never will his memory fade. Sweetest thoughts will always linger Round the grave where he is laid. Mr. and Mrs. Jas. J. Taylor and family.
