Exhibits Show Improvement At Prince Co. Fair

3,000 Attend Egmont Bay - Mt. Carmel Exhibition Yesterday.

Egmont Bay and Mount Carmel Exhibition went over the top this year both in attendance and number of exhibits. The quality was far superior to other years. The juniors excelled in their exhibits of calves and poultry. The handicrafts especially the woollens were the admiration of the visitors. The lovely September weather brought about 3,000 visitors to view the 1-260 odd exhibits, which was a third more than last year. Extra stalls had to be erected to hold the stock which was far in excess of other years. The main hall where the official opening took place was very gay with gladioli and other flowers that would do credit to much larger shows. Rev. F. X. Gallant presided and introduced the Premier and other speakers and congratulated the exhibitors on their splendid array of agricultural products. Premier Campbell speaking in French spoke very highly of the exhibits and warmly congratulated the district on their splendid showing. Mr. A. E. MacLean, M.P., said for a purely agricultural fair without any side attractions the attendance was remarkable and reflected great credit on the community. Mr. Justice Arsenault spoke briefly praising the exhibits and Hon. W. H. Dennis, Mr. Langlois of the Magdalen Islands, also spoke and expressed great pleasure at being privileged to be present at such a splendid rural exhibition. Mr. Marin Gallant, member for the third district, also congratulated the exhibitors and directors on their splendid showing.

Horses—This class was one of the finest and most numerous that had ever been brought to Egmont Bay fair. Mr. George Kilson of Hampshire judged this class and spoke very highly of the splendid turnout. The colts were especially good. The heaviest exhibit was the general purpose and draft horses. Mr. Levi Gallant, Union Corner, was the principal exhibitor, and took several prizes including 2nd prize, donated by His Honor Lieut. Governor DeBlois, for best draft mare. Mr. James LeClair captured the first prize and Mr. Gus L. Arsenault, third.

Cattle Classes—This exhibit was judged by Mr. L. W. Roper who was much pleased with the progress made. The Holstein exhibit although few in number was very fair in quality. The Ayrshire classes were much larger than previous years in number and there were some outstanding individuals in the various classes and they were all exhibited in good condition. The Shorthorn were possibly the best conditioned group on the grounds and were of excellent quality and large in number. Guernseys though fewer in quantity than either Shorthorns or Ayrshires showed excellent quality and were greatly admired by the onlookers. This breed has only been established for the past year or two in this district. The Governor's special prizes were won by Emil Bernard 1st; Cyrus P. Gallant 2nd; and Etienne LeClair 3rd for best dairy cow. Diploma for champion heifer 2 years old went to Joseph Gallant, St.

—MILK OF MAGNESIA liquid or tablets, Taylor Drug Co., Kensington.

—PATIENTS IN THE PRINCE COUNTY HOSPITAL This week were Mr. Alfred Gillis, Tignish; Mrs. Lorne Burtleigh, Ebersole; Mr. John Handrahan, Tignish; Mr. Peter P. Cahill, Tignish; Mr. Alear Polrier, Richmond and Miss May Gaudet, Tignish.—S.

—INJURED WHILE THRESHING—Mr. Calvin Leard, mail carrier for Bedeque, had the misfortune to have his arm caught in the belt of the threshing machine while threshing grain on his farm at Centreville Bedeque yesterday. His arm was very badly bruised but no bones were broken. Mr. Leard was brought in to Summerside and the injury attended to. Later Mr. Leard was able to return to his home where he is resting as comfortable as can be expected under the circumstances.—S.

Phillip, Champion heifer one year old to Aiyre A. Arsenault, Abrams Village and champion heifer calf to Frank F. Arsenault, Abrams Village.

Calf Exhibits—This exhibit was very fine indeed and Mr. Roper who placed the ribbons was very high in his praise of the juniors. Three clubs were shown. Abrams Village and Urbainville Shorthorn Clubs were by all odds the best showing any junior clubs have made. The Guernsey Club from St. Raphael made its first showing since its organization and were very creditable to the exhibition. Visitors had the treat of seeing 16 calves lined up in one class. Theodore Arsenault won the special prize donated by J. F. Kennedy, Charlottetown, for the best calf on the grounds.

A special feature of the show was an exhibit of Shorthorn cattle from P. J. Martin's prize herd at Hunter River. Mr. Roper advised the farmers and especially the juniors to take particular note of this exhibit.

Sheep and Swine—Mr. S. D. Irvine who judged these classes said the lamb exhibit was smaller in number than last year. The breeding classes particularly in aged rams showed an improvement over any preceding exhibit at Egmont Bay which indicates the increased interest farmers in this vicinity were taking in flock sires. The lamb fair conducted in conjunction with the exhibition measured up reasonably well as compared with last year. The swine entries showed a moderate increase over last year. There has been a gradual increase in hog production and the exhibits are all of the desired bacon type contrasting somewhat to what was the case some years ago.

Poultry—The juniors were responsible for the poultry exhibit and Mr. F. M. Nash who judged this class said that the birds were the finest he had seen anywhere and that they could hold their own with any show in Canada. Augustine J. Arsenault who won the DeBlois special prize for best breeding pen with his Barred Rocks could have taken top prize any where.

The Egmont Bay Poultry club had some excellent birds and the utility pen shown by another group of youngsters was also worthy of special mention. Mr. Peppin speaking of the potatoes said this exhibit would be hard to beat anywhere in the province. The farmers were showing improvement in their selection and choice of types required. The turnip exhibit showed care in the selection of seed for show purposes. Both these exhibits were a very great improvement in quantity and quality than some other county exhibitions. Messrs Parent, Schurman and Cannon looked after the grain, roots and vegetables all of which were very highly complimented upon. There was a particularly good showing of pumpkins. The fruit exhibit with apples and cranberries leading were fine. Mr. Theodore Gallant, of Mont Carmel, took the prize for best ranched prizes with a pair of medium silvers. Mr. England, of Enmore, judged this class. The president and directors were very encouraged with this years fair and hope to go one better next year.

declaration against furtherance of future wars but the chance for common action would come next year at a fully representative conference in Edinburgh.

"I gravely fear for the future of the church if it suffers this enormity to overtake the world without raising its voice in forthright repudiation of it before it happened," said the Moderator.

He noted with "profound thankfulness" that the London Conference was petitioning the General Council that the introduction of superintendency be seriously considered during its sessions. He understood also that the commission on the settlement of ministers, which is to report in a day or two, would have a definite proposal to make along this line.

Referring to existing practice in the United Church, Dr. Roberts said: "Such an officer (bishop or superintendent) could do more in the matter of ministerial settlement by quiet and tactful action within an area with which he is familiar, much more and better than a settlement committee working in inevitable haste before and amid the distractions of conference."

Because of the vastness and sparse settlement of Canada, the Moderator contended. Presbyteries were unable to discharge fully their duty of overseeing ministers and congregations. Many ministers were laboring in remote fields without enjoying fellowship with their brethren. Superintendency would supplement the work of Presbyteries.

Dr. Roberts reviewed the life of the church during the past two years and made a special plea for the West. The church must discharge its primary duty of ministering to those who could not support a ministry and must also provide food and clothing for the needy in affected areas.

Lloyd George Levels Criticism In War Memoirs

standing faculty was stubbornness. Their abilities were average, their obstinacy abnormal."

Lloyd George also finds fault with the official history of the war. Commenting on the establishment of a special cabinet committee in 1917 to examine the question of man power, consisting of Lord Curzon, G. N. Barnes and General Smuts with himself as chairman, Lloyd George declares: "The official history declares in a tone of censure that not one of these was a soldier. That Smuts should be classed no soldier is surely a consummate example of the workings of the professional military mind. It is true that Smuts had not devoted all his life to soldiering. Neither had Chief of Staff Sir Herbert Lawrence. But those who campaigned against Smuts in the South African war could hardly deny his remarkable military qualities and in the Great War, after a brilliant campaign in German Southwest Africa, he commanded our forces in East Africa."

Lloyd George says allied casualties were too great.

"Our casualty figures in attack were as three to two of the Germans opposite our front. We habitually suffered 50 per cent. more casualties than we inflicted. On the other hand in the big German offensives of 1918 the proportion was reversed."

Discussing conscription in Ireland, he says the war cabinet was somewhat surprised to find Lord Carson was regretfully forced to the conclusion that its introduction was not worth contemplating in view of the disturbances which would be caused. Conscription, if unaccompanied by home rule, would have had a very damaging effect on public opinion in America.

The book has no specific references to Canadians.

A scathing criticism of General John J. Pershing and of the whole American Great War machine also is contained in the fifth volume of the memoirs.

Lloyd George's indictment of Pershing is based on what he termed the A.E.F. Commander-in-chief's stubborn fight to keep his divisions intact instead of having them incorporated in the allied armies.

Almost the whole first year of American participation in the Great War, he asserts, was "a comparatively insignificant" contribution

Notes and Comments on Kensington Convention C. W. L.

Delegates will remember with pleasure the delightful hospitality of the people of Kensington and Indian River.

No "Key" was needed "to the hearts of the people, the presentation of the "Key to the Town" being evidence of this cordial welcome.

A message of greeting and good wishes for success was received from the National President Miss Florence Boland of Toronto. A telegram conveying appreciation and expressing loyal co-operation was dispatched to Miss Boland, at the close of convention sessions.

Proof of the interest taken in the work of the League, was shown by the 100% attendance at the opening meeting. The attention given the speakers, and musical artists on the program was a distinct tribute of appreciation to each for the helpful message conveyed.

The value of united endeavor is made clear when one hears for the first time the accomplishments of the League Nationally. Charlotte-town Diocese is to be congratulated on the splendid work done in all League activities, parish work being the foundation, with assistance given to all charitable and educational endeavors.

The business sessions of Convention were attended by a still larger number of delegates and visitors than formerly.

The Study club discussion proved highly interesting and educative, and the ladies too are deeply interested in the credit Union and co-operative buying system. The art of public speaking is being cultivated, as was shown in the lively and intelligent discussion, during sessions.

A feature of convention with which every one was pleased was the presentation of a Service Pin, to Mrs. F. J. Casey, Charlottetown.

of "a mighty republic to the struggle in France."

At the end of the war, he declares, half of the airplanes used by American aviators were of French or British makes. No American-made field piece fired a single shot during the war. Not a single American-made tank rolled into action.

Lloyd George pays tribute to the American navy as highly serviceable against submarines and in conveying transports. American soldiers, he writes, were "superb" and their presence enabled France and Great Britain to fling their last reserves against Germany.

the insurgent captors of that highway hamlet.

(Dispatches from insurgent headquarters at Talavera said Fascist forces had penetrated within a few miles of Toledo.)

Within this ancient capital of Ferdinand and Isabella, the Government command ordered a supreme effort to kill the last remaining insurgents in the wrecked Alcazar, so the attackers could be free to join their comrades beaten back on the Maqueda-Torrijos front.

A consolidated defence with fresh reinforcements alone could save Toledo from falling to the insurgents, the Government leaders feared.

And the siege of Alcazar was a race against time.

In response to a Government appeal, volunteers scrambled into the blasted ruins of the ancient citadel from all sides, and in bitter sallies drove the defenders deep down into the dungeons where their families were huddling.

It was the 64th day of the siege of the Alcazar.

Premier Francisco Largo Caballero visited Toledo late in the day and inspected the various phases of attack and defence. Detachments of Catalan troops, it was announced, were in forced marches on Toledo to aid in its defence.

a small token of appreciation, for an unlimited amount of service in the League.

There were many of the clergy of the Diocese present at the public opening of Convention, and also at the business sessions.

The inspiring sermon of Convention Mass will long remain in the hearts of all who had the privilege of being present on that morning in the beautiful church of St. Mary's of the Pines, Indian River.

The newly elected President, Mrs. Harold J. Hynes, of Montague, and officers, for the coming year were installed by the retiring President, Mrs. Murry. Mrs. Hynes was appointed Delegate, and Mrs. (Dr.) Gillis alternate to the next National Convention, to be held in Kingston, Ontario, June 1937!

"Where is our next Annual Diocesan Convention to be held? Some one who is interested inquired.

"In the lovely town of Souris, by the sea." All were happy to accept the gracious invitation.

DECISION

gue of Nations decision today to seat representatives of Ethiopia prevents the attendance of an Italian delegation, an authoritative source said tonight.

In some quarters it was held that Italy's reply would be resignation from the League. This belief, however, received no official confirmation.
