Good Templars from all over the civilized world were in Washington, D.C., last week in attendance upon the international convention of the organization, which opened in Pythian Hall, and which will continue for eight days. The convention opened on Wednesday with Edward Wavrin, international chief templar, presiding. After an opening prayer by Rev. M. Bruce of Steham, regular business was conducted. Many delegates will not arrive until to-day. There were about one hundred present at the morning meeting among the officers present were: Rev. E. A. McPhee from Prince Edward Island.

The Halifax Herald prints the following. The str. Daged is at present in this port. "On the steamer Bruce, which arrived here yesterday morning, was an anxious parent, whose hurried visit was in quest of a runaway son. The man's trip, however, was not in vain, for in less than an hour after he arrived here he had located and took possession of the wayward youthful. Last week, shortly before the Dobell steamer Daged, Captain Steensen, left her berth at one of the wharves at St. John's Newfoundland, a bright, though sad-faced youth went on board and in mournful tones told the good-natured commander that he wanted his passage to North Sydney. His widowed mother with her smaller sisters were living there and wanted him to join them where he could find work and assist them to keep the wolf from the door. In proof of this he handed Captain Steensen a pathetic letter purporting to be from his mother, but which really was written by the youth himself. Thinking he was doing a charitable act the Captain took the boy on board and conveyed him here. He surprised yesterday morning was great when the boy's father came on board the steamer lying at the coal pier and told his story. But the youth, perhaps, got the biggest scare. The father was at a loss to understand why the son would leave home. Being of independent means the boy knew not what want meant. The only explanation the father could give is that his son had always a craving to be on board steamers. He accompanied his father home by last night's trip of the Bruce.

The large audiences which filled the auditorium at New Wonderland on Saturday night, were more than pleased with the excellence of the bill of fare presented. The pictures were without a flicker, and the scenes treated in the picture machine has undergone at the hands of the present operator, is distinctly noticeable in the perfectness of the depictions. The music both instrumental and vocal is worthy of more than passing note. Miss McKinnon is a singer who appeals to all hearts; and Mrs. Trainor sings perfectly every chord of a master instrument. New Wonderland is rapidly becoming the favorite place wherein to spend a pleasant half hour; with the privilege of extending the time limit to the entire evening if the patron so desires.

Errors and carelessness lost the final game of the Junior Baseball League for the Orioles at the Victoria Park on Saturday afternoon. The Orioles won the trophy on Thursday by defeating the Mic Macs for the third time, which probably accounts for the loose playing. The score was even up till the sixth inning being 6-6, when some bad muffs by the Orioles gave the red men a lead of three runs which they then increased to five, the game ending with a score of 11-7. The line up was as follows:—

Mic Macs
L. Campbell, pitcher
T. McCloskie, catcher
E. Dorman, 1st base
A. McLellan, 2nd base
R. Nelson, 3rd base
T. McQuaid, short stop
B. McKenzie, right field
D. Atwood, center field
E. McCarey, left field

Orlebars
C. Musgrave, pitcher
C. Milford, catcher
W. Bearisto, 1st base
W. Gillespie, 2nd base
J. Lowe, 3rd base
J. Hazard, short stop
F. Matheson, right field
G. Whittlock, center field
A. McLeod, left field
Ben Rattenbury umpired the game. Struckout by Campbell, 4, by Musgrave, 7, Base on balls, off Campbell, 2; off Musgrave, 2; hit by pitched ball, McKenzie. It is hoped that these teams will play again as the games furnished keen excitement for the large crowds of spectators that attend.
