LETTER OF SYMPATHY

The following letter of sympathy has been received by Mrs. Daniel McKinnon from G. Millar Campbell.

No. 1. S. of A. Readings, Eng. 26-7-18.

Dear Mrs. McKinnon:—In one of my recent letters from home I received the sad news of Dannie's sacrifice and as an old friend of himself and the family I must drop a note to assure you of my regard for his sacrifice and my sincere sympathy with you and the family in your bereavement. Having suffered a similar loss less than a year ago, I think I can appreciate the depth of your feelings and also how ineffectual any words of mine will be to lessen your loss or ease your sorrow. At first one has thoughts for nothing but one's loss—a loved one has departed and will not return,—nothing clear and distinct, and at such a time, when we are overwhelmed by that one fact, words of sympathy and encouragement seem like so many small drops of water on a huge roaring fire devastating everything in its pathway. But out of it all comes the realization that there is something that fire cannot destroy, something not made of base material clay, which start from this earthly body, knows no physical pain or sorrow.

Then, if we before were blinded by the sadness and magnitude of our loss, we know that this cannot be the end that we are not parted forever and there comes into our hearts that great hope in the resurrection and life eternal, the one and only hope that bids death of its sting and the grave its victory, the hope and realization of a splendid and lasting reunion when all shall be young again in a new life because "old things are passed away." At this time, and especially in such a cause it is not so hard to go, except for the thought of the tears and sorrows of those, one leaves behind, but life itself is very short and soon we shall all have completed our allotted span.

Then, when we are called to go, who of us can say that our life has been devoted to another man's cause, who would not have on his page of the book of "Life—the blessing words": "Pro Deo, Pro rege, Pro Patria"—for God, for ones' home and loved ones, that for King, for Native Land they might live on in peace and security. We who are left owe a greater debt than we can ever repay to the boys who have given their lives and made the supreme sacrifice that we might live the life of the freedom, that the world might be delivered from slavery. The least we can do is to honor their memory and hold it sacred but mothers through their tears can be proud and thankful that God has given them such sons.

We, his friends, can hold Dannie in loving memory and be proud of him as a son of Canada, you as his mother have a right to be the proudest woman on earth. He did not linger when the call came to leave home and loved ones, and we may be sure that at the final call he did not flinch—a Canadian soldier does not but dies striking a glow for Canada and those he loves.

All I can say is that there are mothers in Canada today who can afford to envy you. My earnest prayer is that God in his boundless love will grant you the only real comfort you can have in your hour of heartache and sorrow. He can heal the broken heart and ease ones cares away. In His presence is fulness of joy and at His right hand there are pleasures forever more.

I am, humbly and sincerely yours, G. MILLAR CAMPBELL.

P. E. ISLANDER WRITES FROM GERMANY

Mr. William Deagle, Ebenezer, Lot 2, has received the following letter from Germany.

Medlen, Germany, Dec. 26, 1918

Dear Brother:—John I take pleasure in answering your most welcome letter which I received today and was delighted to hear from you.

I suppose you are glad the war is over as we all are and proud to say we are the winners. We had our last battle on November 8th and we gave the Germans a good beating and a few days later they asked peace for they knew they were beaten. We were in Belgium then and we got word that we would have to go to Germany as Occupation Troops so on Nov. 14th we started on our trip and we walked 15 miles a day and would rest a day or so for I tell you we were pretty tired from carrying our big pack, rifle and equipment. I must tell you of the country we passed through. It was very hilly and is known as the Highlands of Belgium but was awfully pretty. The little towns at the foot of the hills and the farms stretch across the hills as far as the eye could see.

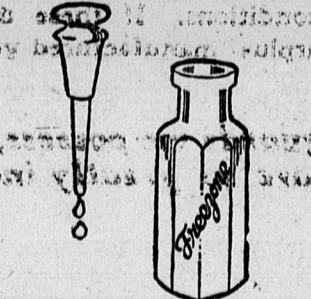

The farmers plough with oxen which seemed awfully strange to us who are used of seeing horses ploughing.

Well, Dec. 5th we came to the German Border and the way the boys cheered I thought they would deafen me but you know how glad we were, being the Victory Troops. We got to the river Rhine on Dec. 13th. Little did the Germans think in 1914, that in 1918 the Canadians would cross the Rhine but we got there just the same. The river is not very wide but is a wondrously very pretty and is spanned by some very beautiful bridges. The part of Germany that we passed through is much the same as Belgium but strange to us the people are awfully kind to us and seem to be glad that the war is over even though they are beat. Well I must not tire you with too long a story. I think I have told near all that would be of any interest to you only that we had a very good Xmas dinner couldn't wish for any better for the chance we had. I'll be enjoying next Christmas at home if Fritz don't start up again. I hope Herby is well by this time for I have been worrying quite a lot about him. Give my love to mother and Fred, Olive

RUBBERS

FOR LITTLE FEET

YOU can get the same sturdy wear—the same guaranteed quality—for the Children, that you have found so satisfactory in your own rubbers.

"The best rubbers that can be made" is the standard of the Dominion Rubber System. And this applies to ALL rubbers bearing the Trademarks of the Dominion Rubber System.

Children's rubbers are made with the same care, of the same high-grade materials that give such easy comfort, such long wear, in the rubbers for men and women.

This superior quality is necessary in Children's rubbers because they need the extra protection which good rubbers give on wet days; and they need the extra quality to withstand the rougher usage which most children give to all footwear.

Ask for these better rubbers by name:

"Jacques Cartier" "Granby"

"Merchants" "Dominion"

"Maple Leaf" "Daisy"

Get the little feet properly fitted. It means more than comfort—it means longer wear, both for shoes and rubbers.

The Trademarks are your guarantee of sturdy, reliable quality and a perfect fit for every shoe for every member of the family.
