GAVE CONCERT—The League of the Cross Band gave a most enjoyable entertainment Wednesday night at Falconwood Hospital. Besides an excellent programme of musical numbers, several snappy choruses were rendered. The band was assisted by Miss Bernadette Connolly who contributed several solos. After the entertainment a short dance was held and light refreshments served.

NOTICE TO "BOOTLEGGERS" AND OTHER BREAKERS OF THE LAW. —It has been customary for some time not to publish the names of accused persons and their witnesses when appearing in court. In future the Guardian will publish these as a matter of course with the hope of putting a stop to "bootlegging", which is an illegal and dishonorable calling.

ON BUYING TRIP—Mr. Lloyd E. Wellner has been in Toronto for the past week on a buying trip in the interests of his old established firm the W. W. Wellner Co., Ltd. Mr. Wellner, who is a specialist in his business, is looking up the very latest articles suitable for wedding presents, bridge prizes and gifts of all kinds and has already secured several exquisite lines of china, cups and saucers, English lustre-ware, Japanese goods, etc. and also many novelties in brass and other popular lines. Mr. Wellner left Tuesday night for New York, where he will spend several days and returns to Montreal to complete his buying before returning home.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING. —On February 11th, about seventy guests gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher LePage of South Rustico, for the purpose of celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary. A very joyous evening was spent by all present renewing old acquaintances, together with a program of music, songs and speeches. Mr. and Mrs. LePage who are still hale and hearty have lived all their married life on the same farm, where they not only have been successful in building up a beautiful home but have always been ready to help in anything that was for the best welfare of the community. Their family are living with the exception of one little girl, Emma May, who died in infancy. Only one of the family, Mrs. C. W. Depew of Boston, was absent from this joyous event. Those of the family present were: Oliver and James L. of South Rustico, Garfield R. of Rusticville and Bradford W. of Charlottetown.

The British Empire Exhibition

More About London's Historic Entertainments

Returning to the subject of the old Lyceum, of which we were speaking in our previous article, it was here that Madame Tussaud, upon her arrival in England in 1830 first exhibited her collection of figures. It was not until 1809 that the building became a regular theatre, and a year later its name was changed to that of the English Opera House, but it was not long before it again became known as the Lyceum, the name it has borne ever since. Now it is the home of melodrama, with a pantomime at Christmas. Close by stood Exeter Change, famous for its wild beasts and monsters, pictures of which were dangled all over the frontage. It was the "Zoo" of that day and was regarded as one of the sights of London. Here was exhibited from 1809 until 1826 the celebrated elephant "Chunee," which had been engaged for the first production of "Bluebeard" at Covent Garden. When "Chunee" went mad it required a file of soldiers and 152 bullets to kill him.

Pall Mall used to be a rare place for shows, especially of pictures in the old "Star and Garter" house was exhibited from 1815 the Waterloo Collection of portraits and battle scenes, with helmets, sabres, firearms, and other spoils. At No. 121, Campanani showed his Etruscan and Greek antiquities in rooms fitted up as "Chambers of the Tombs." Pall Mall has at one end Marlborough House (the residence of Queen Alexandra) not far from Buckingham Palace and the London Museum; and, at the other end, Trafalgar Square with the National Gallery and the National Portrait Gallery, all of which Colonial visitors will want to see. Trafalgar Square, it may be mentioned, is the very centre of London's houses of entertainment. The Pantheon, in Oxford Street, was another old place of amusement. Built in 1770 it used to be celebrated for its masquerades, the money squandered at the last of these being computed to be £20,000, although tradesmen go unpaid and the industrious poor are starving.

Here, in 1783, a ball masque, got up by a noted clown of the period named Delphin, took place in honour of the coming of age afterwards George IV; and in the following year there was exhibited the balloon in which Lunardi had made his first successful ascent. Miss Linwood's famous collection of needlework pictures was shown here in 1796-8, previous to its final removal to Leicester Square. In the early years of the nineteenth century Madame Tussaud's and Miss Linwood's were the only two exhibitions in London, and it is remarkable that they should have been run by women both of whom died at a great age of ninety. Very few people remember old Madame Tussaud; indeed it was only the other day that the splendid veteran actress, Princess Consort and the Duke of Wellington, down to June, 1848.

Tea Drinkers Meeting in N. Y.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—A conference that will decide what kinds of tea American tea drinkers will be permitted to have during the coming year convened at the custom house here today. The meeting is of the board of tea experts appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, in conformity with the tea inspection act.

Standards of purity, quality and fitness for consumption of all teas entering the United States will be measured, selected and recommended to Secretary Wallace for approval. The approved standards will go into effect May 1. The tea inspection act requires fixing of such standards to prevent importation of impure teas, dangerous to health. New standards are chosen each year to vary with the crops and changing conditions.

Cleanliness---A Modern Idea

SHORTLY before the Civil War, Boston made it a serious offense to take a bath except on the advice of a physician. The Philadelphia Council tried to make it illegal to bathe between November 1 and March 15 and failed by one vote. Virginia placed a luxury tax of $30 on each bathtub in the state.

Ideas regarding cleanliness have changed materially since then. In fact, ideas on almost everything have undergone something of a metamorphosis. To-day, these changes are taking place more rapidly than ever before. There has never been a time when evolution hit such a furious pace—when conditions changed so quickly—when standards of living were raised so consistently.

You may not realize it, but advertising is responsible for much of this improvement. Advertising has taken its place as a leading force in solving the wants of the people.

Stop and think how many of the appliances you use, the foods you eat, the clothes you wear and other articles entering into your daily life, were popularized through newspaper advertising.

Then you will realize what a debt you owe to advertising.
