

Central Guardian

This column is reserved for news of local interest, but advertising of a sordid nature may be inserted at five cents a word, strictly payable in advance.

JIMMIE'S TAXI, phone 525.

GRASWELL for Photographs.

CAR BOOKS ON SALE. Limited quantity. Get yours today.

CONFEDERATION LIFE INSURANCE.

GRANDLER BROS. for all Ply-wood requirements.

NEW 1949 CAR BOOKS now available. Get your copy while they last.

STRAW HATS—Panama, Tropical Mesh, etc., at Jack Cameron's, Queen Street, temporary quarters over Tombs Music Store.

KENT BEAUTY SHOPPE closing for holidays August 22nd to September 7th, inclusive.

SMOKERS!! Don't fail to see our fine assortment of Pipes. Best in the City. Lambros Tobacco Store.

NEWS AGENTS. — If your supply of Car Books is inadequate, contact Henderson and Cudmore, Charlottetown, for further supplies. Limited number available.

NAME OMITTED—In the death notice of Ray Hennessey which appeared yesterday morning the name of Sr. Mary Lawrence in the Precious Blood Monastery, Charlottetown, was inadvertently omitted from the names of his surviving sisters.

HAYING ACCIDENT—Friends of Mrs. Bruce MacDonald, North Wiltshire, will regret to learn that she is a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital following an accident while riding on a load of hay the cart overturned throwing Mrs. MacDonald to the ground and fracturing her hip.

Personals

Mr. Gordon Docherty, Kingston, was a recent visitor to Appin Road where he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Gass, and family.

Mr. George Campbell leaves on return today to Boston, resuming his position on the faculty at Tufts College, after a pleasant holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Campbell, Pownal St.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Brennick, two daughters and son, William, left Friday morning for their home in Somerville, Mass. They spent ten days here visiting Mr. and Mrs. Owen McGarry, Southport, Mr. and Mrs. William McInnis, 249 Euston Street, City, Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly, Gerald St., and at Mr. Brennick's old home in Iona. They arrived by motor via Borden and left on return by the Wood Islands route. They will visit friends in New Glasgow, N.

TRUCKS for SALE

NEW

2 KES 5 International 159" W.B. 2-Speed Axle.

1 KB 5 International 177" W.B. Long wheel base suitable for hauling lumber, etc.

1 KB 3 1/2-ton International.

USED CARS & TRUCKS

1 1947 Mercury 1-ton with hydraulic hoist and gravel box. Registered.

1 1947 KB 5 International with platform and rack. Perfect condition. A new Ground Grip tires this spring. Registered.

1 1939 Plymouth Coupe. Priced to sell.

1 1946 Vanguard Sedan. Slightly used as demonstrated. A real bargain.

Convenient terms arranged to suit purchaser.

W. R. JENKINS

Your HUDSON & INTERNATIONAL DEALER

"Service Follows Sales"

Mid-Season Clearance

Drastic discounts are now in effect at both the Ladies' and Men's Greendal Store.

COMPARE OUR PRICES BEFORE BUYING ELSEWHERE

FOR EXAMPLE A FEW MEN'S SPECIALS

SHORTS 69c

SPORT SHIRTS $1.95

DRESS SHIRTS $1.88

WORSTED PANTS $4.95

THE GREENDAL Co. Ltd.

LADIES' STORE MEN'S STORE

88 Queen Street 144 Great George

This Side Of Glory

By Gwen Erislow

Author Of "Deep Summer" "The Handsome Road," etc.

CHAPTER II

"This is where I live," said Kester. "I thought we'd go in and have some coffee to clear the dust out of our throats."

"In your mother at home?" she asked.

"I believe she and my father are out making calls. But the servants are here. So come on in!" he urged. "It's the only place around where we can get any drinkable coffee."

She consented, and Kester started to drive down the avenue.

Eleanor exclaimed with admiration. From the gates two lines of live oaks led to a vast white house, half hidden by the festoons of gray moss hanging from the trees.

As they came to the end of the avenue she saw the house, surrounded by a broad veranda with Doric columns reaching to the roof. The front door, which stood open like the gates, was high and wide, and on either side were windows reaching to the floor, with heavy curtains shadowing the rooms within.

As they got out of the car Eleanor stood still a moment, silent before the beauty of the place where Kester lived. The house was very Greek and at the same time very American.

"I've never seen a more beautiful place," she told him. "Let's go inside."

The main hall was wide and lofty, and near the entrance a spiral staircase curved up to the second floor. On the walls were portraits. It'd be glad to show them to her sometime, and the rest of the house if she wanted to see it. It was very large, with many rooms that no longer served any purpose but to wear out brooms. Originally there had been thirty besides the servants' quarters, though some of them had been cut up to make bathrooms and closets.

They crossed the hall into the parlor opposite the library. This was the main living room, and here were deep mahogany sofas, and a great square rosewood piano, and modernly represented by a photograph. On the wall hung a bellows of the sort ladies used to embroider to while away a journey up the river in the old steamboat days.

"Does that still work?" Eleanor asked.

"Why, yes," Kester gave it a pull.

A Negro man in a funeral black coat came in answer to the summons. Kester called him Camero. He ordered coffee, and Camero approached Eleanor with grave courtesy.

"Rest yo' wrap, miss?" he inquired.

Eleanor gave him her coat. Kester had begun to play a rag-time record on the phonograph. He turned it off as Camero came in and placed a tray with silver coffee service on a low table in front of the fire. Kester and Eleanor curled up on the floor, facing each other, and Eleanor poured the coffee.

"I can't tell you how I'm enjoying this!" she exclaimed. "It's so different from anything I've ever seen before. I live in a house in New Orleans that was built nine years ago, and we're always complaining that it isn't modern enough."

"I've often thought it would be might convenient to live in a new house," said Kester. "May I have some coffee, please, Ma'am?"

She refilled his cup. "If you knew my father," she continued, "you'd understand what I'm trying to tell you. He's so entirely of today. It's the typical American story—a self-made man, so proud of being able to give his children the chances he never had."

"I think I'd have known even if you hadn't told me," Kester said thoughtfully. "that you had a streak of power. You're like your father, aren't you?"

"People say I am. I've been working for him a long time—during the summers while I was at college, and regularly since I finished."

"Where'd you go to college?"

"Barnard. Where did you?"

"Williams. Did you like college?"

"Not particularly," said Eleanor. "I'm not very bookish, and the other girls seemed—well, so young. When you've lived on the river and seen real struggles, men fighting days and night to keep a flood back, you get used to fundamentals—you can't believe the most important thing on earth is the band of ribbon around your hair. I hope I don't sound like somebody trying to be superior, but do you understand?"

(To be continued)

our August Sale of Furs

Brings Back Values of the Good Old Days

A lot of years have passed since a sensible amount of money could buy so much beauty and quality in furs. Wait until you see the marvelous offerings in our August Fur Sale - - - you'll know that all you've heard about lower fur prices is true! And though prices are drastically lower, we haven't skimped on luxury. Our coats are beautifully matched, workmanship is right up to our usual high standard. Don't wait . . . come in today. Our store is cool . . . so you'll be comfortable while you give yourself plenty of time to make a wise decision.

MUSKRAT BACK COATS

The very best quality back Coats

$150 lower than 1948. Save during Aug.

$385

PERSIAN LAMB

Finest Russian skins, lighter in weight

Glossy black, beautifully matched. From $335

JAP. RABBIT COATS

Dyed in the most beautiful shades of mink and sable; save at August prices

$195

ELECTRIC SEAL (Dyed Rabbit)

Glossy jet black pelts, trimmed and plain, priced so low during August, from $219

MOUTON (Processed Lamb)

This coat is made for beauty and durability; one of our best values; Special

$159

SAVE UP TO 35% During August

Free Storage and Insurance Until Fall

