WHAT A MAN IS WORTH.

LEBANON, Ohio, Oct. 19.—A small, ordinary looking package that attracted no attention when it was thrown from a train at the station here contains all that is mortal of William Bean, a scientist, formerly of Lebanon, who died recently in Los Angeles.

It was Mr Bean's wish that when he died he be cremated and his ashes buried in his home town. The ashes were shipped in accordance with his wish, but as yet no one has called to claim them.

The package weighs eight pounds and arrived with the charges of $1.20 paid. The price of the ashes has been fixed by the shipper, for in large writing are the words: "Value $5." The consignee is Benjamin Mull, a farmer and relative, who has been notified by the express agent, but has sent no word concerning the ashes.

W. McPhee and Nicholas Colwill. The bidding was brisk, and good prices were realized. As soon as the contents of the baskets were disposed of, George Crews moved a vote of thanks to those from the city, who did so much to make the entertainment a success, and to Ex-Gov. McKinnon.
