On account of the repeated reports reaching Inspector Jenkins that a number of places in this city were opened during the greater part of each night, and in some cases all night, he decided to remain in the city last night and do the town. The Police officers had previously reported the city very quiet. The information gained last night only gave the inspector conclusive evidence that the officers were right in their conclusions. In only one case their conclusions were wrong. One case visited was intoxicating liquor being served. Several samples of the beer offered for sale was at other places willingly given to the inspector for analysis. Only one suspicious place remained open after twelve o'clock. The officers on duty very kindly accompanied the inspector on his rounds and Mr. Jenkins thinks it would be safe to say that no quieter city could be found in North America.

A TERRIBLE TRAIN ACCIDENT IN FRANCE

SAUMUR, France, November 23.—Sixty passengers, it is estimated, lost their lives through the plunging of a train into the river Thouet this morning, owing to the breakdown of a railroad bridge on the street railway at Montreuil-Bellay, in the department of the Maine El Loire. The train, which had started from Angers, was travelling to Poitiers. It contained about 100 passengers. While it was passing the bridge over the Thouet, the structure, which had been greatly weakened by recent floods, broke down, crashing, with the whole of the cars, into the swollen stream. Many of the passengers who succeeded in getting out of the cars through the windows, tried to save themselves by clinging desperately to the tops of trees which showed above the surface of the water.

SABRE-TOOTHED TIGERS.

A Vienna naturalist is bound for California to hunt for a specimen of the smilodon, a saber-toothed tiger. The smilodon no longer dwells in the valleys of California, and if the Vienna hunter succeeds it will be by digging deep into the earth. There have been no animals of this species in the state for about 8,000,000 years, but it is thought that the remains of one may be preserved somewhere in the earth.

vers of the German fleet in Scandinavian waters. The feeling has been increased rather than allayed by the publication of officially inspired articles explaining the manoeuvres in the Danish "Berlingske Tidende" and the Norwegian "Morgensbladet." It is believed that these explanations were made at the request of the German Government, but the people refuse to accept the assurance that the Baltic Belts are used only as the natural through passage from the German warships.
