Prince Edward Island Hospital Record One Of Great Progress

Has Served
Province For
Over 60 Years

After the Prince Edward Island Hospital was started in the year 1884 by the purchase and equipment of a private residence on St. Peter's Road, a total of sixty-three patients were treated in the first full year of operation and the total amount received by the Hospital for their care and accommodation was $343.16.

By way of contrast and evidencing the immense development and growth of hospitalization in this City and Province during the intervening sixty years the number of patients admitted to the Prince Edward Island Hospital in the year ending March 31, 1947, was 5,541 and the amount received by the Hospital for their care and accommodation was $213,238.04.

Here is another striking contrast. The former residence of Mr. H. Hazard on St. Peter's Road, used as the Hospital from the year 1884 until 1900, was purchased for $2,500. Today the six acres of land and the magnificent buildings completely and modernly equipped which comprise the property of the Prince Edward Island Hospital, fronting on the Brighton Road, represent an investment of very nearly a million dollars and can accommodate each and every day three times as many patients as the first Prince Edward Island Hospital accommodated in a full year.

The First Step

The Prince Edward Island Hospital may be said to have had its origin at a meeting held in the rooms of the Y.M.C.A., Charlottetown in the month of April 1883. A committee appointed at this meeting to deal with the matter held its next meeting in the schoolroom of St. Paul's Church on the 10th day of July following. A circular was sent out stating that an effort was being made to establish a hospital in Charlottetown upon a non-sectarian basis and for the benefit of the whole Province. The movement towards establishing the hospital met with favorable support and many subscriptions were received. On December 4th, the committee reported that they had arranged to
