why Kootenay Ranges stay good as new, long after other ranges have worn out; how the asbestos joints prevent leakage of air or drafts; how the aluminum flues prevent rust; and why they require less fuel than other ranges. Ask our dealer or write for booklet.

SAILORS AND THE WAR

The British and Foreign Sailors' Society is celebrating its centenary shortly and in view of this event hopes to raise £250,000 for the further extension of its work. Founded in the days of Lord Nelson and with Admiral Gambier as its first president, the Society has made the welfare of British seamen its first charge throughout the past hundred years. During the progress of the War the Society's institutions in all parts of Great Britain and elsewhere have given shelter, food, and clothing to thousands of men. The crews of torpedoed ships are one of its first charges, and most grateful thanks have been received by the Society from owners, officers and men. Relief is dispensed to hundreds of seamen or their dependents suffering through the War, and nearly one thousand sailors who are prisoners of War receive food parcels at a cost of more than £500 per week. Suitable literature is distributed to men of the Naval Auxiliary fleet, transports, mine sweepers, patrol boats, lighthouses, &c. The Society's King Edward VII. Nautical School has trained lads for the merchant service, and over 4,000 have received their Board of Trade certificates at the School. The centenary fund will enable this school to be extended. Centenary subscriptions may be sent to Sir Frederick Green, J. P. Sailors' Palace, Commercial Road, E. 14.

IN MEMORIAM

JOHN S. MACLEOD.

In the passing of the late John S. MacLeod, one of the oldest landmarks of Lot 67 has been removed. Born March, 1838, near (what is now) the village of Bradalbane after a long and useful life he calmly breathed his last on Saturday the 6th inst. Of stalwart frame and giant form, illness was unknown to him and it was only during the past two months that he had been confined to his house and bed. The best medical skill proved unavailing, and knowing this, he awaited the end with resignation. He was a man of more than ordinary attainments when the meagre educational advantages of his boyhood six-five or seventy years ago are considered.

6th inst. and was largely attended. The remains were conveyed to the Church where a very impressive service was conducted by the Rev. T. W. Goodwill. After the service the cortege re-formed and proceeded to Hantsville Cemetery, where the remains were reverently consigned to the grave. By his first wife he leaves a large family of sons and daughters. His second wife survives him.
