INSIDIOUS EYE STRAIN

We use this adjective advisedly. Sufferers from Eyestrain may have perfect vision and therefore do not suspect the presence of any eye defect.

Normal eyes, it is compressed utilize about 20% of this Nerve Energy, but when Eyestrain is present, a much larger proportion is required. Hence defective eyes, through their consumption of an excessive amount of Nerve Energy, may seriously affect the functioning of other organs of the body, and produce ill health.

SAD NEWS—The sad news was received Saturday by Mr. Herb Blanchard of the sudden death of his brother, Thomas Blanchard, who passed away in Saskatchewan last week. The deceased had only been on the island for a few days, intending to locate in the west. His sudden taking away will be deeply mourned by all who knew him. The body is expected to arrive in the city this week for burial, particulars of which will appear later.

COURAGEOUS ACT—A drowning accident was narrowly averted last Thursday night when Mrs. Andrew McPherson of York Point, went through the North River to start Brighton roadway. Her dangerous plight soon attracted attention and Mr. William Wright, who lives nearby went immediately to her rescue, which he successfully accomplished at no slight risk to himself. The unfortunate lady who was in an exhausted condition, was cared for at Mr. Wright's home and was soon able to depart for home but little the worse for the accident.

LAI D TO REST.—The funeral of the late Mrs. James Payne which was largely attended was held Saturday morning from the Undertaking Parlours of M. Henderson to St. Dunstan's Cathedral, where a Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Rev. Maurice McDonald. The pall bearers were: Messrs Frank Batt, Jas. McCarry, H. Fitzgerald, Sr., D. O. McReddin, D. IN MEMORIAM

MR. EDWARD POWER

The death occurred on Saturday at his late residence, 202 Dorchester St., of Edward Power, son of the late Edward Power and Mrs. Alex. F. McDonald.

The deceased was a young man of quiet and unassuming disposition and exemplary character. He resided for six years in Alberta where he held a responsible position, and by his faithful attention to duty won promotion after promotion until he was in a fair way to be classed as another of our successful islanders.

His health failed, however, and on his physician's advice he returned home about three months ago in the hope that his native climate would ensure a change for the better, but after an hospital treatment of several weeks he returned home where tender nursing and the best medical attention proved unavailing and he passed peacefully away Saturday morning at the early age of 26 years.

He was a member of the Abergwilt Club and in the season of 1919-20 was goal tender for the champion intermediate team. He leaves to mourn, besides a sorrowing mother and step father two brothers, Reginald of the Canadian National Express Co., Halifax and Augustine of the S. C. B. Board, St. John, and one sister, Miss Austin Murphy of this city, to all of whom the Guardian extends sincere sympathy.

pretty hard now; and the new system will give them more time to attend to their own particular duties. The system is thoroughly up-to-date and business like, and I think it is a change for the better that has long been needed. We had promised it, and we have fulfilled our promise, just as we are making an honest endeavor to fulfill all our pre-election promises. (Applause.)

The Bond Transaction

Regarding the Government's transaction in bonds, we have heard some criticism from the hon. member from Summerside. He is not satisfied with the way some of those bonds were purchased, notwithstanding the fact that they were purchased in a business like manner, that different firms were interviewed, different quotations secured, and that the bonds were bought at the current market price. That is not satisfactory to him. The bonds he says, should have been tendered for. I hope the Premier will remember this on future occasions. We had better take the advice of the hon. member from Summerside.

MR. SAUNDERS: You would have saved a couple of thousand had you done so.

HON. DR. McMILLAN: That gentleman, you remember, has had a long experience in tendering, and we might get some valuable hints from him about how to tender. Sometimes the policy of tendering, if pursued to a logical conclusion, means that there would not be any saving at all. I might bid thirty cents, and somebody else would get that tender for twenty-nine and a half. That is all tendering means in some cases. It is strange, is it not, that other Provinces do not follow that method? Ontario does not tender for their bonds.

MR. SAUNDERS: Don't you think it would be a good job if Ontario had? Those men now serving in penitentiary would be free men.

HON. DR. McMILLAN: I don't know about that; it is a question for them to decide; but that is the way they did their business.

MR. SAUNDERS: They have got to take the consequences of their acts.

HON. DR. McMILLAN: What is MR. SAUNDERS: In jail.

HON. DR. McMILLAN: For what? regarding the disposal of Government bonds?

MR. SAUNDERS: In connection with the disposal of them, yes.

PREMIER STEWART: No government of Ontario ever called for tenders for bonds, or the other provinces either.

HON. DR. McMILLAN: Coupled with the criticism of the hon. member for Summerside came the advice that this Government was losing a splendid opportunity; that we might very well speculate in bonds and make money for this Province.

MR. SAUNDERS: A point of order! There was one gentleman retracted that this morning. I never said "speculate."

THE SPEAKER: He did not accuse you of saying you said it. He used the expression himself.

MR. McARTHUR: He should not use that expression so much.

THE SPEAKER: He can use what expression he wishes, so long as he does not accuse you of using it.

HON. DR. McMILLAN: I say the meaning of his advice, in plain English, was that if the Government would speculate in bonds they could make money. And I support the hon. member from Summerside, from that, that if the Government is ever in the unfortunate position of having men like my hon. friend in charge of affairs, that is the policy he would pursue. It would be quite logical to assume, financial policy, when they were able to make up our deficit by the famous "deposit slip" method.

MR. SAUNDERS: Inaugurated by the Conservatives.

HON. DR. McMILLAN: Used by the Conservatives in a perfectly legitimate way, as explained by the Minister of Public Works; that it was only for small amounts, where it was not possible or convenient to buy a bond.

But its possibilities were seen by the Bell Government, and they utilized it to the full. They went as far as it was possible for any Government to go—and right in election year, when it would probably have the most effect. That was the time they put in their largest amount of deposit slips. Instead of making the finances of the country solid, they wanted to make a good showing. If my hon. friends had made good those debenture interest deposit slips, they would not have been able to come into this House and boast that they had reduced the debt every year by twenty-five thousand dollars. (Applause.) It is very easy to reduce debt in one column and put in an I. O. U. in another column.

So I think it was a very wise thing that this Government did when they brought that efficient auditor to this Province to show up the bad policy of such a system of accounting. This Government is not the only government in Canada that did the same thing; several of them have adopted the very same policy of calling in an outside auditor in order to get their finances placed on a safe footing. Now that the system is established here, I hope and believe it will be satisfactory.

The Leader of the Opposition says he would be quite satisfied with the audit of Mr. Anderson, the Provincial Auditor, who is a fair square man, and who has received more complaints in this House than anybody I know of. Very well, then will the Leader of the Opposition be satisfied with Mr. Anderson's audit this year? He said there was no need of an external audit.

MR. SAUNDERS: I said I believed there should be an external audit, no matter how honest the Provincial Auditor was.

HON. DR. McMILLAN: The

12 Outside Auditor just adds the figures at the top and puts his name to it. MR. SAUNDERS: He doesn't do his business properly then. HON. DR. McMILLAN: Well, the Outside Auditor last year did his business properly and thoroughly. (Applause.)

Technical Education

Reference was made by the Opposition to technical education and the Technical School had been closed, and that a very valuable man in the person of the principal of the School had been let go. I think this matter was all very thoroughly explained before. We made clear that the Government did not consider that this Province was getting value for the amount of money expended on the then Technical School. There were very weighty reasons for this. One of them was, that the man whose services were dispensed with was drawing a yearly salary almost equal to the salaries paid the professors at Prince of Wales College, for doing five or six months' work, and that all the other teachers, or a great many, were being paid in a like proportion. This Technical School was intended to benefit the farmers, but it was found that only two or three farmers' sons were taking agricultural courses, and that others were complaining that their sons were coming in and taking courses that were of no use to them, as far as farming was concerned. Again, a great part of the grants supporting this School, was withdrawn by the Federal Government, and it became necessary to retrench. It was found by the Government that all those courses which had any true bearing on the welfare of the farmers and the people generally throughout the Province could be continued in shorter courses and without the payment of very high salaries. The change was accordingly made. That is the policy of the Government with reference to technical education, and I think the people are satisfied.

We have had the Poll Tax up again as usual. I thought that was a part of the past, but it evidently is not. It was so fair a tax, (they again tell us), that it reached everyone; including the man who had no property or stake in the country and who didn't pay anything else towards the upkeep of the Government. But the trouble about the Poll Tax was just in the fact that it was not paid by everyone; that it was paid only by the property holders and by the farmers. It never reached those others that it was designed to reach. The records in the Tax Office prove that conclusively.

The Famous Tax Act

The Leader of the Opposition laboured at some length to show how this Government should reduce taxation. What a changed attitude. Last year he told the House that he was one of the Fathers of the Poll Tax Act. That famous Act, you know, had two fathers, and the Leader of the Opposition claimed that he was one of them; that he took his political life in his hands and helped to frame it and put it in operation. He said that famous Tax Act of the Bell Government.

MR. SAUNDERS: The one that you repealed and re-enacted.

HON. DR. McMILLAN: The one that we had to change and amend, like many other things left us by the Bell Government. (Applause.) This is the same gentleman, who boasted of being ONE OF THE FATHERS OF THE TAX ACT last year, who coolly says to the Government now that we should reduce taxation! What a change in a year! And he goes on and labors with figures to show that there should be a saving in running Falconwood; that if the management of that institution were properly conducted, the Asylum should be like similar institutions in other Provinces; it should be self supporting.

MR. SAUNDERS: I said they are making it self supporting in some provinces.

HON. DR. McMILLAN: Some Asylums in some provinces are self supporting?

MR. SAUNDERS: Yes.

HON. DR. McMILLAN: And the assumption is that if the same policy were pursued in the management of Falconwood, it also would become self supporting. But he admitted that it was a difficult place to manage, and that there were people in this Province whose friends and relatives were there, who should be paying. That is quite correct. We have got too many inmates in Falconwood whose friends are able to pay for their support. The matter is now under investigation. It is certainly true that the fees derived from that source should be a great deal more, and a further effort is being made to collect this money.

MR. SAUNDERS: That is all I said; I said nothing more than that.

HON. DR. McMILLAN: All right, we are in agreement. But the thing is very insidious; there are people who want to go away and they have a feeble minded person in the family. The first step they take is to place that person in the Asylum, then they sell the farm and move away. By the time the Government is informed of this and an effort is made to collect the bill they are all away in the United States.

MR. SAUNDERS: That is right.

HON. DR. McMILLAN: It is a very big problem; but I think we did make quite a saving last year. It is a difficult place to manage; in fact, between the feeble minded and insane persons and the demands upon the poorer grant, the outlook from that standpoint is not bright as far as this Province is concerned. Demands are increasing every day upon the poor fund. The infirmary is full, has been full, and I guess will be full; and still that is not enough, if you want to judge conditions by institutions like that, then you must admit that there is something more needed.

I do not think that I need go any further. I just wish to thank you, Mr. Speaker, and the members of
