THE Engineers' Military Entertainment takes place this evening in the Lyceum, and will no doubt, be attended by a large and fashionable audience. The officers of other corps will attend in uniform and this will no doubt add to the military aspect of the affair. The Engineers have worked hard this winter and their uptown quarters in the Lyceum have been a great aid to the Corps. The entertainment is to provide means to run these rooms, and no doubt the citizens will respond with a full house.

THE teachers in the Kindergarten, in order to bring the mothers together to exchange ideas and suggestions, which would tend to the better education of children, have adopted a plan by which they will fortnightly have some one to lecture, read a paper, or give a talk on some subject along this line. The first of the series was a paper read by Dr. H. D. Johnston yesterday afternoon before a number of mothers and others. The subject treated was nervous organization, growth and general development of children, and how to educate them properly. The speaker gave some practical information, interesting and helpful suggestions which if followed will surely aid in bringing about the desired results. The course entered upon by the Kindergarten teachers is worthy of that institution and commendable on their part and they did well in selecting Dr. Johnston, as their first entertainer.

COL. J. HUNTER DUVAR, of recent years a well-known Canadian literary man, died some days ago at his home in Prince Edward Island. Long before the Atlantic cable, he was a newsman in the lower St. Lawrence. Mr. Easson, the well-known news superintendent of the G. N. W. Telegraph Co., tells us that "Col. Hunter Duvar, carried on news-gathering operations in connection with the Guard Line of steamers off Point Pleasant, while I, as a telegrapher, watched the Allan steamers, which came up the St. Lawrence off Father Point. Hunter Duvar sent his English news to D. H. Craig, New York; so did I. It will be forty years on the 28th April next since I left Toronto for Father Point. I worked my way down from Riviere Du Loup with the line builders and reached Father Point on the 23rd of May, 1859—next day being the Queen's Birthday. Mr. James Pousie and I were remarking on it at the time, and I remember very well that Jim undertook to explain it to the habitants down there about, not one of whom had ever heard of the Queen's birthday." ## DUNK RIVER

Aboiteau Was Finished There Last Week.

A Short Review of the Dyking Lately done in Bedeque.

Reading of the wonderful success resulting from the dyking of marshes in Nova Scotia and other places, several of the most enterprising and up-to-date farmers of Bedeque, conceived the idea that, in the same manner, they could also take advantage of the great area of marsh land which extended around them in every direction. Accordingly during the winter and spring of 1897, the vast extent of marsh land bordering along Bradshaw's creek, amounting to some 120 acres, were preserved from the encroachment of the sea by means of a dyke and aboiteau, notwithstanding the opposition of many who now see the good results of this work. The remarkable success that has attended the dyking of these marshes, has been already noted in THE GUARDIAN. Marsh land that before had been considered of little value, is now the most valuable part of the farm. The growth and quality of the marsh hay has been doubled, and to be convinced of its great efficiency as winter food, one has only to visit the well stocked barns of the Bedeque farmers and compare their sleek and well fed cattle with those of the less fortunate farmers, who are compelled to feed their cattle on straw. Upland hay and clover have been successfully grown, and several marsh owners have already seeded down all their marsh lands. The Bedeque marshes, moreover, are of the best quality and the resources are almost unlimited, and it is believed that, in a few years, oats, potatoes and the other upland crops will be successfully and more cheaply raised.

Seeing such good results arise from a practically small outlay, and determining not to be behind their neighbors in such matters the marsh owners on the Dunk River resolved that they would also protect their marshes in like manner, and in the winter of 1898 prepared to build a dyke and aboiteau. An early spring put an end to the pile driving, however, and the dyking was completed that summer. This winter the pile driving was resumed and the result is not only a credit to the contractors, Messrs. Lord & Lord, but also to the marsh-owners and projectors of the scheme.

The aboiteau is about 100 feet in length, consisting of two rows of piles driven at an angle of about 75 degrees, about 8 ft apart at the top of the water and about 14 at the bottom. The space between the two rows is being filled with mud and it is proposed to protect the aboiteau from the freshets and ice during the spring, by loose stones and brush piled against the side of the aboiteau.

This new dike encloses some 70 acres of marsh land and including those marshes which are now enclosed by the dry dyke there is a matter of some 220 acres of good marsh land protected from the ravages of water. Success to the enterprise, etc.

THERE was a good attendance at the concert and basket social given by the Mechanics' Hall Co., in their hall last night. Each selection of the musical programme was well received and the refreshments were indulged in with much pleasure. The affair was a success throughout and enjoyed by all.
