A BARBER WHO TRAINS RACE-HORSES.

At the rear of a little hairdresser's and tobacconist's shop in Wolvenhampton is one of the strangest racing stables in the country.

Mr. Chamberlain has possessed quite a number of racehorses in his time—Notable Rightaway, St. Paul, Can't Sing, and others.

The barber racehorse-owner confesses that he only rides for pleasure. He is a qualified gentleman rider, his racing colors being old gold and black.

The sweetest and most inoffensive path of life leads through the avenue of science and learning; and whoever can either remove any obstruction in this way, or open up any new prospect, ought so far, to be esteemed a benefactor to mankind.

FEEL BULLY? TAKE CASCARETS TONIGHT

Gently cleanse your liver and sluggish bowels while you sleep

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver, delayed fermenting food in the bowels, or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestine, instead of being cast out of the system, is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Salts, cathartic pills, oil and purgative waters force a passage way for a day or two—but they don't take the poisons out and have no effect upon the liver or stomach.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascarets tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. The work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels clean and regular for months.

GRANPA'S GLASSES.

My grandpa has to wear glasses. 'Cause his eyesight is not very strong. And he calls them his 'specs,' and he's worn them For ever so long. And when he gets through with his reading He carefully puts them away, And that's why I have to help find them. 'Bout twenty-five times a day.

But at night when we sit 'round the table, And papa and mamma are there, He reads just as long as he's able, and then falls asleep in his chair, And he sits there and sleeps in his glasses, And you don't know how funny it seems; But he says that he just has to wear them To see things well in his dreams. —The 'Child's Hour.'

PASSING OF A FAMOUS SPEAKER

A distinguished "old-Parliamentarian" has passed away in the person of Viscount Peel, who was for a decade 'Speaker of the House of Commons.' Lord Peel once said, "There is little indeed to interest anyone in a dead speaker."

THE CORDIAL HANDCLASP.

Did you ever observe what a difference there is in the fashion of welcome in different households? There are homes to which you go where the people are kindly disposed and glad to see you, but in which they are so stiff and formal and so unobtrusive that you feel uncertain whether or not your call is opportune. You have a vague, uneasy sense of having come at the wrong time, of being an interruption and infringing on the leisure of your entertainers. They may have been going over their accounts or planning a visit of their own, or they had in the background somebody they did not want you to meet. This is the feeling that envelops you like a fog while you are in the house, and you are glad to escape. A woman is peculiarly unfortunate if, in the character of hostess, she conveys her guests. A refrigerator is not a pleasant place for an easy chair. Yet sometimes these apparently frosty folk are cold only on the surface, and at heart are warm and glowing.

How of us need to be told that the painful and often pitiful demeanor of children, as well as of those who have passed the years of childhood's development, in the company of strangers or new acquaintances is the result of shyness. They may never have learned the gentle art of meeting and greeting acquaintances with a little kind attentiveness. Every one should study this art and it should be taught to children by precept and example. In the conflicts of life it will stand them in stead as well as arithmetic and biology. How do you shake hands? A year or two ago an abominable fashion was in vogue among young people, who gave each other their finger tips, elevating the hand and arm at the moment in a clumsy and awkward attempt at elegance. When you give your hand it should be on a level with your heart. To shake a friend's hand in a grasp that leaves it aching is as much a mistake as to give a slippery and clammy imitation of a fish, the sort of perfervent handshake that arouses resentment because it seems insincere. The grace of the cordial hand-clasp, the heart and the brain speaking through the hand, the word of welcome that is spontaneous, the open hospitality that makes friend or neighbor sure that his coming has made brighter your day—these are social accomplishments simply beyond price.—Christian Herald.

MEMORIES OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

O captain! my captain! our fearful trip is done, The ship is weathered every rack, the prize we sought is won, The port is near, the bells I hear, the people all exulting, While follow eyes the steady keel, the vessel grim and daring; But O heart! heart! heart! O the bleeding drops of red, Where on the deck my captain lies, Fallen cold and dead.

O captain! my captain! rise up and hear the bells; Rise up—for you, the flag is flung—for you the bugle trills, For you bouquets and ribboned wreaths—for you the shores a-crowding, For you they call, the swaying mass, their eager faces turning; Here captain! dear father! This arm beneath your head! It is some dream that on the deck You've fallen cold and dead.

My captain does not answer, his lips are pale and still, My father does not feel my arm, he has no pulse nor will, The ship is anchored safe and sound, its voyage closed and done, From fearful trip the victor ship comes in with object won; Exult, O shores, and ring, O bells! But I, with mournful tread, Walk the deck my captain lies, Fallen cold and dead.

Walt Whitman.

LOADING OIL FUEL ON BATTLESHIPS.

The British Government has completed a set of tests, upon the possibility of oil bunkering on battleships going at a high speed. Apparently the most modern and biggest of battleships are able to take on oil when travelling at a speed of nearly 20 knots, towing behind them the oil tank vessel from which the oil is obtained.

It is possible to take on about 100 tons per hour while travelling at this speed, and as 100 tons of oil fuel on a motorship is equivalent to about 400 tons of coal, or more, the importance of this point can be at once realized. Brass hose of about 5 inches in diameter is generally employed, this having been found the best for all purposes, and the distance of the ship from the tanker is generally about 200 yards.

TASTE, SMELL AND HEARING RESTORED

A SIMPLE, HARMLESS REMEDY QUICKLY RELIEVES CATARRHAL DEAFNESS.

The thousands who suffer the miseries of colds and catarrh and claim they have never found a cure can get instant relief by simply anointing the nostrils with Ely's Cream Balm. Unlike internal medicines which upset the stomach, or strong snuffs which only aggravate the trouble, this cleansing, healing, antiseptic Balm instantly reaches the seat of the trouble, stops the nasty discharge, clears the nose, head and throat, and brings back the sense of taste, smell and improves the hearing. More than this it strengthens the weakened and diseased tissues, thus protecting you against a return of the trouble. This remedy will cure a cold in a day, and prevent its becoming chronic or resulting in catarrh.

Nasal catarrh is an inflammation of the membrane lining the air passages, and cannot be reached by mixtures taken into the stomach, nor can it be cured by snuffs and powders which only cause additional irritation. Don't waste time on them. Get a 50 cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and after using it for a day you will wish you had tried it sooner. Mothers should give the children Ely's Cream Balm for colds and croup. It is perfectly harmless, and pleasant to take. Agent, R. A. Foster, Central Druggists, Sunnyvale, Ont.

MEANING OF "AT HALF-MAST."

Perhaps you have noticed that whenever a prominent person dies, especially if he is connected with the government, the flags on public buildings are hoisted only part of the way up. This is called "half-mast." Did you ever stop to think what connection there could be between a flag that was not properly hoisted and the death of a great man? Ever since flags were used in war it has been the custom to have the flag of the superior or conquering nation above that of the inferior or vanquished. When any army found itself hopelessly beaten, it hauled its flag down far enough for the flag of the victors to be placed above it on the same pole. This was a token not only of submission, but of respect. In those days when a famous soldier died, flags were lowered out of respect to his memory. The custom long ago passed from purely military usage to public life of all kinds, the flag flying at half-mast being a sign that the dead man was worthy of universal respect. The space left above it is for the flag of the great conqueror of all—the angel of death.—Toronto Mail and Express.

FOLLOWED HIM.

A nervous commutator, on his dark and lonely way home from the railroad station, heard steps behind him. He had an uncomfortable feeling that he was being followed. He increased his speed. The footsteps quickened accordingly. The commutator darted down a lane. The footsteps still pursued him. In desperation he vaulted over a fence and rushing into a churchyard, threw himself panting on one of the graves. "If he follows me here," he thought fearfully, "there can be no doubt of his intentions." The man behind was following. He could hear him scrambling over the fence. Visions of highwaymen, man-laws, garrotes and ligas flashed through his brain. Quivering with fear the nervous one arose and faced the pursuer. "What do you want?" he demanded. "Why are you following me?" "Say," said the stranger, mopping his brow, "do you always go home like this? Or are you giving yourself a special treat tonight? I'm going up to the Brown's, and the man in the station told me to follow you as you lived next door. Excuse my asking you, but is there much more to do before we get there?"

CUT THIS OUT AND PASTE IT UP

Almost every day The Guardian receives orders by mail to insert matter of an advertising nature. In most of these cases the senders, who are frequently not known to any member of the staff and who have no account in the advertising department, write "Please insert the following advertisement," thus apparently implying that they think the items will be inserted free. Only a few weeks ago a reader wrote asking that his advertisement of Farm for Sale be inserted free from day to day until he cancelled it, as he is a subscriber to The Guardian. In this connection it may be said that the subscription price is not sufficient to even pay the actual cost of paper, ink, presswork, mailing, bookkeeping and other expenses of the Circulation department proper, and thus subscribers have no privileges of free advertising and are on the same footing as non-subscribers. Seldom ever does the sender state whether the item is to appear in the Morning Daily or in the Evening Daily, whether for one or more times.

in either Daily, or in both, whether as a display advertisement, announcement, business local, classified ad or otherwise. When for church or charitable purposes they seldom ever say so, or do not enclose sufficient money to pay for same, all of which will be returned by first mail in the event of the item not being chargeable, or if more money is sent than necessary to pay for the item the surplus will be returned at once, there being a greater discount for cash with order for advertising of churches & than for regular business. In all such cases the Advertising department communicates with the sender as quickly as possible by mail or phone, often paying the messenger service to get them to the telephone if not too far distant, thus saving all possible time. People write this office to know if News, Letters to Editor, etc., are charged for, and to all such there is but one reply—all items etc. of a money making nature, even though they be somewhat of a news nature, are chargeable. For instance, the advance notice of a concert, a lecture, pie social, picnic, etc., are chargeable if there is an admission fee, silver collection, sale of pies or sale of food or refreshments, etc. Advance notices of purely religious services, even though a silver collection is to be taken up, are not chargeable. The particulars of any of the above, after they have been held, are, however, news and thus not chargeable. The news of any past, present or future business, which is still being conducted, is chargeable, if it is apparent that the object is to make the business more widely known and thus increase it. Verses accompanying death notices are also chargeable. Even items which are actual news and not chargeable but on either Morning Daily or Evening Daily or both are chargeable for more than one insertion, as they are thus not news. The above facts are given for the purpose of assisting persons who have items, etc., to mail to this office, so that delay and disappointment will be avoided.
