WHY FAIRIES NEVER CRY

Sometimes I wonder if the rose cares when her petals fade. Or in the mellow autumn knows what glory it has made. Or if the softly falling snows of winter are afraid.

Sometimes I wonder if the stars feel lonely in the sky. Or if the bird behind the bars. With little room to fly. Is mute because confinement mars the note of ecstasy.

But this I know,—in Fairyland the roses never die. And some day you will understand why fairies never cry.

A Wise Old Trapper

IN the State of Ohio there lived a bunch of boys who had this trapping business down to a science. They each sent for separate price lists every year and then sent all their furs to the house giving the best quotations. After five years they decided they weren't doing so well because they didn't have enough furs to make their efforts worth while.

One day they met Tom McMillan driving a new car to town. Tom said he made the price of his swell outfit shipping pellets. He told how he got wise to those funny prices and found it was better to deal with Chas. Porter, because he always knew in advance just what he was sure of getting. He said that Porter never offered $5 for a $3 pellet, but he always paid the $3, which he promised and sometimes just a little better. Chas. Porter now has five wise trappers in that section instead of one.

FARMERS SPEND AS WISELY AS DO INDUSTRIAL WORKERS

(Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Economists of the Department of Agriculture have completed a study of the average annual expenditures of a farmer's family in Livingston County, N.Y., and finds the amount to be $2,012. The purpose of the study, which will be extended to various parts of the country, is to determine whether farmers get adequate returns in comfort, health and enjoyment from their expenditures as compared with the industrial family.

Livingston county was selected as a general farming community of average prosperity. The most striking feature of the study, the department said, was the almost complete similarity found in items of expenditures of the two classes. About one-third of the farm expenditures was figured on items not involving direct purchase—food produced on the farm and unpaid labor. Of the total, the expenditure for food was 39.5 per cent; clothing, 13 per cent; education, recreation and church and social activities, 10 per cent. Automobiles were owned by 75.6 per cent of the families and the cost of their operation and repair, classed under expenditures for "advancement" was $65 a year.
