But I found a cure, and I am ready to tell you about it FREE. Write me promptly.

LARGE ADDITION TO LONDON PLANT OF CORN FLAKES

Building to Cost $50,000 Will Be Erected at Present Site.

MORE MEN EMPLOYED. Contracts Are Let and Permit Secured to Start Work Now.

Announcement is made through the City Industrial Department of an addition which will probably exceed in cost the sum of $50,000 to the well-known plant of the Battle Creek Toasted Corn Flakes Company, Limited, on Dundas street east, makers of Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes. This announcement includes buildings, storage tanks and machinery. The additional buildings will be of brick and concrete, a three story building of 50x60 feet, and a one-story building of larger dimensions. This addition to the plant will, when completed, require the employment of a number of additional men. Six large fire-proof storage tanks will be erected. The contract for the buildings and grain tanks has been let the Archibald & Holmes Company of Winnipeg, the contractors who are building the new Hunt mill. The increased demand for the original Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes in the red, white and green packages, so well known, and which has been made here in London for over eleven years, necessitates this considerable addition.

The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Edward J. Murphy, of Washington, Pa., wore an exquisite creation of ivory satin and tulle, trimmed with rhinestones, and her tulle veil fell to the end of the court train from a bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried white orchids and lilies-of-the-valley. The matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Leo O'Brien, of Sharon, appeared in her wedding dress of white satin and tulle, with a white hat, and her flowers were Ward roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Murphy and Miss Hazel Egan, also of Washington were gowned in pink tulle over satin with hats to match, and carried an armful of pink Killarney roses. Just in Brown was his brother's best man, and the ushers were P. J. Sullivan, of Washington, a cousin of the bride, and A. F. Link, of Pittsburgh. A wedding breakfast at the bride's home was laid for 20 at the bridal table, which was centered with a mound of pink garden flowers. After a honeymoon spent in Canada, Mr. Brown and his bride will live in Broadway, Dormont, where they will be at home after December 1. Mrs. Murphy was hostess at dinner last night in her home following the rehearsal for the wedding. Mrs. Gallant was accompanied by her husband and children he of great ability as preacher and a sided other friends and relatives. Mrs. Gallant has at last, for the first time in 26 years crossed the threshold of her own home, to be driven for the first time in the most modern way of progression and finally and most notably to enter the dome of the parish church and witness for the first time the works of architecture that are so conspicuous and pleasing to the eye. Even to those who have witnessed it thousands of times. How eager must those eyes have been, who, for the first time witnessed such beauties, knowing that it is for the sole purpose of glorifying and adoring God alone. After having been carried in a chair, in front of the seats, the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was performed by the Rev. Pastor, after which the invalid, although eager to remain longer in the presence of God, was borne to the car in which she was placed and slowly returned to her home to be nursed and cherished by her devoted husband and children.—R.
