FARM MARKET

delivered. Foundation $1.00 with little loading. Tablestock very little movement at 85c-90c per bag.

Borden Line — Seed 84c at the barn. Good demand. Tablestock slow at 90c per bag at the barn.

Colville and Wiltshire — Tablestock 80c-855c per bag at the car, Seed 85c-90c at the car.

Charlottetown — Mountains and Sebagoes 80c per bushel, 55c for small, Katahdins and Cobblers 90c per bushel, 60c for small Cobblers and 90c for small Katahdins

Venon Area—Seed 85c per bushel at the car. Little movement in tablestock.

Cardigan and Montague — Seed Certified 75c. Foundation "A" 80c. Foundation 85c delivered. Just starting to move. No movement on tablestock.

St. Peter's and Morell — Certified and Foundation "A" 90c. Foundation 92c delivered. Little movement in tablestock at 90c per bag delivered.

Souris and Elmira — Seed Katahdins 90c at station. Good demand. Tablestock 70c at station. Slow.

The general picture shows Mountain and Sebago Seed very dull at the present time.

Turnips

Turnips, general, 32c-33c at car. Mostly being hauled by trucks. demand steady.

Turnips not keeping very well. Boston market seems to be steady at 90c wholesale. During the past week I discussed the matter of turnips with the Ontario producers and they feel that the Island people are not helping the market to any appreciable extent. Ontario is putting up a real good product and is offering some regulation and control over its exports. The P.E.I. product has lagged behind from 10c-15c per bushel under the Ontario price. There are conditions operating in the turnip market that demand a vigorous shaking up and rearrangement in the form of better marketing technique.

Livestock

The February 8th Montreal report indicates cattle steady in price. Good to choice steers were 20-20¼; medium 19-20.50. Good heifers 18.50-19; medium heifers 16-19. Top cows 17; good 15-16; medium 13-15. Good bulls 18-19. Common bulls 13.50-17. Hogs 30-30.25 for Grade "A's". Sows 23-24.

On the Maritime markets prices were steady with the exception of sows, which dropped at Moncton $1.00 at 29.50 delivered. Other grades were as follows: Grade "A" 30; "B1's" 29.60. No. 2 sows 19.50. All delivered.

Charlottetown Grade "A's" 29; "B1's" 20.60. No. 1 sows 20.50; No. 2 sows 19.50. All f.o.b country points. Choice steers and heifers 18; good 17; medium 16. Plain and common dairy steers down to 10c. Best cows are ranging around 14 with good at 13.50 and medium at 13.

Common cutters and canners are from 11-12c. Best heavy bulls at 14c with good at 12, and common 11. Calves, good and choice, 18; common and medium 13. Grassers 10-12. Cattle and calf prices are f.o.b. country points.

In the local trade in various parts of the Province prices are ranging according to grade in conformity with the above quotations It is interesting to note that in dairy cattle movement, concern is at last being felt by same of the Breed Associations regarding the serious exodus of our best dairy cattle. It has been a difficult thing to arouse our producers to the seriousness of this situation.

The development of calf clubs and the expansion of the basic foundation of herds must receive first consideration if we are not to suffer a disastrous recession in the upper brackets of the dairy cattle industry and in the whole dairy industry of the province.

Dairy receipts continue to operate at levels above that of the last year. For the week ending February 5th, 41,055 pounds of creamery butter were manufactured in comparison with 29,010 pounds for the same period last year, an improvement of 41.5%.

Our butter production in January this year was 320,471 pounds as against 147,779 pounds for last year, an increase of 49.2%. Butter prices are definitely up against the ceiling and the product is in keen demand. Apparently the appearance of margarine on some of our Maritime markets is not affecting, at the present time at least, the position of the dairy cow.

Feeds

It would be impossible to give the picture of values on all the feeds that are being manufactured at the present time and sold on the market, because of the great variations and differences in the composition, the purpose and quality of these feeds. We would like to direct your attention to the costs of grains and proteins and encourage you to mix your own which you can do in the knowledge of the cost and also in the knowledge of the materials you are putting in your home mixed product.

Eggs and Poultry

There has been no appreciable change in the egg and poultry market during the week. Production is steady with quality good. There has been some accumulation of eggs on dealers floors and eggs will in all likelihood be packed for storage or driers.

The demand for eggs from other Maritime points is slow and apparently production in this area is increased considerably.

Three chick hatcheries are in operation at the present time and this has the effect of absorbing eggs which otherwise would go into consumptive channels.

Registered egg grading station operators continue to quote producers for ungraded eggs AL 37, AM 35, AP 28, B 31, C 26.

Wholesalers are quoting for the graded pack loose, f.o.b. station, AL 41½; AM 39½; AP 33; B 35; C 30.

Some wholesalers have reduced prices to retailers for the graded cartoned pack and are now quoting Grade A Large 46, A Medium 44, B loose 38.

Since prices have been reduced from January, many retailers report increased sales. Eggs are retailing to consumers in cartons AL 53-4; AM 51-2; B loose 45.

THE WEEK AT S.D.U.

evening; the score: 67-37. Coach Father MacGuigan was using two rookie players on the Saints' lineup, both of whom fitted into the team like veterans. Jack Reardon, making his first appearance with the team, picked up 13 points and Pete Dunphy, the other newcomer, capably fitted a vacancy left among the guards.

Mrs. W.H.. Clark, travelling secretary of the I..S..S.. (International Student Service) visited St. Dunstan's during the week.. She is at present touring the Maritimes in connection with the I.S.S.. campaign for funds for student-relief in Europe and Asia.. While here she conferred with members of the faculty, and with the executive of the Student's Union. Besides other matters, she discussed the possibility of arranging the acceptance and accommodation of displaced persons and other European students who will come to Canada in the Spring to study under the terms of the I.S..S.. project..

Referring to the possibility of bringing a D..P.. student to St.. Dunstan's, John S.. MacDonald, president of the Students' Union, said that the only obstacles to be overcome were financial, and that extensive plans were being made by our executive to obtain the necessary funds.

It is a worthy cause, one that should receive the support of all our students and of the public in general. We, here, have only a very hazy idea of what is being done, taught and thought in the universities of war-ravaged Europe; and European students' concepts of our way of life, of us, and of our thinking are perhaps even less clear. From that point of veiw alone, if not from a humanitarian motive, we think that the scheme is a good thing, something that should receive our support. For today, the world is dividing itself in support of two conflicting ideologies; and anything that we can contribute to the cause of Truth and Western culture in this struggle for the minds of men should receive at least our moral support.

Two St. Dunstan's debating teams will leave here this weekend for the mainland where they will take part in the last two of St. Dunstan's scheduled M..I..D..L.. debates this year.. Both teams are arguing the same resolution: That in view of the present international situation, compulsory military training be established in Canada immediately. Cyril Sinnott and Paul Landrigan will uphold the Affirmative at St. F..X.. on Sunday, Feb.. 13; Wilf. Driscoll and Jack Murnaghan will speak against the resolution at Mount A. on Monday, Feb.. 14.. Any predictions? No, but Landrigan, who received rather late notice of his debating debut, has this to say: "We'll slay 'em; by the time I get through with them they won't have a leg to stand on. You can quote me!" Lets hope he's right.

Wilf, not so outspoken but quietly confident, says that he and Jack have some powerful arguments that are going to take a lot of rebutting. Besides, say the Negative, they have individual welfare and moral right on their side — that's a good question.

Rumor has it that the Dramatic Society has some irons in the fire; in other words, we think there is a play being practised. Moreover, we also hear that the Glee Club is organizing a show. Could be, eh? We have been hounding the footsteps of the gentlemen who should know all about it; but Lorne and Alec have refused to confirm reports. We may have more on that next week..

It has been suggested by alumni on several occasions during the past few years that "The Week At S..D..U.." feature something done by individual students. With that in mind, your reporter approached several who might be expected to contribute a short article; but without much success. However, we finally persuaded the poet-laureate of S..D..U.., James E. Trainor, (yes, the J..E..T..) to let us publish his latest poem (?). Without further ado here it is:

About your eyes,
I'd rhapsodize;
But when you doze,
They close.

A.. Charles MacDonald, a Senior and therefore an authority on something or other, expressed doubts as to whether it would become a classic. It was, he says, obviously written on the spur of the moment; but it was something different. He would think about it further..

See you next week, I hope, I hope..

The Harvey Girls

By Samuel Hopkins Adams

much longer."

"No Harvey eating house ever failed yet.' Alma was already imbued with the pride and the lore of the institution.

"Not failed. But I might take it over. What would you think of that?" He beamed upon her.

"Mr. Harvey would never sell out. Hasn't he a contract or something with the railroad?"

"It might be smart of him to sell out. His place isn't very popular here."

"Not popular!" said the employe, amazed. "Why, we're doing more and more business every day."

"Maybe. But there's another angle. These Western towns are queer. We've got our pride. And when an Eastern concern comes in and puts up signs telling us our custom ain't wanted, can you blame an upstanding American citizen if he gets sore?"

"That doesn't mean a thing," the girl said. "We have our orders to treat all patrons alike."

He waggled his big, solemn head. "There's another point. The Harvey place gets all its victuals carried free of charge in the baggage cars, but the other restaurants have got to pay express charges. That ain't fair and free competition as the law sees it. They've got to make a living. And if their living is taken away from them, they're likely to get mad."

"Why are you telling me all this, Judge Purvis?" asked the girl, puzzled.

"You might kind of pass it along, so it would get to that Miss Bliss and the young squirt of a manager, and find out what the girls think of it."

"What would that matter? Isn't Mr. Harvey the one to decide?"

"I put it to Mr. Harvey. I put it fair and square."

"What did he say?"

"Not very much," admitted the Judge. "Just the same, if he knows what's good for him, he'll trade. I generally get what I go after in this town. And that brings me back to you." he continued, the glow of benevolence returning to his visage. "I'd want to keep you, and that pretty little Rapalje girl with the voice, and some more of the good look—of the best waitresses. In fact, I'd like you to help me make out a list. You'd find me a kind boss." He assured her unctuously. "A very kind boss. Don't tell the others I've been talking to you. Just try 'em out on the idea. The rest's a little secret between you and me." He flourished his hat and left her.

The end of her recess coincided with early lunch hour. Presently there entered Clay Thurston with Doc Gibson and the refugee of the freight car. The young Englishman was still gaunt, but looked alert and fit. "A job's a job" he was saying. "One must eat."

"How did you get it?" asked Clay.

"I went to the big Johnny in the preacher's coat. He asked me if I could ride a horse, and I said I'd done a bit of ridin' here and there. Then he said he'd try me out on a horse and if I could ride it I could have the job."

"What horse?" asked Clay quickly.

"Odd name. Sounded like some kind of a prince."

"Calico Print!" exclaimed Gibson.

"He'll kill you," warned Clay. "When's the trial?"

"Tomorrow afternoon. Back of the Alhambra. At five."

"That's Purvis all over," said Clay. "Roman holiday. All the boys will be there. And all the girls. To see the show. That Calico bronc is a killer. Better look out for something easier, Chris."

Terry Kelsey took his usual seat. At the sight of the Englishman all the Irish in him bristled. "Hey you, the Dook of Kakiack!" he hailed. "I hear you think you can ride a horse. See that bird?" Terry flashed a ten-dollar gold piece. "That's the American eagle. It says you won't last three minutes with Calico Print."
