 BAYARD VEILLER'S
 greatest DRAMA!

TWELVETREES

SHORT TALKIES—NEWS and COMEDY!

Thrills Galore
 In "Unashamed"

"Unashamed," sensational drama of the modern age, in which mystery is dressed in the cloak of today's city life, marks a new phase of the many-sidedness of Bayard Veiller, famous author of "The Trial of Mary Dugan" and "The Thirteenth Chair." The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, written directly for the screen by the noted stage playwright, and now showing at the Prince Edward Theatre, provides thrills that are all the more intense because of their ultra-modern aspect.

The story deals with a woman who sacrifices honor for love—then, when her brother kills the man who has disgraced her, must choose between disgrace and her brother's life, as only her story can have him.

Helen Twelvetrees runs the complete gamut of emotions in a remarkable series of episodes as the girl in the case and Robert Young and Maurice Owsley are pitted as the brother and lover respectively. Jean Hersholt as the old German grocer gives a character interpretation that is astounding, and Lewis Stone and John Miljan battle in court as the attorney's fighting over the brother's fate. Robert Warwick gives a dignified and vigorous characterization as the girl's father, and Gertrude Michael plays the sympathetic role of the brother's fiancée.

The big dramatic highlight is the scene in the courtroom where the girl, desperate and remorseful, bars her past to the jury to save her brother from the noose. Harry Beaumont directed the production with deft skill, bringing out the many brilliant facets in the remarkable tale.

"Devotion," the current RKO Pathe attraction at the Capitol Theatre, starring Ann Harding, produces the famed and lovely Temple district of London.

Against this exquisite background in contrast to its air of history and tradition, there is played an unusually pleasing story of modern romance, light comedy, and drama.

That such a story and setting should have Ann Harding as the star is one of the happy combinations too seldom seen in pictures. The star handles expertly a role demanding a wide emotional range. Perhaps never has Miss Harding appeared to more excellent advantage. She proves once again that she is an actress of fine ability, whose talent is not confined to one type of role.

Leslie Howard, who will be remembered for his fine work in "Outward Bound," is splendid in the leading role opposite Miss Harding. Robert Williams does another outstanding characterization.

Captain Keble Finds Old Comrade

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Oct. 31.—(By The Canadian Press)—They knew each other as "Newfie" "fish" "cannock" and the names to indicate the part of the Empire from which they had come—and close friendships were formed in those German prison camps. Only the other day a former Imperial officer landed in St. John's from England, and although he thought it was going to be almost impossible to single out "Newfie" in Newfoundland, he located one of his wartime pals without delay.

It was Captain H. Keble, a former officer of the Royal Flying Corps. He was looking for a Newfoundland officer "who might have been captured in the spring of 1919 who might have been wounded in the neck, his arm affected, and perhaps having a chest disability."

That was enough. Newfoundland had not forgotten her heroes, and within a few hours Captain Keble was exchanging greetings with Small greenhouses have been designed that can be mounted on trailers for delivering growing flowers to florists' customers.

Strong Man and Shark In Tussle

PICTOU, N. S., Oct. 31.—(By The Canadian Press)—When Chalmers Bligney went around the country bending iron bars in his teeth and allowing automobiles run over his chest, there were Doubting Thomases who refused to give him credit. Today "the strong man of River John" stands acclaimed. He has conquered a shark.

Chalmers and his son Nathan found the big fish in one of their herring nets at Skinner's Cove, Sack Shore. They attached a line to it and started to tow it to River John, but the shark didn't seem to like the idea of going to the village. There was a heavy sea running, and with the shark adding to the difficulties the Bligneys were not sure which way the boat was going.

Finally Chalmers hauled the fish up to the boat. The battle was on but it did not last long. A knife flashed several times, and the fish was quiet. Then Chalmers hauled it on board the boat.

He knew some of those Pictou anglers like Editor J. A. Fisher, Principal C. L. Moore and R. D. Stiles would think it was just another fish story, so he brought it to town on a motor truck and put it on display.

It is years since "the strong man of River John" made crowds gape at his feats of strength, but once more the countryside rings with his fame.
