

Could You fill Your Husband's Shoes?

TOMORROW — could you "carry on" in your husband's shoes? Could you earn his income, in addition to caring for your home and children?

Probably not—and it is just for contingencies like this that Life Insurance was created. No one can accurately foretell the future, but everyone can provide for it. The earnings of the breadwinner need not suddenly stop—they can be continued with the aid of Life Insurance.

Perhaps you have discouraged your husband from providing the protection necessary for you and your children. If so, you would be wise to reflect on this fact:

"If every wife knew what every widow knows, every man would have adequate Life Insurance."

In literally millions of cases, Life Insurance has proved "The Love That Never Dies". It is the means by which every man can make certain that his family will be cared for—always.

Today is not a day too soon to talk over the future with your husband—or, better still, call in a Life Insurance Representative to discuss your mutual problem.

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mex., April 10.—Al Jennings, famous bandit and train robber of the early Oklahoma days, is beginning to believe that his newest occupation—that of hunting buried treasures and lost mines in Coahuila and Chihuahua—is just "so much boloney." His latest exploit, however, shows that the lure of quick riches still excites his heart. Jennings adds excitement to his search for lost treasures by using an airplane. He recently cracked up. But his plane is in shape again and he is on the trail of mythical riches. "I haven't found anything yet, but I'm liable to strike it rich just over the ridge, or down in the next valley," he hopefully says. "Treasure is like raw gold—it's where you find it, you know. From my experience so far, I've come to the conclusion that these old maps and symbols concerning exact locations of buried treasure and lost mines are just so much boloney." The former outlaw turned to evangelism after giving up his criminal career. Later he turned movie actor and played in several western films. He also had dabbed in Ok-

LIVE ON 11 1/2 CENTS A DAY

STRAITFORD, April 10.—The cost of living is coming down. A good barometer is shown in the amount expended for feeding prisoners at the country jail. Governor Trowe has his schedule worked out to a fine point. For the quarter ending on March 31 the average cost per day of feeding a prisoner was 11 1/2 cents. For the previous quarter 12 cents. The cut was made in spite of the fact that tea made its appearance as an item on the jail budget for the first time during the quarter.
