AN unusually sad event occurred at Woodville in the death of Frank E. Young, third eldest son of John and Catherine Young of Woodville which took place on the 27th day of December, 1904, at the age of 19 years and 9 months. He was chopping in the woods in company with William Brown of Wood Islands and while felling a heavy tree a branch broke off which struck him on the head rendering him unconscious for a time. Mr. Brown at once took him to Dr. Crawford who dressed the wound which was not considered very serious at first. Dr. Crawford and his mother did everything possible for his comfort until he was taken home next day. He was supposed to have been doing well for two days when other complications set in which proved fatal. His death so unexpected caused a gloom to fall upon the neighbours who deeply sympathize with his sorrowful parents. He was greatly respected by all who knew him especially by those with whom he worked with from time to time. This respect was clearly manifested on the day of his funeral which happened to be very stormy and cold, yet the funeral procession was very large. The Lord Almighty who in His mysterious providence has removed by death this promising young man grant the parents grace to submit to His Divine Will.

THE New Glasgow Literary Society held the first meeting of the year on the evening of Friday, Jan. 6th. The president occupied the chair and in opening gave a summary of last year's work, which included several debates, and a concert on the 23rd of January. A short programme was then given consisting of music, readings and speeches. Special mention may be made of Geo. Smith, who notwithstanding his advanced age recited and also gave some musical selections. An efficient staff of officers was elected for the ensuing year. He left last night on a visit to the Island in connection with his new duties. Among other changes which took place at the New Year, C. S. Stafford, who has had the charge of the New Brunswick and P. E. Island business has been transferred to London (Ont.) where he will have charge of one of the largest stores of the concern.—St. John Telegraph, Jan. 7.

A MEETING of the Charlottetown Tourist and Development Association was held last night and several important questions were discussed. It was decided to send a delegate to Boston next month to invite the P. E. Islanders Club to visit the Island during a proposed Home-comers week, to be held during the summer. It was also decided to change the name of the Association to the Prince Edward Island Tourist and Development Association. It was also moved that the Association should be incorporated at the next session of the Local Legislature.

Much discussion took place regarding the proposed work during the coming summer and the indications are that an aggressive campaign will be conducted for the purpose of bringing tourist travel this way. Arrangements for the year's advertising will be completed at a meeting of the advertising committee to be held next Friday night.

TRYING TO SOLVE THE PAGE MURDER

CAMBRIDGE, January, 6.—Two points deemed important by them, were developed by counsel at to-day's sessions of the court which is trying Charles L. Tucker on the charge of murdering Miss Mabel Page. One of these was the statement by Harold Page, the brother of the murdered woman, that he had been acquainted with Tucker for more than six years, and that the latter had called twice at the Page home, the first time at the invitation of the witness.

The other feature was the statement of M. D. Ewell, a hand writing expert, that the person who wrote the address of "L. Morton, Charleston, Mass.," written on a piece of paper found on the floor of Miss Page's room after the murder, was the same person who filled out and signed the sales slips alleged by the government to have been made out by Tucker, while he was a salesman for a Boston firm of stationers. The prisoner's lawyers made no effort to conceal the fact that they were pleased with the testimony of Harold Page. Edward Page, father of the victim, testified yesterday that he had never seen Tucker until the latter was arraigned in the district court at Waltham for a preliminary hearing, but today Harold Page stated that he had known the prisoner since 1897, and that he had known him by sight a year previous to the time when their speaking acquaintance began. The witness further said that Tucker had called on him twice, and on the first occasion he had spent some time within their home. On April 5th the day following Miss Page's funeral, and Tucker's first examination by the police, Harold Page and the defendant rode out together, from Boston to Auburndale in the train.

During the course of the trial to-day all of the garments worn by Miss Page on the day she met her death were entered as exhibits in the case. With the exception of the outer garments and the shoes and stockings, every article of clothing bore large crimson stains. A portion of a skeleton was employed again to-day to illustrate the depth and position of the wounds.
