AUBURN W. L.

The regular monthly meeting of the Auburn Women's Institute was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Edward J. Roach. The meeting opened by reciting the Creed in unison and singing "The Swanee River." The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Roll call was answered by each member making "a New Year resolution." The members decided to help the teacher to supply candy for the school examination in January. A pleasing feature of the programme was two readings one entitled "The Farmer's Wife" by Mrs. A. Callaghan and one entitled "Aunt Jemima's Courtship" by Miss Irene Curley which caused a great deal of merriment. Two questionnaires were filled out. Mrs. P. Callaghan and Mrs. Roy Boylan were appointed on the programme committee for next month. It was also decided to have a "guessing contest" at the next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. P. Callaghan in February. Roll call to be answered by "pinning the tail on a donkey" blindfolded. A dainty lunch was served and a vote of thanks tendered the host and hostess. The meeting adjourned by the singing of the National Anthem.

JUBILEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The home of Mrs. Urban J. Pinneau, Albany, was the meeting place of the members of the Jubilee Women's Institute on January 11. Twelve members joined in singing "The Carol and repeating the Ode. Roll call was answered with "Proverbs". The different committees gave their reports and new ones were appointed. A discussion on the best way to fix school maps took place and to the school committee of Mrs. H. Francis and Mrs. U. J. Pinneau fell the task of attending to same. In response to a request from the Prince County Hospital for a donation of bed linen, the sum of $3. was voted to be sent for that purpose. Sympathy cards were sent to Mr. A. C. Green and Miss Hazel Green. Much of the evening was given to the making of final plans for the rose supper. It was decided to accept Mrs. MacCormac's offer of the use of her home on Thursday evening and each member is to invite her husband. The program was centred on "Legislation" and a discussion of the questionnaire was held and a paper, "Duties of a Citizen" read by Mrs. MacCormac was found quite interesting and instructive. The reading of the tea course and a pleasant and profitable evening came to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

FAREWELL GATHERING — A number of the people of New Haven gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McManus on the evening of Jan. 7th to bid farewell to Mr. Edison MacDonald, who resigned as teacher of the local school to accept a position in West Kent School, Charlottetown. In spite of very disagreeable weather, a goodly number of ratepayers, their wives and children were present as evidence of the fact that they respected their teacher and appreciated the work he had done since coming to the district. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Augustine Tierney, who after making a few well chosen remarks called on Mr. Leo Berrigan to read an appropriate and eloquent address, which was accompanied by a substantial purse presented by Mr. Tierney. Mr. MacDonald feelingly replied, thanking the people for the excellent support and co-operation received by him since coming to New Haven. The singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" completed the formal part of the evening's proceedings. The devotees of Orpheus then repaired to the piano, where a lusty sing-song was enjoyed, while the others found an outlet for their enthusiasm in a jolly game of cards, interrupted just long enough to enjoy a dainty lunch served by the hostess and some of the ladies present. We hope and trust Mr. MacDonald will long enjoy success and health in his new undertaking.

JOYS AND GLOOMS

Moslems Greatly Angered at Congress

(By G. E. Powell)
(Canadian Press Correspondent)
CALCUTTA, Jan. 14.—Extraordinary things said about the National Congress Party at the All-India Moslem League conference at Lucknow have behind them 12 months of pinpricks and friction.
Not only is the Moslem League angered by the Congress refusal to accept it as the representative of the Moslem community. Not only is it pained at the way the Congress cabinets chose four of their Moslem ministers; but it was also much put out by the attacks made by the provincial Congress parties on the Moslem ministries, attacks which the Moslem groups were not in a position to return in kind in the Congress-governed provinces.
The two most important Moslem ministries are in Bengal and Punjab. In the latter the Congress is so weak in the legislature and the ruling Unionist Party so strong that the Congress can do little but bark, but in Bengal the Moslem coalition government has reason to apprehend that the Congress can also bark.

since they have formed the governments in six provinces where they are in a majority they have by their words, deeds and program shown more and more that Moslems cannot expect justice or fair play at their hands.
Jinnah continued in this strain for several thousand words, and what he said with dignity others said more impulsively. Fazlul Huq, the Bengal premier, was reported to have said:
"If the Hindu Congress ministers continue to follow a policy of repression in the other provinces, I shall retaliate in Bengal even if it costs me my life."
Fazlul Huq has since explained that what he said in Urdu was not quite as drastic as this, but even so it is long since Moslem politicians, delivered themselves so strongly about the Congress. To add to the general irritation a series of by-elections is taking place in purely Moslem constituencies in the United Provinces, and in these the Congress is backing Moslem Congressmen against the Moslem League's candidates.

This is in pursuance of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru's plan to win the Moslem electorate over to the Congress and to remove the reproach that it does not represent the Moslems.
By-election Results
In the first of these by-elections, at Jagan, the League candidate won by a handsome margin, but in the more important by-election at Bijnor the Congress candidate, Hafiz Mohammed Ibrahim, beat the League man by 7,271 votes to 2,202.
Hafiz Mohammed Ibrahim was a member of the Moslem League who joined the Congress when it assumed office in the United Provinces and became a minister. He resigned his seat in answer to a challenge by the Moslem League and in the by-election the biggest men in both Congress and League canvassed for their candidates.
In these disputes between League and Congress there is an element of artificiality, for apart from specifically Moslem claims, their policies on many constitutional matters are almost identical. Congress stands for independence in the form of a federation of free democratic states in which the rights and interests of the Moslems and other minorities should be adequately and effectively safeguarded.

Moslem League leaders have at various times expressed opinions on defence, Indian nation, retrenchment, Federation and trade policy that might have come out of the mouths of Congressmen.
The League is anxious for a communal settlement with the Congress, but the Congress appear to be taking the line that the League does not matter much as its voters can be persuaded to vote Congress. Let us get independence first, argue Congressmen, and then we can settle minority claims. The Moslem League feels that it is better tactics to insist on the settlement first.
Political observers are closely watching how events will develop. The influence of the Hindu-Moslem question has often been exaggerated in the past but under the present democratic regime in the province the tension between League and Congress has many potentialities.
