PROGRESSIVE WHIST AND AUCTION FORTY FIVE'S League of the Cross Hall, Tuesday, January 2nd at 8 o'clock p.m. Admission only 25c.

THE LOCALS in yesterday's Guardian about the Whist at the League of the Cross Hall should have read Tuesday evening instead of Thursday evening.

FORT AUGUSTUS NOTES—At the home of John Callaghan a grand reception and dance was held that equalled if not surpassed any held in that vicinity for some time. The young folks gathered and danced away till the wee small hours. Music was supplied by Mr. Hargety, Mr. Smith and B. Callaghan. Luncheon was served by Mrs. Patrick Callaghan in here usual gracious manner and ably assisted by Mrs. P. H. McMillan and Mrs. F. Callaghan. A feature of this event was the fact that Mr. Callaghan had present nearly all of his grand children, twenty nine in all. And notwithstanding, this genial old host danced and enjoyed himself with the best of them.

HOLT A FIGHTING PARSON

Unique Role for Star in Picture, "While Satan Sleeps"

Jack Holt has the unusual role of a Fighting Parson in his latest Paramount picture, "While Satan Sleeps," which comes to the Prince Edward Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. He is not actually a parson in the story, for he only assumes that disguise in order to safely spy out a little town which he and his pal plan to rob. But even at that there is no disguise in the way he fights, especially when a dying girl shows him the error of his ways and another beautiful girl proves to him that she loves him for the man he appears to be. Then he fights not only his enemies, but wages a terrific battle for the regeneration of his own soul. Which is all by way of saying that the picture is one long punch from beginning to end, and that it teems with heart interest. Fritzi Brunette plays opposite the star.

POPULAR PLAYERS

Included in Cast of Jack Holt's "While Satan Sleeps"

A popular cast of Paramount stock company players was assembled to support Jack Holt in his new Paramount picture, "While Satan Sleeps," which will be seen at the Prince Edward Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. It includes Fritzi Brunette as leading woman and Mabel Van Buren, Betty Francisco, Fred Huntley, J. P. Lockney, Will R. Walling, Wade Boteker, Herbert Standing, Sylvia Ashton and Bobby Mack. The picture was directed by Joseph Henabery, who handled the megaphone for Mr. Holt's previous successes, "The Call of the North" and "The Man Unconquerable." Albert Shelby LeVino wrote the story, with Peter B. Kyne's story "The Parson of Panamint," as a basis.

URBAN'S "FOUR SEASONS"

At the Prince Edward Monday and Tuesday

Unusually worth while. Sure fire for the women and kiddies. And the men folks will like it too. Great to get in the whole family. Shows a lot of stuff that's interestin', unusual and very pleasing. All about how the animals take care of themselves during the Spring, Summer, Fall and Winter. Better see it.

"THE FOUR SEASONS"

Extra Added Attraction De-Luxe at the Prince Edward, Monday and Tuesday

Living a year in an hour and feeling years younger by reason of the refreshment of the experience—this describes Charles Urban's new feature novelty, which he has named "THE FOUR SEASONS". Plant life and animal life in its eternal progress from inception to fuition and then its passing after its mission is fulfilled, is possibly the most interesting thing in the world because it never grows stale. Mr. Urban's charming offering is in four parts that consume about an hour. It delights, it instructs, and thoroughly entertains. It is in competition with neither drama nor comedy, but it has definite elements of both, because nature in motion stirs the deepest pools in the human soul, and in its lighter moods induces laughter. The whimsical and the grotesque are supplied by the interesting antics of baby bears, juvenile woodchucks, and the equally fascinating performances of other children of the wilds. Flowers, trees, waterfalls and the beauties of the sea are in contrast with the cold grandeur of the snows and each is wonderful.

1923 A Year Of Centenaries

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The year about to begin will include the centenary anniversaries of an unusually large number of Americans whose lives and achievements were of profound influence upon the world, moral and intellectual progress of the age. The list of distinguished names includes those of authors, artists, statesmen, poets, clergymen, soldiers, editors, scientists inventors and others.

The year will bring the centenary of John Sherman, the great statesman; of Francis Parkman, the historian; of Joseph Medill, the famous Chicago editor; of Schuyler Colfax, the Indiana statesman who became vice-President; of Oliver Morton, United States senator and civil war governor of Indiana; of Thomas Wentworth Higginson, the well-known author, and of Generals Daniel E. Sickles and Earl Van Dorn, the one prominent as a Union commander in the war between the States and the other equally noted as a military leader in the Confederacy.

Others of note who first saw the light of day in the year 1823 are as follows:

Robert Collyer, the blacksmith who became a world-famous preacher.

Henry Bergh, New York philanthropist, founder of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Spencer Fullerton Baird, first U. S. Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries.

Henry J. Newton, "the father of the dry plate process in America."

Orris S. Ferry, civil war commander and United States senator from Connecticut.

Benjamin H. Hill, Confederate States senator from Georgia and later a senator of the United States.

Henry O. Houghton, the Vermont farm boy who became famous as a publisher.

Lafayette C. Baker, chief of the United States Secret Service during the civil war.

Eppa Hunton, Confederate soldier and United States senator from Virginia.

Joseph Le Conte, celebrated geologist and educator.

Sara J. Lippincott, noted author and journalist.

William H. Tweed, the Tammany "boss" who attained notoriety through his conviction as leader of the New York "boodle" ring.

James W. Patterson, United States senator from New Hampshire.

William H. Milburn, the blind chaplain of the United States senate.

Thomas F. Meagher, a banished patriot who commanded the Irish brigade in the American civil war.

Henry G. Davis, United States senator from West Virginia and Democratic nominee for vice-President.

Rt. Rev. William G. McCloskey, Catholic bishop of Kentucky, and at the time of his death the oldest Catholic bishop in the United States, both in years and service.

Galusha A. Grow, of Pennsylvania, Speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives and "father of the Homestead Law."

Rear Admiral John H. Upshur, who had a long and notable career in the U. S. navy.

The most notable of the year's anniversary observances in Canada will be the celebration in Montreal late in April of the 300th anniversary of the birth of Laval, the first bishop of Canada. In August will come the centenary of the birth of Dr. Goldwin Smith, a native of England, but a resident of Canada during the greater part of his life, and who at his death in 1910 was recognized as one of the foremost men of letters of his time. The year will also bring the centenary of the birth of Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who had a long and distinguished career in Canadian politics and for a short period filled the premiership of the Dominion.

Christmas Hooch Kills Eleven And Blinds Two In N. Y.

NEW YORK, December 29.—The bodies of three men, supposedly victims of wood alcohol poisoning, were taken today to the morgue, where autopsies already have disclosed that five men and a woman were killed by alcoholic concoctions they drank during their Christmas celebration. With nine fatalities in New York City, the total death toll of "home brew" drunk on Christmas Day, according to reports from other cities already has reached 11 dead, two totally blinded and 22 made ill by poisonous liquor.

In the case of the six victims of Christmas Day, Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner, found that each had died of alcoholic poisoning, but he was unable to say whether death was due to wood alcohol. To determine whether wood alcohol was responsible for the deaths of the five men and the woman, a chemical analysis is to be made tomorrow by Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, toxicologist, at Bellevue Hospital.

Reports from other parts of the country showed that poisonous Christmas liquor was believed to have caused the death of one person and the illness of 23 in Detroit, the death of one and the total blinding of two in Shelby, Ohio.

Scattered reports would indicate from drinking poisonous liquor that the fatalities and injuries will be heavy, despite the timely warnings issued by organizations interested in the conservation of human eyesight against the promiscuous use of liquor for Christmas celebrations.

Despite the mute evidence at the morgue of the extent to which death dealing rum had been consumed on Christmas, the prohibition agents in the New York district insisted that yesterday was the "driest Christmas" ever seen in New York.

Maritime Religious Education Council

Christmas and Childhood are closely linked words and in the numerous reports of Sunday School programs recently given, the children's part is very prominent and rightly so as the Christmas story and carols are never sweeter than when given by them. The real Christmas spirit, however, has come to the children through their gifts to others and we note the increasingly large number of schools using the "White Gift Service" and other programs that emphasize giving. Boxes for missions, provisions for those less fortunate scrap books for hospitals and shut-ins, these are just a few of the activities, while a visit to a mission school showed the same spirit of doing for others. It is a wonderful thing to present to the child heart the lure of giving rather than the lure of getting and the teachings of these object lessons will surely project into the future.

Elementary Institutes... A two session institute, conducted by Miss Harrison, was recently held at Summerside, and the presence of nearly all the teachers in this, the younger children's department was the first step towards a successful institute. "Organization" and "Teaching" were the afternoon topics and an interesting Round Table Conference brought out many points of helpful instruction. The tea-hour at Miss M. Strong's gave opportunity for further discussion and the evening session at the Presbyterian Church was attended by a good group of workers. "Children's Worship" by Mrs. Mitchell and "The Use of Pictures" by Miss Kirn were two of the excellent papers given. The Summerside Sunday School's are earnestly looking for progressive methods for forging ahead in their work and are attaining splendid results.

At Charlottetown, in the Baptist Church, an equally successful Institute was held, due again to the large percentage of the teachers present and the keen interest in the topics presented. The "Standard" for the Children's work was one of the subjects dealt with, while "Teaching" was also prominent in address and discussion. The "Philathea Class" made possible the tea hour, which was followed by a story-telling period, Miss Helen Carvell, contributed greatly by her stories. Mrs J. A. Clarke gave an interesting paper touching "Week Day Religious Instruction" and Rev O H Raymond told of the Bible Society's work in the Sunday School.

These Institutes are the means of bringing the teachers of the various churches together for the discussion of problems and the best ways of working. One of the most satisfying results is the fact that the workers are realizing the benefit from united conferences.

Conferences and Institutes have also been held in different parts of Kings and Annapolis Counties, N. S. Bad weather and bad roads made meetings difficult but in each case an interested group met and an impetus was given to the Children's work. At Canning, good preparation had been made and a profitable two-session Institute was held.

The December copy of "Religious Education" is at hand and among its excellent contents is a partial summary of the "Iowa Plan of Character Education Methods". A $20,000 prize was offered by the National Institute for Moral Instruction, (Washington), and twenty-six State Committees handed in reports. The award was to the Committee from the State of Iowa. The article is interesting reading.

As we look back over our year's work, there is much to encourage and enhearten and as we enter Nineteen twenty-three we realize that "the doors of new days and new years are always the days of entrance and opportunity.

Entertainment And Presentation By St. Zita Society

An event of more than passing interest took place at Rosary Hall on Thursday, Dec 21st, when the members of St. Zita's Society put on one of their celebrated concerts Rev. R. St. John, spiritual director of the society in his own inimitable manner presiding. Among the invited guests were His Lordship, Bishop of Charlottetown and clergy of the Cathedral staff besides Rev. Father Frank McQuaid who journeyed from his country parish to be present and with the others took advantage of the occasion to cast dull care aside and enjoy themselves in the fun of the hour.

The program which appears below did not contain a dull number each member taking her part creditably and well.

At the closing the Spiritual Director was presented with a pair of fur lined gloves and an address appropriate to the occasion who in well chosen words thanked the doners of the gift and complimented them on the success of their entertainment. The Rev. Rector of the Cathedral, in terms of praise referred to the program and his enjoyment of same. Complimenting the young ladies on their model behaviour, and the modesty of their attire. His one regret being that he had not been chosen as Spiritual Director, particularly when he saw the gloves. Rev. Father Frank McQuaid, Parish Priest at Freetown proudly referred to the happy days when he as their Spiritual Director was the "hero of the hour" and the good work done by the girls at that time in co-operation with the League of the Cross boys, particularly when war was declared, and the beloved of all the originator of the society Father Pius enlisted.

Their rooms were taken over as Catholic Army huts and hearts once full of play were now filled with other things.

Story books and fancy work now, never saw the light whilst needles threads and bandages were seldom out of sight.

At the close of his remarks a bevy of young ladies with gaily decorated trays well filled with home made candy suddenly appeared and treated their guests to toothsome feast after which they dispersed well content with their evenings entertainment. The singing of God Save the King brought the evening to a close. It is but justice to give due credit to the Catholic Women's League under the auspices of the St. Zita Society was reorganized and speaks well of the high order of the work so harmoniously carried on by the president, Mrs. Andrew F. Murphy and the conveners of Senior Welfare, Mrs Andrew Gallant and Mrs. Frank McKearney and which shows beyond a doubt the result that can be attained by sympathetic understanding, co-operation and forgetfulness of self.
