Prolonged Sleep Is Beneficial

Rise in Temperature Caused Some Apprehension Yesterday, But More Hopeful View Was Taken of the King's Condition After Several Hours Restful Sleep.

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, Dec. 4.—A somewhat more hopeful view of the condition of the King was taken late tonight after fear during the evening that he had lost ground in his fifteen day fight against congestion of the lungs and pleurisy. It was understood that as a result of the natural sleep which he obtained last night and early today he was actually better and stronger than he was on Sunday or Monday. Six hours of sleep which he had last night was the best repose in several days.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—King George rose ground today in his fight against pleurisy which has kept him at Buckingham Palace for the last 15 days and caused apprehension throughout the Empire. Although he had six hours of sleep last night the best repose in several days, his temperature rose to 100.2 during the day and was persisting tonight at 8.30 p. m. when his physicians issued their third bulletin since morning. The morning bulletin said that anxiety concerning His Majesty's weakened heart must continue and tonight's message informed the nation that his sovereign was "rather less comfortable."

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The King's physicians in their official bulletin today announced that although anxiety concerning his heart continues, the improvement that had been noted previously had been satisfactorily maintained. The medical bulletin signed by Sir Stanley Hewitt and Lord Dawson of Penn read: "The King has passed a quieter night. Though anxiety concerning his heart continues, the improvement noted last evening is so far satisfactorily

SENDS FINAL MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Coolidge Outlines Legislative Program for Short Session.

(Special to the Guardian)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—President Coolidge sent to congress today his final annual message, a document hinting that any new appropriations for immediate outlays would lead to the "unthinkable" result of a June, 1929, deficit. Even a revolving fund in any farm relief legislation would have to be provided by loans or otherwise, Mr. Coolidge advised, since the treasury would have no money available to create the fund.

At home Coolidge said "all is tranquility and contentment—and the highest record of years of prosperity," while abroad "there is peace and the goodwill which comes from mutual understanding."

After warning the congress and the nation that America can "afford to walk humbly" and avoid becoming selfish under the flood of prosperity, the President outlined a legislative program for the short session some of which left legislators in doubt as to their own course of action. He favored a farm relief bill with a revolving fund in it, but lacking the equalization fee proposal which he has hitherto found objectionable.

He advocated passage of the 15 cent bill now pending in the senate, but suggested that the time clause for starting building before 1931 should be removed. Some saw in this an attempt to have merely a "paper" navy—one which need not be built if the 1931 arms limitation session under the Washington treaty comes to a new limitations agreement.

He favored ratification of the Kellogg anti-war pact which he praised highly. Further he was for passage of the Boulder Dam and Muscle Shoals bill, but with the qualification which would prevent any extensive government entry into the private electrical power field.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The Kellogg anti-war treaty was submitted today to the Senate for ratification by President Coolidge.

Let's Help Santa Claus By Giving Needy Kiddies A Real Merry Christmas

With the Christmas season drawing near, the expectation of youngsters in city and country are centred about Santa Claus, that jovial old gentleman with the capacious sack, whose reindeer steeds never fail to fetch him here on time, and who never forgets to bring to good little boys and girls those presents which are most ardently desired. It was once rumored that Santa Claus had passed away—that he was only a myth, after all, and was destined to be forgotten along with other myths in this age of scientific thought. But this heresy has perished. We are glad to say that the old fellow is friskier than ever, and there are indications that he will live for many years to come.

As usual at this season, The Guardian opens its columns to its generous-hearted readers in order to provide for the many children of needy families who in the ordinary course of events would be completely overlooked by Santa Claus when he makes his annual visit on Christmas Eve; children to whom Christmas Day is not very different from any other day in the year, and who would be bitterly disappointed if they had set their hearts upon which the little presents upon which their hearts were not forthcoming. It is in an effort to insure for these children a little of that happiness which should be universal on Christmas Day that this appeal is made.

The Guardian has annually submitted a plan whereby with the least bother and expense any persons who wish to do so may act as Santa-Pals to one of these children. With the assistance of the clergy and responsible private citizens it has compiled a list of children of fifteen years and under, and in some cases also has ascertained just what Christmas presents each child wants. The list with the summaries omitted and the number assigned to each child appears in this issue and will be repeated every morning minus the names of the children for whom Santa's Pals have been found. As each reader decides upon the child for whom he or she shall act as Santa he should write to the Editor, or telephone 133, so that the name chosen can be struck from the list. His present should be securely

YOUNG MAN KILLED IN N. B. MILL

Arnold Keough, 19 Year Old P. E. Islander, Met Death Under Tragic Circumstances.

ALMA, Albert County, N. B., Dec. 4.—A sad fatality occurred yesterday afternoon about three o'clock at Black Brothers lumber camp about five miles from here when Arnold Keough, whose home is in Prince Edward Island, met death under tragic circumstances by being struck on the head by a birch limb which fell on him causing a fracture of the skull.

Deceased was 19 years of age and had been engaged around the mill for some time. Dr. J. E. M. Caruath, of Riverside, was called immediately following the accident but when he arrived life was extinct, the young man having lived only a few minutes after being hit by the falling limb.

Dr. Caruath, after conducting an investigation into the circumstances surrounding his death, decided that an inquest was unnecessary, death being purely accidental.

The following is a partial list of some of the kiddies and the presents they desire. Some of the demands are very modest, but donors can be assured that any addition on their part will give increased pleasure and will add the element of surprise which makes for the happiest kind of Christmas.

MUST FULFILL OBLIGATIONS

Germany Has no Legal Right to Demand Immediate Evacuation of The Rhineland, Chamberlain Declares.

(Special to The Guardian)
LONDON, Dec. 4.—That Germany will have no right to demand evacuation of the Rhineland until she has executed, not merely current reparations obligations but the whole of them, was the important declaration in the Commons today of Sir Austen Chamberlain.

The Foreign Secretary made a distinction between his statements, which, he said, was merely a citation of the law and the policy of the British Government, which was decided by different considerations.

The government is advised, said Sir Austen's statement, which is in legal justification for the contention that Germany has complied with all the obligations imposed upon her by the treaty so as to entitle her to the right, under article 431 or others to be made, the withdrawal of forces now occupying the Rhineland before the expiry period laid down in the treaty.

The chief obligation with which Germany has not yet complied is that of reparations. In the opinion of the government the concession provided for in article 431 could take effect only when Germany has completely executed and discharged the whole of her reparations obligations. It is not sufficient that she should be carrying out regularly her undertakings in the matter of current reparations payment.

"As to policy, which is equally important, though decided by different considerations, I repeat that His Majesty's government would welcome early evacuation of the Rhineland by French, British and Belgian forces, irrespective of the legal right of the allied governments to continue the occupation until the expiry period fixed by the treaty," said Sir Austen.

Sir Austen's statement which is in apparent, though he contended today not in real conflict with that made on the subject by Lord Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, a fortnight ago, "used some surprise and is welcomed by the Liberal press."

"The French" says the Daily News, editorially "have always interpreted Article 431 in a sense that makes it meaningless but for us to follow their lead is to smother ourselves in dishonor not only in the eyes of Germany, but also in those of the whole world outside of France."

Berlin, Dec. 4.—Political circles in Berlin appear considerably upset by a statement made in the House of Commons yesterday by Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary to the effect that on the question of law there was no legal justification for the

Says Canadians
Love Statistics

(Canadian Press)
LONDON, Dec. 4.—The Canadians are a statistical race, Viscount Peel, secretary for India told the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at their luncheon when he was the principal guest. He was replying to the toast of his health proposed by Rt. Hon. Sir Hamar Greenwood, Canadian-born member of the British House of Commons and recollecting his recent trip to Canada as chairman of the Imperial Parliamentary Association's delegation. There is no need to apologize to Canadian audiences for quoting their figures Lord Peel said: "Canadians love them." The visiting parliamentarians had been overwhelmed by the tremendous vision of Canada's immense resources Lord Peel continued.

Bodies of Two Victims Found

(Special to The Guardian)
RIO JANEIRO, Dec. 4.—The harbor waters today gave up the bodies of two of the twelve persons who plunged to their deaths in the hydro-aeroplane Santos Dumont this morning. All were carried below the surface except one mechanic who died in a hospital a short time after he was picked up by a launch. Witnesses said that the plane was banking into the wind when it went into a tallspin and plunged to the sea. Among the victims were five leaders of the Rio Janeiro democratic party which organized a celebration on the homecoming of the pioneer Brazilian aviator, Alberto Santos-Dumont.

Depression on Stock Market

(Special to The Guardian)
LONDON, Dec. 4.—For the first time since King George became ill an air of depression stole over the London stock market today. There were slight recessions in practically all departments, but no pronounced depression. Operators had returned from a long week-end—the market closed Friday night—to find the King not so well as last evening. They, therefore, took precautionary measures by reducing speculative stock commitments, and their customers did likewise.

Construction of the modern type of ferry with the necessary ice breaking requirements for winter service, were further pressed upon Mr. Dunning. An appropriation to cover the cost of this second ferry of 1,000,000 was passed at the last session of parliament.

At the present time the delegation pointed out, terminal facilities at Borden and Cape Tormentine afforded accommodation at each point for the existing ferry only. Conditions were quite likely to arise, however, especially during the winter months, the Maritime representatives proceeded, when, with the construction of the second ferry, it would be necessary to dock the two ferries at the same terminal.

The rapidly increasing tourist traffic to Prince Edward Island was emphasized by the delegation in requesting that the proposed second ferry should be of the highest type of construction. A feature of this second ferry it was brought out during the hearing of the delegation, will be a provision for the easy conveyance of automobiles from the mainland to Prince Edward Island.

Representations Made to Hon. C. A. Dunning Yesterday By Island Delegates.

(Special to The Guardian)
OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—The delegation of six from P. E. I. headed by the Hon. Mr. Saunders, and including Senator MacArthur and A. E. Maclean, member for Prince County arrived here this morning and had an interview of two hours from eleven to one o'clock, with the Hon. Mr. Dunning, Minister of Railways. The subject under discussion was exclusively the new Island ferry, regarding which the views of the delegation were presented from every possible angle. The interview was held behind closed doors, and no statement was given out as to details of the discussion. However, the interview will be continued tomorrow morning at ten thirty and it is probable that at the close a statement will be made, which will include the decision arrived at by the minister.

(Canadian Press)
OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—"This whole matter will be examined into by experts of the department and the Canadian National Railways." This was the promise given this afternoon by Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, in response to representations made to him today for the creation of the best possible communication facilities and accommodations for Edward Island and New Brunswick.

OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—Representations for the creation of the best possible communication and accommodation facilities between Prince Edward Island and the mainland, were laid before Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, late this morning.

Led by Premier A. C. Saunders, and Senator Creelman MacArthur, Summerside, a delegation from Prince Edward Island urged the extension by the Dominion Government of dock facilities at both Cape Tormentine on the mainland and Borden, P. E. I., the connecting points by ferries between the two provinces.

Construction of the modern type of ferry with the necessary ice breaking requirements for winter service, were further pressed upon Mr. Dunning. An appropriation to cover the cost of this second ferry of 1,000,000 was passed at the last session of parliament.
