..*INKERMAN SCHOOL.— The semi-annual examination of the Inkerman School was held on December 21st. The pupils being examined in the different branches by their teacher Miss Granville MacVittie, assisted by Mrs. Fred Molyneaux, acquitted themselves very creditably, showing that they had been carefully taught during the last term. There were quite a number of parents and visitors present. The school was nicely decorated and a Christmas tree heavily laden stood in the corner. A short program of recitations and readings was rendered by the pupils. The tree was then unloaded by Miss Nellie Scott and a small Christmas token given to each pupil. All were treated to confectionery and went home well please with the progress of the school.

105TH BOYS ENJOY PASS TO SCOTLAND

Mrs. D. S. Dnning has received the following letter from her son "Ralph" of the 105th Battalion, now training in England.

December 20th, 1916

Dear Mother:—Just a few lines to night to say we are all quite well, clear of a cold, which seems to be well on parade. About three hundred or more have gone to France and we don't know at what time we may be needed but whenever it is we are "Jake" (our motto) always on the job.

All of us who did not have our pass while in Shorncliffe are having it now. I was away last week and quite a lot are away now.

You know we could please ourselves where we went. About sixty of us went to Edinburgh, Scotland, and let me say we sure had a great time, and will always remember the kindness of the Scotch people toward us. They sure make one feel at home. They call us "Canada" and think that we are about all that is worth while.

Well Mother it is impossible to tell you all we saw while on pass. We visited the Castle, the Museum and Art Gallery, and saw wonderful sights while at the Museum. We saw everything of the sea, earth and air, past, present and future, and came home delighted with our trip, only wishing it had been sixty days instead of six We did not stop in London, only to change cars. Will go later on a week end pass to see that little city. The Burgoyne boys, George MacKenzie, Dannie Gunn, Pope Warren, John Wigmore, Harold Brown, have gone to France and we sure miss them around here.

We are living in huts and have good beds and lots of blankets and lately we have been getting plenty to eat. received the parcels from home all right also the one you readdressed from London. Nearly every day some one of us boys get a parcel from home and very often we get a slice of P. E. I'd cake, which is, the only cake.

I am still on the transport section with Sergent W. Seaman. It seems like old time to be working with him

I hear from Otto quite often and expect him over from France on leave soon. You may bet I will be glad to see him. I receive a lot of letters so it keeps me busy answering them. I guess I will close by wishing you a Happy New Year. The same wish holds good for all my friends across the sea bye bye from son

DEATH SENTENCE COMMUTED.

(Special to the Guardian.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 12— Alphonse Barre of Rose Corners, Ontario, who was to have been hanged at L'original for the murder of his wife had his sentence commuted to life imprisonment being adjudged insane. After killing his wife he notified the sexton that he had done so and asked to ring the church bell.

ACIDS IN STOMACH SOUR THE FOOD AND CAUSE INDIGESTION

"PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN" FIXES SOUR GASSY, UPSET STOMACHS IN FIVE MINUTES.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can surely get relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why it relieves sour out of order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clear and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for billiousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gasses, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach misery and indigestion in five minutes.

FORTY-FIVE DAYS IN QUARNTINE

Experience of the "Happy Fifth"

By Gr. W. T. Dawson

To begin with, I enlisted at Charlottetown in what was then No. 5 Siege Battery, C.E.F., the name has since been changed to 272nd. "Canadian" Siege Battery, R.G.A. After a month or two in the Agricultural Hall we went— I won't say "marched"—down to the Car Ferry steamer one morning in heavy marching order— carrying our homes on our backs— and began our trip to England. We sailed from Halifax in S. S. "Southland"—formerly the Belgian Red Star liner "Vanderland" and, since she left her owners, three times torpedoed in the course of hostilities— and landed in Liverpool after an eight day trip across the Western Ocean. We went immediately to a Canadian camp south of London and stayed a week or so, till we got arrival leave—mine represented seven days in Ireland and one in London.

Returning from leave, we abode at Witley till measles broke out in the unit. One section, minus the afflicted member, marched away at once to Bramshot. The other three stayed at Witley overnight and two of them marched out next morning, Sections Three and Four, to Bramshot. The officers, sergeants and Section Two, who were not under the ban of the M.O., went gaily away to an artillery training camp. That was October 27; today is December 13, and Section Four is waiting in Hut 7, Bramshot North Camp, for transportation to take it to join the rest of the battery Sections One and Three having left us weeks ago.

Incongruous as it may seem to associate fate with measles, fate has been busy playing pranks on Section Four. If no new cases occur in a quarantined hut by the expiration of a period of fourteen, or fifteen, or sixteen days— the M.O., himself is not sure of the exact number— an order comes down from Camp Headquarters to the O. C., Hut to take blankets, kitbags and articles of clothing, together with a hundredweight of coal for heating, over to a disinfector. Three times we have sought the disinfector aforesaid after the fit and proper interval of freedom from measles. The first time Jim Macdonald and M. C. West proved the unhappy possessors of the requisite sore eyes and red rashy chest to send them to the hospital for ten days and us to quarantine for a fortnight. Our blankets were lying outside the disinfection room door, and the Corporal orderd them up and tramped us back across a parade ground. We filed sullenly into the hut amid the jeers of Section Three, who regarded us cheerfully from the doorway of their hut across the street. The second time Bob Mollison and Ernie Hine developed measles after we had shivered in the disinfecting waiting room while our underwear and socks went through. Two days we waited for transportation before this tragic anticlimax and the doctor ordered us at once a further spell of quarantine. Yesterday morning we disinfected our blankets and underwear once more, and today we are sitting around the stove reading and trying to keep our feet warm, or playing poker or auction forty-five, or writing tommyrot while our hands freeze. After two disappointments we are waiting today, not for our clearance papers, but for a new case which will jail us up for another spell. Free haircutting is flourishing in one corner of the hut; it is of the sanitary type which, according to the Captain, enables you to "keep on washing your face until you arrive at the back of your neck."

Since we arrived in Bramshot none of our officers has been near us in any other capacity than that of mailman. Every morning we receive a visit from the M.O. of the battalion whose cookhouse supplies our rations. Except for this gentleman—and I have met no finer in the army than the Medical Officer of the 160th French Canadians, we take orders from no one but the N. C. O. in charge of our section, Corporal Joseph Hogan. There are four other N.C. O.'s all one stripers, of whom your humble is one, having been appointed a Bombaradier for the period of quarantine to administer physical torture to the section each morning but Sunday at 8.30. Parades other than physical are few-squad drill once during the day if the Orderly N. C. O. of the day so pleases, and a route march in the afternoon to one of the nearby villages, on the same condition. There are three fatigues-room guard, mess and latrine. The room guard sweeps out the hut after each meal and keeps a fire on in the one and only decrepit stove. The prime test of excellence in a room guard is his ability to beg, bluff, or steal usually the last, sufficient coal in addition to his regulation allowance from the cook house to keep the stove top and the pipe red hot, when it is usually quite comfortable within a radius of five or six feet away from the generator of calories. The room guard failing to annex a stock of black diamonds, the N. C. O. of the day infuses a little new energy into the search for unprotected stores of the required article and usually returns triumphant from a succesful burglary. Mess fatigue takes three men and the Orderly N. C. O. each day. Rations are issued at the cookhouse and carried up to the hut in pans or buckets. We eat out of our mess tins and wash them in a pail of hot water from the bath house. Mess fatigue is regarded as all right," for as the Q. M. S. said one day to a man who complained he had been so busy on this duty that he had got no rations, "A man on mess fatigue who gets no rations d—— well deserves to lose them." Latrines and wash houses are cleaned, in theory at least, every day. Of this duty I shall say nothing but that it is usually undertaken with a good deal of levity, and that the conversation among the latrine fatigue is striking rather than printable.

Outside the front door— the back door is nailed up (?)— paces up and down a guard posted by the battalion burdened with our keep. No man is supposed to leave the hut except in the company of an N. C. O., but see the interrogation point above.

"An Extra Run" on FRY'S COCOA

RUNNING a big Mogul on schedule time is about as complete a brain, sinew and nerve test as a man could want. So when the order comes for "An Extra Run" that engineer is wise who fortifies himself with a cup of FRY'S COCOA. FRY'S, because it builds for "nerves of steel." It's such a splendid food as well as a delicious beverage.

TENNYSON SMITH GETS INTO BAD COMPANY.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6—The annual meeting of the Licensed Victuallers' Association of Montreal was held Thursday afternoon at the Monument National. There were some special incidents which furnished the members with some amusement, and also with annoyance. This was due to the fact that several prohibitionists tried to force their way in, by various methods, and had to be politely ejected.

The first interruption came when it was noticed that a woman was seated in the audience. One of the members asked her what business she had and the attention of the secretary was drawn to her. In reply to a question from Mr. L. A. Lapointe, the secretary, the lady stated that she was Mrs. Smith, and that she represented nobody in particular, except the public, and that she hoped that she would be allowed to attend the meeting, the same as had been allowed her in Australia.

Mr. George Payette, president of the association, said that the rules did not allow of anyone attending the association except members, and consequently the lady was escorted to the door by Mr. Payette himself.

The lady was no sooner out of the door than Mr. Tennyson Smith (who had apparently been unrecognized) rose and said that he did not wish to be present under false colors. He was there as a representative of the press. He said he represented the "Temperance Press Agency," of London, England. He was told that the press would be allowed to be present provided they would undertake not to publish reports of the business, and he said he would promise that. Presently someone in the audience stated that Mr. Tennyson Smith had his note-book, and Mr. Smith rose and said that he only intended to use it to make notes and not to report it. There were others who objected to his being allowed to remain, and as there were strong indications of this feeling in the meeting, the chairman asked Mr. Tennyson Smith to retire. He protested, but said he would do so, and then gave his name.
