BELGIAN VILLAGES RUINED BY GERMANS

LONDON, Oct. 27.—An Amsterdam despatch to Reuters says: "From Sluis comes a report that the country villages around Roulers are being devastated by the Germans partly for strategic reasons. Both in the towns and outside of them, many of the inhabitants have lost their lives through their own imprudence. It is estimated that a thousand inhabitants were killed and that 250 houses have been burnt down. "Roulers is as quiet as a graveyard and only a few German soldiers are seen in the streets. The villages of Moorsted, Doelkapelle, Westrosebeke and Staden are heaps of ruins."

ABOARD THE FLEET.

(The British Admiralty has issued an order, that if one ship of a squadron is torpedoed by a submarine, the other ships must not risk destruction by going to her assistance.) Their nibses up in London town Have writ it out in ink That, when a British ship goes down, Her mates must let her sink. An' musn't stop to save her crew or smash the submarine that sent her to the bottom o' the sea, But, ferfigitful o' the dead "They must yell, "Full speed, ahead!" An' hunt a somewhat safer place to be.

GERMAN BOMBS KILLED MANY CHILDREN

LONDON, Oct. 27.—"The German campaign with aeroplane bombs against Warsaw has been rather effective," says the Warsaw correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company. "On one day forty-four people were killed or wounded, and of these only nine were soldiers. On another day there were sixty-two casualties. No soldiers were injured at that time, but many children, who were drawn into the streets by curiosity, were struck. Each aeroplane, apparently, has an equipment of five bombs, which are fired at intervals in the flight across the city. According to information gleaned from prisoners, aeroplane raids on London are impending."

DUTY.

..Today, more than ever do we need to take up the duty that lies nearest, simple and commonplace though it may seem. The duty that lies right at our door is often the most difficult we can accomplish. Even to see the duty that is actually nearest is often a matter of great difficulty. Something in our curiosity wrought natures always lends enchantment to the thing most distant.

The human mind loves to dwell on its to-morrow never on its today. "To-day," we tell ourselves, "Ah, well, today does not matter, but to-morrow or next week, ah, then we will act." Alas! this is procrastination's road, and procrastination is not only a thief of time, but of life and of eternity.

Life becomes a series of neglected yesterday's, deceiving army of promises—all for to-morrow—and nothing is ever actually accomplished or done. This is a day when all must be done now. Take your nearest duty and do it now. To-morrow may be too late.

KILLED BY BLOOD POISONING.

Used an old razor for paring his corns. Foolish, because a 25c. bottle of Putnam's Corn Extractor will cure all the corns in a family for a year. Safe, because purely vegetable. Use only Putnam's Extractor, 25c. at all dealers.

TROUBLES.

Have you ever noticed how entirely the lesser troubles are submerged by the smaller ones? Yet how harassed we allow ourselves to become through those trifles that, as we rightly observe, "worry the very life out of us!" Before the outbreak of this terrible war, for example, there was a great deal of trouble in various directions—strikes and discontent on all sides, political bickerings and social disagreements, yet directly this tremendously over-whelming trouble arose, lesser matters became insignificant and unimportant. We all grew united and ready to move in a common cause. God help us in that cause, and grant that we may be spared to see a successful issue.

But through it all, if victorious, may we be pitiful towards our enemies.

SWING SONG.

I've been a fairy all unseen, With silver wings and shoon, Who flies alone to seek the buried Treasure in the moon. I've been a falling star that floats Down when a poet sings, It's good through all the golden day To be so many things.

But when a grey night comes with winds That wall, and clouds that weep, It's best of all to be a child Again, and fall asleep. —Florence Harrison, in "Elfin Song."

UNHAPPINESS

Those women whose entire lives have been devoted to studying their personal comfort, dress, and appearance are always unhappy. They are in constant dread of growing old, because they only live for admiration, and when that ceases to be accorded them, their interest in life ceases. Sometimes, perchance in their declining years, they recognize that their lives have been wasted and that with it their old age is desolate, instead of their enjoying the fruits of unselfish existence, and being beloved not only by those whom they have helped and sympathized with, but also by others whose lives have been similarly devoted to "the common interests of humanity," whether the subject for commiseration occurred in the form of a hungry child, a suffering woman, or a repentant sinner.

An' hunt a somewhat safer place to be.

Their nibses up in London town can write it out in ink. They can write it out and sign it if they will, But the average British tar Wot is fightin' this here war, Such as me an' Jack Magoon an' Ginger Bill, Dye think were goin' to stand For any orders from the land Wot'd make us plum ashamed to meet the mate Wot we'd gone an' left to drown When his busted ship went down, Just because we didn't want to share his fate?

'Course we ain't got much to say, me and Ginger Bill and Jack, An' 'we others wot are fightin' 'this here war, We are just a-layin' low, Us an' old John Jellico, An' o' course we knows just wot our orders are. An' o' course we'll all obey Wot the London nibses say An' avoid the werry deadly submarine; But how's a battleship to run If she busts her engine, son? An' before we'll run, we'll bust the danged machine!

No, we ain't got much to say, Ginger Bill an' Jack an' me, But we feels that we can give you this here tip— That, although we must obey Wot the London nibses say, It's pretty bloomin' 'hard to find a ship Wot can run full speed ahead When her bloomin' engine's dead— Though perhaps it will recover by and by; When we've smashed the submarine, We'll repair our danged machine, An' there ain't nobody'd ask us how or why. —Herbert Ravenel Sass.

A bow to the noble mind That freely some great wrong forgives: Yet nobler is the one forgiven, Who bears that burden well and lives. —A. Procter.

Much Pain From Kidney Disease

Doctored in Vain until Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills Were Used. Kidney derangements are often associated with disorders of the liver and bowels and under these conditions ordinary kidney medicines usually fail to effect cure. It is because of their unique, combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels that Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills are so generally successful in the most complicated cases.

Mr. Emanuel Bernard, farmer, St. Paul's, Kent County, N. B., writes: "About eighteen years ago my wife was bad with kidney disease, and suffered greatly from headaches, pains in bowels and stomach, and her heart was affected. For a year she was treated by her doctor, with no apparent benefit. She then used five boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills with most satisfactory results. This gave us such a good opinion of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills that we always keep them in the house to be used for all derangements of the kidneys, liver and bowels." Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, 25c. a box, 5 for $1.00, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.
