—FUNERAL OF MR. JAMES H. BALL—The funeral services for Mr. James H. Ball were held on Thursday afternoon from his late residence and were largely attended. Rev. L. E. G. Davies conducted the service. The pallbeares were Messrs. Fred Muggart, W. K. Llewellyn, Hooper Linkletter, Major Townsend, Wm. Brooks and Daniel Clow. S.

—FIRE ON CAMBRIDGE STREET— The Summerside Fire Brigade were called out shortly after noon on Saturday for a fire at the residence of Mrs. William MacQuarrie on Cambridge Street. The fire which appeared to be caused by sparks from the flue caught the shingles on the south side of the roof and burned a considerable hole in the roof. Damage was caused to the interior of the house through water and smoke. The firemen responded quickly and soon had the fire under control. S.

—STUDY MEETING— The members of the Children of Mary Sodality, Tignish, held a special meeting at the Convent on Wednesday evening, February 28th. There was a large number in attendance. The Convenor on entertainment, Miss Kathleen Brennan explained that the purpose of this meeting was twofold. Namely the organizing of a study club, and also a sewing circle, who would do Red Cross Work. She then suggested that these two organizations, be combined. Miss Brennan's plan was met with much approval by the meeting. The members were then divided into two groups, who decided to meet once every week at the homes. The yarn which had been previously purchased was then distributed evenly among the members, and the meeting was brought to a close.

Fascists Protest

obstruct Italian conquest of Ethiopia by laying down economic sanctions against the Rome Government.

Since then Italy has become increasingly conscious of her vulnerability to blockade.

From the economic standpoint the foreign coal supply is a major issue for this country. Italy's annual coal consumption roughly is 14,000,000 tons, of which domestic production furnishes about 2,000,000 tons.

In 1939 Germany supplied little less than 7,000,000 tons, of which about one-third was water-borne, while England's quota was about 4,500,000 tons.

Coal Crisis

In recent months Italy has been passing through a coal crisis, due partly to transportation difficulties arising from severe winter and wartime conditions.

Consequently the Government monopoly has been compelled to ration available coal stocks. Only bakeries receive 100 per cent normal requirements. Mechanical metallurgical and textile industries receive 80 per cent, clothing and leather goods industries 70 per cent, and the building, glass and lumber industries 50 per cent.

Nearly 150 train schedules have been eliminated to conserve coal and the advisability has been discussed of halving all passenger traffic one or two days a week.

Seeking relief from the situation, Italy has three main possibilities—increased imports from Germany by rail, increased imports from England or obtaining supplies from the United States.

Nazis Apologize To Belgium

BERLIN March —(AP) —Germany today expressed regret when the Belgian ambassador, Vicomte Davidnon, protested in the foreign office over the shooting down of Belgian planes by a German bomber in an air combat over Belgian soil.

The fight occurred Saturday.

The following German version of the incident was given:

"A German scouter, returning from the north of France was attacked by seven planes of the English Hurricane type.

"Because of this, and the impression he was flying over French soil, the German pilot held the attackers to be English pursuit craft.

"In the air fight one plane was shot down. The German reached home afely. Later it was established that the fight occurred a few minutes' flying time from the French border over Belgian soil and the plane shot down was Belgian."

(Belgian accounts of the fight said three Belgian planes surrounded a huge Dornier bomber, but did not fire until the German opened fire, shooting down one of the Belgians and killing the pilot. Another Belgian plane later crashed with bullet holes in its gasoline tank.)

Prince County Conservatives Well Organized

The National Conservative Committee in Prince County are now well organized for the coming Federal Election the latter part of this month. Committee meetings have been held in many districts and the attendance has been large and much enthusiasm shown.

Then men are standing four square behind their chosen candidate, Dr. J. A. MacPhee who is well known throughout the County. Dr. MacPhee has a splendid record as a military man serving all through the last war, and retiring recently as Lieut Colonel. Besides his military record, the Doctor has always been active in the affairs of the Community. As President of the Children's Aid Society of Prince County, whch office he has held for many years, the Doctor is quite familiar with the needs of the rank and file of the County and has always given careful consideration to each case that has come before him, and has been the means of providing many destitute children with foster homes.

The electors of Prince County will make no mistake if they send the doctor to Ottawa as he knows the needs of the people of Prnce County as few men in the Province know them. His professional duties have taken him to homes from east Prince to as far West as Tignish, and his nomination was hailed in every district with enthusiasm.

On Tuesday Dr. MacPhee is to address a meeting in Tignish and in spite of the bad condition of the roads the electors of the surrounding districts are looking forward to the meeting, as they know the doctor will have something worthwhile to tell them. The doctor will address meetings in various parts of Prince County during the next few weeks. S.

The competition saw some pretty close finishes right through.

Labor Wins Bye-election In Australia

SYDNEY, March 3—(CP cable) —Victory of a Labor candidate in a by-election at Corio, Victoria, a seat previously held by the Government, was announced today and the result was hailed by Labor leaders as endorsing the party's opposition to compulsory military service and the sending of Australian troops overseas.

With less than 2,000 votes to be counted, J. J. Dedman, Labor, had 25,207 votes, J. T. Vinton-Smith, United Australia (Government) Party, had 21,735, and Dr. G. P. O'Day, Communist, 1,441. The seat was vacated by R. G. Casey when he was appointed Australia's first Minister to the United States.

John Curtin, Leader of the Labor Party, called on Prime Minister R. G. Menzies to respect the "significant result."

Local Issues

The Prime Minister, however, said tonight that the result was more influenced by local issues than criticism of Australia's war effort. He said the election "indicates the Government is ahead of public opinion on the war" and it was the Government's duty "to proceed with vigor and determination."

The Labor Party, opposing conscription and the dispatch of an expeditionary force, has maintained that strong defence of Australia and economic aid to the Allies would be the best contribution the Dominion could make to the defeat of Germany.

Informed sources expressed belief the result would lead to coalition between the Government and the Country Party in order to face Parliament in April. The majority of observers believed such a coalition would remove the possibility of an early election.

The Government and labor each won 29 seats in the 74-seat House of Representatives at the elections in October, 1937. The Country Party control the other 16 seats. The Government's mandate expires this year.

Secrecy Cloaks Wells' Talks With Nazis

By Louis P. Lochner
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, March 3 —(AP) —The United States under-secretary of state Sumner Welles, wound up a fact-finding visit to Germany for President Roosevelt today by conferring lengthily with Adolf Hitler's key aides field marshal Hermann Goering and the Nazi deputy leader, Rudolf Hess.

Welles' conference with Goering at Karin Hall, the no. 2 Nazi's wooded country estate north of Berlin, was as hedged by official silence as his Saturday's talk with Hitler, but it seemed certain the American envoy again was told of German confidence in military and economic power to attain victory.

His two calls completed a strenuous three-day program in Berlin. The next objectives on his swing through the warring capitals are Paris and London. His Berlin conferences followed talks with Italian leaders in Rome.

As an exhibit to demonstrate to Welles the efficiency of the German air force, Goering had prepared huge photographs taken from high altitudes covering scouted points of England and Scotland.

(British scouting planes for the second time during Welles' visit flew over Berlin Saturday night, dropping leaflets and parachute flares, reliable London sources disclosed. These sources said all planes returned safely despite German anti-aircraft fire.)

Campaign Expected To Be More Active

OTTAWA, March 3—(CP)—Canada's wartime election campaign enters its fifth week today with three more weeks of speech-making and canvassing bfore the voters mark their ballots on March 26.

Both Prime Minister MacKenzie King and Conservative Leader Manion arrived back in Ottawa today. Mr. King came from from a hurried trip to his constituency, Prince Albert, Sask., in the course of which he addressed two meetings.

Dr. Manion came from Belleville, Ont., where he spoke last night and paid his first visit to the capital since his hurried return early in the campaign for the funeral of the late Lord Tweedsmuir.

Dr. Manion personally is doing the lion's share of the speaking and travelling for his party and the National Government movement sponsored by it. Mr. King's western trip probably will be his only lengthy one. Apart from meetings in Toronto and Montreal he will be heard only on the radio for the rest of the campaign.

During the present week scores of nomination conventions will be held throughout the country as the parties complete their slates of candidates before the official nominations, set for the following week.

The tempo of the campaign generally can be expected to liven up from now on as speakers become more active both locally and nationally and new issues are raised.

The entry of Lt.-Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, into the campaign in support of Dr. Manion last week brought new criticism against the censorship of radio speeches. Both Col. Drew and Dr. Manion entered vigorous objection to the deletion of certain passages dealing with defence matters and war preparations from one of Col. Drew's speeches.

Mr. Woodsworth has so far confined his speaking to Manitoba while M. J. Coldwell, national chairman of the C. C. F., caries the C. C. F. message around the country. Mr. Coldwell spent a busy week in Alberta and is now on his way eastward on a speaking tour which will take him to the Atlantic Coast.

War— 25 Years Ago Today

Two S'side Men Wed At Dartmouth

DARTMOUTH N. S., March 3 — (CP) —A double wedding ceremony was held in St. James United church here Saturday when two Dartmouth girls were united in marriage to two officers of the Prince Edward Highlanders, Black Watch.

Evelyn Anna Crichton was married to Lieut. Donald Lidstone, Summerside, and her sister, Jean Riddell Crichton, to Lieut. Alan H. Holman also of Summerside.

The ceremony was conducted by Rev. Charles Anderson, minister of St. James United Church, and Rev. J. W. A. Nicholson, a former pastor at St. James who has just retired from pastoral work on Prince Edward Island.

Scottish tradition played a prominent part in the ceremony. The two brides, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Crichton Dartmouth, were both born in Scotland.

Pews were reserved in the church for members of the pipe band of the regiment while the guest pews were indicated by the Black Watch tartan ribbon over the bridal white.

Miss Evelyn Crichton wore white satin. Her dress was fashioned on princess lines with a cowl neckline and long sleeves which were full at the shoulder and narrowed at the elbow. The bodice of her dress had deep inserts of lace. Her fingertip embroidered net veil fell from a wreath of lily-of-the-valley. She carried calla lilies. She was escorted by her father.

Miss Jean Crichton was escorted by Lieut.-Col. C. C. Thompson, officer commanding the highland regiment. Miss Crichton wore white satin made with a bodice of lace, a peter pan collar and leg' mutton sleeves. Her veil was finger-tip of appliqued net. She carried sweetheart roses.

Miss Peggy Murray was Miss Evelyn Crichton's bridesmaid and Lieut. Victor Inman was Lieut. Lidstone's groomsman.

Miss Kay Crichton was Miss Jean Crichton's bridesmaid and Lieut. Reginald Muttart was Lieut. Holman's groomsman.

Ushers were Lieut. C. M. Galbraith, Lieut. A. W. Rogers, Lieut. G. G. Ferguson, Lieut. R Sinclair, all officers of the Prince Edward Island Highlanders.

The church was decorated with calla lilies, hyacinths, palms and ferns.

The wedding marches in the church were played by R. Ernest Morley, and while the register was being signed Colin Ashdown sang "Stil As The Night."

The bridal parties were escorted from the church by two pipers, playing the Wedding March, they walked under an arch of swords made by officers of the regiment.

A reception followed at a Halifax hotel. Mrs. Crichton the brides' mother, wore queen's blue crepe with metallic trimming, a small toque and a corsage of talisman roses.

Mrs. H. T. Holman, Lieut. Alan Holman's mother, wore a black tailored suit, double fox furs, and a corsage of orchids.

For travelling, Mrs. Lidstone wore a coral wool frock with a black patent leather sailor hat, black patent accessories and a coat of opossum. Mrs. Holman wore a robin's egg blue wool dress with matching suede hat and accessories and a seal coat.

French Ambush Traps Nazis On West Front

Four Enemy Planes Shot Down As Aerial Activity Is Renewed.

PARIS, March 3—(AP) — The second French ambush in two days was reported by the High Command tonight to have trapped a new contingent of German troops west of the Vosges Mountains in a week-end of warfare along the Western Front in which British and French pilots accounted for four German planes.

The French, at the same time, acknowledged the Germans had captured "a few prisoners" during patrol raids in the Lauter sector.

Clear brisk weather returned to the Western Front giving a spurt to aerial activity on both sides following a day of combat Saturday in which the French said they had shot down two German planes and the British two more.

(The German News Agency claimed an air battle between four German planes and 12 French on the Moselle Sector had ended when one French plane had been downed.

(British officials announced they had shot down still another German plane in France, the third in 24 hours).

The French morning communique said French pursuit planes machine-gunned two of the enemy craft to earth on French territory while one of the British victims fell on French soil and the other behind the Nazi lines.

Admit Scouts Missing

(The German communique admitted that two German scouts "are missing" but claimed three French planes were shot down).

With considerable activity among advance patrols on the Western Front and clearing weather bringing out air fighters in increasing numbers, the High Command reported that several French planes penetrated deep into Germany "by day and night" on scouting flights.

All the French planes, the command said, returned to their bases.

German aerial trespassing over Belgium, which resulted in the downing of two Belgian chasers by a Nazi bomber, was regarded here "very seriously." These sallies over the neighboring neutral low country coincided with daily reconnoitering flights over France along the French-Belgian border.

The German patrol now appears to be permanent, well-informed quarters said.

(The German High Command claimed that Nazi Scouts penetrated to the Paris district Saturday in reconnaissance flights.)

France's own scouts were reported to have flown far into southern Germany. One of them returned riddled with bullets and a second fled home unscathed after encountering 13 German Messerschmitts.

(The British Air Force meanwhile announced renewed aerial scouting of Germany which carried them again to Berlin Saturday night. German planes returned Sunday to raid the British East Coast).

'Tis A Small World, Two Brothers Find

By Edwin S. Johnson
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ALDERSHOT, England, March 3 —(CP) —Private Walter Pond, 21, who joined Princess Patricias Canadian light infantry in Winnipeg, had no idea the world was so small until he arrived in Aldershot with the 1st division of the Canadian Active Service Force.

Walter, whose family resides in Quarryville, N. B., had gone to western Canada, like his brother Clinton in search of fortune. He had also hoped to find some trace of his brother he hadn't seen for eight years. He found a job but not a sign of Clinton.

War came and the young Maritimer joined up immediately. While waiting to embark for England he wrote home for word of his brother but the convoy sailed before a reply reached him.

The other night Walter was strolling along the main thoroughfare of the Canadian camp when a soldier suddenly hailed him from the other side of the street.

"You're wandering quite a spell from home young fellow or maybe its two other guys," he chuckled

Walter could hardly believe his eyes. It was Clinton and both boys did some pretty fast talking. Clinton, it developed, had made his way to British Columbia some years ago and admitted he was a bit slack with his correspondence. On the outbreak of war he also joined up, on the very same day as Walter, and came over with the 109th field battery of Vancouver.

The brothers discovered they had actually been crossing tracks for several weeks with their billets only a few blocks apart. They have seen a great deal of each other since that happy reunion and now they are planning to take leave together to visit an aunt in Oxford.

Red Cross Supplies Transported Free

TORONTO, ... 2—The Canadian Red Cross Society has decided to transport to England free of charge the supplies made by the women's auxiliaries of various regiments, it was announced yesterday. When the goods arrive in England they will be handled by the London committee of the Canadian Red Cross and transported to the battalions to which they have been consigned by the regimental ladies' auxiliaries.

Dr. Fred W. Routley, national commissioner, stated that the Red Cross would handle the goods without charge under the following conditions:

1. That the goods are packed properly for overseas shipment. (Wherever possible, the Red Cross will supply the cases.)

2. The Red Cross takes no responsibility for the contents of the packages or for their condition when they arrive at their destination.

3. The contents of each must be marked clearly on the outside of the case.

In Memoriam

MR. C. J. PROWSE

(Maynard Enterprise, Feb. 14.)

SOUTH ACTON —One of the best known Motor Truck Transportation owners in the Inter-State business in New England, Cornelius J. Prowse "Dad" as he was affectionately known by business associates and employees alike passed away at the Emerson Hospital in Concord on last Friday morning.

Mr. Prowse was taken ill only a few days before and was removed to the hospital as his condition became serious. He was born at Charlottetown, P. E. I., and was in his 73rd year. The family moved to the Fletcher Corner section about five years ago, after Mr. Prowse had retired from active business.

He was beloved as the Dean of the Inter-State Motor Trucking Industry which he had done much to develop and was known far and wide for the integrity of his business dealings.

The sympathy of the community is sincerely extended to his widow, Florence (Van Iderstine) Prowse, two daughters, Mrs. William P. Cameron and Mrs. Norman R. Parsons both of South Acton. The latter is the Associated Press correspondent for this section and editor of the Maynard News. Also surviving are two sons, Walter L. Prowse of South Acton and Roy E. Prowse of Woburn and three grandchildren.

He leaves two brothers, Artimas Prowse of Waban and Albert Prowse of Jackson Heights, Long Island, New York and a sister, Mrs. Lavina Crabb of Chilawac, California.

He was one of a family of 11 children who distinguished themselves in the service of their native country. Two brothers, Samuel and Lemuel served in the Canadian Parliament for several years and another served with distinction during the first World War overseas.

Funeral services attended by a host of former business associates, relatives and friends were conducted by Rev. Leonard Fowler, pastor of the Union Congregational Church in Maynard were held on Sunday afternoon at the family home. The Maynard Grand Male Trio composed of Eric Farnell, Alan Palmer and James Farrell rendered "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Interment was in Woodlawn Cemetery Acton Center. Undertaker Warren A. Twombly of Maynard had charge of the funeral arrangements.
