AGRICULTURE IN P. E. ISLAND.

pleasure system of breeding. We want good bulls in the worst way now, and the people must be taught to appreciate them. The dollar comparison is the only way to effect this. Discrimination in buying will open the eyes of the seller. With all the cattle we raise it is not wonderful, however, that we should have a big revenue from this source. This year is no exception.

Our sheep and hogs are generally well kept up. The system of culling by the buyers has done this. The prices have been grand. They are lower for both this fall however and the farmers hate to come down from previous rates. Hogs have dropped a cent and a half from last year's prices, lambs a good big sraction of a cent. It is not easy to see how the latter should sell cheaper as they are as high as ever in the foreign market to which they have been going. There has been friction between the seller and the buyer here. We should get 3 cents for our goods lambs at all times. There are none like them and the feeling is that somebody is making an undue profit. The number of lambs given away is wonderful, and the canneries are going night and day putting up the rough stuff. Many thousands of dollars have come to our pockets for sheep. The swine are now on the move in earnest and though the price is not so good as last year it is as good as the outside market affords and a good heavy price, so our raisers are content. We have shipped many carloads of cheese too and the egg and poultry trade have overstepped the great record of former years.

In fruit alone we are out, then, this season. This is to be our great industry. It is only in its infancy and this is our off year. Still we have a considerable proportion of what we consume and that is no small quantity. We are planting out orchads very generally. Last spring thousands and thousands of trees went into the ground. We shall under sane management and organization secure as their produce inside of a decade, thousands of barrels of the daintiest apples, and being at the doorway to Europe, supply the British and continental markets with what they call the choicest of fruit, in better condition and with better profits than our sister provinces. The people have confidence in the fruit industry and so well they may. It will mean much to enchance rural life and add to the profits which come to us through agricultural effort.

This briefly and imperfectly epitonizes our operations in the season just closed. While there is much to improve, we are inspired with courage from the story of the past, filled with thankfulness to the Great Giver of all good for a veritable land of milk and honey and the increment vouchsafed to our imperfect labors. Resolved to change the wonderful possibilities of this dear little Island we call our home, quickly into actualities, we therefore turn our faces hopefully to the future.—Maritime Farmer.

THE remains of Miss Muriel DesRoches daughter of Prosper DesRoches, whose sad death took place in Charlottetown arrived by yesterday morning's train and were taken to her home at Miscouche. The deceased had been in good health up till Friday evening and had been attending P. W. College regularly. Friday evening after returning from Prof. Owen's lecture at the College she was taken ill at her boarding house, Mrs. McKay's, Great George Street. Medical aid was summoned and the case was not pronounced serious. She continued ill, however, and her mother arrived on Saturday night and on Sunday morning her spirit passed away. The body was taken home yesterday morning, the funeral being very largely attended by professors and students. The beautiful floral tributes showed the general esteem for an earnest student and a popular young lady.
