FRESH FISH SHIPMENTS.

In view of the growing importance of our trade in fresh fish, particularly smelts and eels, shipped during the winter season to the markets of Boston and New York, The Guardian has taken some considerable pains to obtain information for shippers. A representative of this journal has thrice visited the fish markets of those cities and conferred at length with those engaged in the trade, whose advertisements appear in our columns. We have been careful to accept only announcements from those whom we believe to be reliable and we trust that business between our shippers and these advertisers may prove to be entirely satisfactory. These advertisements will prove the more useful guide to our shippers from the fact that a number of the firms formerly engaged in the fish trade are not now in it.

It is of the first importance to both shippers and consignees that the shipments shall arrive in good order and at the best time of the week to be disposed of to advantage. Even with the greatest care and the best precautions there will necessarily be occasional losses in such perishable goods as frozen fish, especially when soft weather intervenes between the date of shipment and their arrival in Boston or New York, or immediately after their arrival, as must sometimes occur. To avoid this risk as far as possible, it is most important too that fish should be shipped so that they will reach their destinations early in the week, as fish arriving last of week are liable to have to be kept over Sunday and in consequence be spoiled or greatly reduced in value. Fresh fish sale is always early each day.

The practice of shipping in barrels should be avoided. Much better results will be obtained by the regular boxes in which the fish are carefully placed side by side in two tiers, the heads at the outside and the tails overlapping in the middle of the box. They should be laid straight and not crosspiled and thus when exposed for sale present an attractive appearance.

Those shipped in barrels must necessarily be dumped out in large trays before being offered for sale. Careless or designing shippers should learn that it is useless to place a few layers of large fresh fish at the top and bottom of the box or barrel with smaller, or partly decomposed fish between. Honesty is the best policy in the fish trade as in other lines of business. The fish should not be wrapped in paper, or have mixed in with them seaweed or refuse of any kind as is sometimes done, for in the event of soft weather intervening they invariably present a dirty or distasteful appearance or may spoil, which either reduce the value by several cents per pound or makes them entirely unsalable.

Another point worth observing is to assort the fish by size-making two or three grades, and have each box contain fish of uniform size throughout, as nearly as possible. Put nothing in the boxes but fish, and in mild weather a little ice. No water should be put in with fish, only ice.

From two to three times as much more can be realized from smelts shipped in boxes with ice only, as in barrels with ice and water which whitens their gills and reduces their value. Even in barrels with ice only they come through in a muddled up condition. The writer has noticed the marked difference in their appearance when placed for sale in Fulton Market, New York. The nicer they are packed and more carefully they are sized the higher prices they will realize, for Americans don't mind the price if the article is in good shape.

By observing these rules, shipping at the right time of the week, in boxes, and with the fish properly assorted and packed so as to arrive in clean and presentable condition, the best results will be obtained. Those who will take the pains to cater to the taste of their customers in the fish trade as in all other trades will find their reward in enhanced prices. Shipment in boxes greatly facilitates handling the fish, as well as preserving them in good order, and the better financial results will more than repay the increased time and trouble.

BRUTAL ATTACK MADE BY THUGS

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Henry G. Granger, son of Arthur O. Granger, a Georgia business man, is in a critical condition in the Alabama hotel, in this city, as the result of an assault made upon him while he was acting as a watcher for District Attorney Jerome yesterday at a polling place in the sixth assembly district. Granger said today that after an altercation with State Senator John C. Fitzgerald, he was attacked by a gang of thugs, who knocked him down with a blackjack and then jumped on him, dislocated his jaw, attempted to gouge his eyes out and broke four of his ribs. Granger may lose the sight of his eye. He was unconscious when found on the sidewalk by friends. The thugs escaped.

DYING BY INCHES.

Bloodless Girls Saved by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dying by inches—that is the only way to describe the hundreds of bloodless girls who are slowly but surely passing from simple anaemia into a decline. They drag themselves along with one foot in the grave through those years of youth that should be the happiest in their lives. And the whole trouble lies in the blood. Bad blood is the fountain-head of all the trouble that afflicts woman from maturity to middle life. Bad blood causes all the backaches and sideaches, all the paleness, breathlessness and despondency; all the heart palpitation, sickly dizzy turns and the fainting spells. From fainting spells to consumption is only a step. In nine cases out of ten consumption starts from bloodlessness—and the only sure cure for bloodlessness is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They actually make new, rich, red blood, that brings the rosy glow of health to sallow cheeks, and strength to every part of the body. This has been proved in thousands of cases. Miss Frances Peach, Weland, Ont., says:—"A couple of years ago my condition of health was very serious. Doctors said I was dying, that I had turned to water. I was unfit to do anything for months, and was little more than a living skeleton. I had no appetite; the least exertion would leave me breathless, and I had frequent severe headaches. I was treated by several doctors, but they failed to help me, and I was completely discouraged. Then I was urged to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and in a few weeks found my health improving. I used eight boxes in all, and was by that time again well and strong. I gained twenty-two pounds in weight, and never felt better in my life."

What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for Miss Peach they can do for every other weak and ailing girl. They make new blood, and new blood brings health, strength and happiness. But you must be sure you have the genuine pills with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," printed on the wrapper around each box. All dealers sell these pills, or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

ST. JOHNS, Que., Nov. 8.—The trial of Lahtinen, for the murder of one, Henkainen, was concluded today, by a verdict of guilty, the sentence of death being pronounced by Judge Lemieux.

HOW TO GET CONSUMPTION.

Ninety per cent of the "lungers" contract consumption by allowing power of resistance to fall so low that a favorable condition for the development of the bacilli is provided. In a healthy system consumption can't take root. But where there is weakness and debility, there you find tuberculosis. For developing strength and building up the weak, nothing equals Ferrone. It makes the blood nutritious and the nerves enduring. The way it converts food into nutriment, the appetite it gives is surprising. Just what the man verging on consumption needs,—that's Ferrone. If tired and weak don't put off. Fifty cents buys a box of fifty tablets—at all dealers.
