GREAT BRITAIN'S BREAD SUPPLY.

Depends Greatly on the United States. Canada is Able to Till Her Rich Heritage.

J. F. Williams, in the Harmsworth Magazine: In England about a third of the cultivable area is under the plow, but, while the acreage under barley, oats, potatoes and other root crops is practically the same now as it was 30 years ago—when the population was 7,000,000 less—the wheat area has fallen from 4,000,000 to 2,000,000 acres. The entire agricultural produce of Great Britain is thus utterly insufficient to feed so populous a country, and the deficiency must, therefore, be met by supplies from abroad. Let us see what is the amount, nature and approximately the "time-limit" of the staples and drinkables required by the 40,000,000 people who live in this country.

What would it mean to millions of our working people if by any chance combination of hostile fleets our corabriging ships were prevented from landing their cargoes even for a short period? Roughly speaking home-grown wheat would enable us to live for about two and a half months; that is to say, suppose it were then wholly and continuously available. With unchecked supplies from the United States and Canada, we would have enough bread for five months longer. From our own colonies and India we can only get enough wheat and flour to last us for one and a half months.

The vast wheat fields of the United States supply us with flour to make 1,500,000,000 loaves, but this immense quantity and millions more could be easily supplied by Canada had she only the men and means to put even a tithe of her rich wheat soil under cultivation. At present she can only give us a surplus of 150,000,000 loaves. From a broad point of view, while war with Russia would affect us to considerable extent, hostilities with the United States would be a calamity indeed, inasmuch as it would be an utter impossibility for the rest of the world to make up at short notice the terrible deficiency.

Catarrh, ozonated air cure, is guaranteed to cure Chronic Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Hay Fever. It cures by inhalation. Catarrh when inhaled is vol-tile enough to impregnate the minutest cells of the lungs and bronchial tubes, where it attacks the disease at its foundation. It cures because it is sure to reach the right spot. Sold by all druggists or by mail, price $1.00 For trial outfit send 10c in stamps to N. C. POLSON & CO. Box 589 Kingston, Ont.
