IN MEMORIAM

JOHN M. RODDICK.

The following clipping from a Montreal exchange will be of interest here as Mr. Roddick is a first cousin to Mr. Robert Thompson Miller at Suffolk.

With the death of John Roddick of Six Portages Que disappears the last of the old-time lumbering kings of the Catineau. Mr. Roddick was for many years manager of the Edward's concern including model farms, stores and immense pine cedar and spruce limits. His word was law to armies of men For years after the great Atkinson Gilmour Hamilton, Hall and other firms gave up their farms and stores Mr. Roddick maintained the well-known and finely equipped business at the Sixes and his sterling character, his quiet but progressive manner and wise conservatism will be greatly missed. He came of the old family from Newfoundland of which the eminent surgeon Sir Thomas Roddick of Montreal is a well-known member. His unassuming demeanour could not conceal the warm sympathetic soul of the true, thoughtful lover of his kind which endeared him to all who knew him well although it did prevent the general public from according him the public position to which his talents entitled him.

MRS. ANN McPHERSON

There passed away at Wood Island on July 28th, 1920, the widow of the late Mr. Angus McPherson at the advanced age of 89 years. She was a kind and loving mother and she will be greatly missed in her home and by her friends. The deceased was a sister of the late Capt. A. Brown and the last survivor of the family. She leaves to mourn the following sons and daughters: John A., and Joseph, at home; Mrs. Moses Falconer, Pictou Co., N. S., also Mrs. G. G. Downing, Revere Mass., U.S.A. The Rev. A. S. Stewart officiated at the home and at the grave. Her remains were laid away in Wood Islands Cemetery near her old home. (Patriot please copy.)

COAL PRICES SLUMPING

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30— Forecasts of a tumble in coal prices was made by the United States Department of Justice officials yesterday coincident with the announcement of "Renewed activity" in the campaign against coal profiteers.

With production on the increase predictions were made that the coal market would follow sugar prices in a break in the near future. Prices already have dropped at Baltimore. where the federal agents have started to gather evidence an alleged combination of dealers who were declared to have boosted prices through repeated re-sales.

DOCTOR CAN RESTORE LIFE AFTER HEART STOPS.

PARIS Aug. 25.—Resurrection from the dead is no longer merely a Bibical legend but an authenicated fact according to the celebrated French surgeon Tuffler, who asserts that a heart which has stopped beating can be reanimated.

"Injections of andrenalin in the cardical cavity," says Dr. Tuffler, "may restore life to a heart already dead. The heart may also be kept beating artifically for a certain length of time by means of massage or certain chemical excitants."

Dr. Tuffler's statements have created a great sensation in Paris, where medical circles are discussing the possibilities of saving lives by artificial heart stimulation just as is now practised by artificial breathing.

Dr. Tuffler also claims that a man can live for years with a bullet in his heart. In fact says the eminent surgeon, the heart is far from being the fragile organ it is generally supposed to be. Delicate operations, he claims, can be performed in the heart tissues without mortal effect.

JUST A GIRL

BY JANE PHELPS

CHAPTER. 100.

"I see you aren't at all particular about accepting invitations to the movies Miss Stewart. Perhaps you will allow me to be your escort some night?" Mr. Betts came into the office during Mr. Claxton's absence.

I made no reply.

"To bad Iamnot good enough to lunch with! That fellow you had with you last night surely wasn't so many."

"He is a gentleman."

"Oh, is he? He don't look the part!"

The open sneer made me lose my temper. Had I been older more accustomed to men of his type perhaps I might have been more tactful. I might even have taken the trouble to explain who my friends were. But I just blurted out:

"He is far more gentlemanly than you are proving yourself."

My voice trembled, and I was shaking all over. But no sooner had the words left my lips than I realized how terribly foolish I had been. Mr. Claxton left the hiring and discharging of the help entirely to Mr. Betts. Of course now he would discharge me.

Thoughts of the home I had planned for Mother came to me, and tears filled my eyes. Oh why had I lost my temper? I could see that Mr. Betts was so amazed at my daring he could scarcely speak. I was really frightened by the ugly look in his face when I glanced at him. Finally he said, his voice trembling and husky with anger:

"You are discharged Miss Stewart. Your services will not be required in this office any longer. You can go at once. I will have your envelope ready immediately."

"What's all this? What are you discharging Miss Stewart for?" Mr. Claxton had come in so quietly that neither of us had heard him.

"I am discharging her because she was both impudent and insulting. Aside from that she is incompetent. I have in mind a young woman who is an expert who will come to you at once, so you will not be inconvenienced." Mr. Betts had spoken willingly enough, altho I noticed he had turned white when Mr. Claxton spoke.

"I am the best judge of Miss Stewart's ability as she does only my work. As to the other charges you make against her, I shall have to hear her version as well as yours But understand Mr. Betts I will both hire and discharge my private stenographers hereafter. I will talk with Miss Stewart and then see you."

Mr. Betts went out leaving me alone with my employer. I felt chagrined, ashamed, unworthy of his kindness and faith in me. I had allowed myself to lose my temper make him trouble, simply because I had felt insulted for Mary and Tom. I might easily have placated Mr. Betts by a few tactful words of explanation instead of making trouble.

"Now Miss Stewart, please tell me what it is all about?" Mr. Claxton's tone was so kind that it increased my feeling of shame.

"I am much to blame, I lost my temper."

"So I perceived." He smiled a little. "May I know what about?"

"Certainly—altho I am ashamed of myself. I have a girl friend the only person my own age I know in Chicago. She is uneducated, but fine. I love her dearly. She was my partner in the shop I told you of."

"You mean the Irish girl at the pancake shop the one who served me the other day?"

"I didn't know you had been there—but Mary is very pretty, tall with dark hair and gray eyes."

"That's the one. I liked her immensely. She was so businesslike, so anxious to please."

"Yes. Mary is always like that. She is going to be married soon to a young man a good, honest fellow but only a clerk in a tea and coffee house. Because you gave me this position and I was so happy they insisted upon taking me to a movie to celebrate. I consented rather than hurt their feelings, altho I cared nothing about going. But the picture was good. I go out very little and was enjoying it as much as either of them. Then someone leaned over my shoulder and made a remark—it was Mr. Betts.

"Today, he had asked me to lunch with him"—there was no need to tell of anything that happened previously—"I refused. So today he commented on my willingness to go to movies, and then he slurred Thomas and I lost my temper and told him that Tom was more of a gentleman than he was I am very sorry Mr. Claxton. I don't know men very well but I will try and be more tactful if I—may stay?" It was only thoughts of Mother that helped me say that last—that gave me courage to ask to remain.

"Thank you, Miss Stewart. Of course you will stay."

I thanked him, then went about my work. I supposed the incident ended. It showed how little I knew my employer.

Tomorrow Mary and Tom Gain a Friend.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES

Elizabeth, aged four, heard her mamma say that the new cook spoke broken English, and running to her father she exclaimed "Oh, papa, ze cookie is a broken Englishman, an' she tant talk plain."

One cold morning four year old Nettie's mamma began washing her hands in cold water, but she drew back exclaming, "That water's too cold; please cook it some."

Thought She'd Have To Give Up

MRS. KENNY HAD SUFFERED EIGHT YEARS BEFORE TAKING TANLAC—IS NOW WELL AND HAPPY.

"I'll never stop praising Tanlac since it's helped me so much, and I just feel like koink out and telling everybody about it," declared Mrs. O. R. Kenny of 75 Dresden Row Halifax, N. S.

"For the past eight years I have suffered dreadfully with a very bad case of stomach trouble and chronic indigestion. My appetite was so poor that I didn't relish a thing and for years I don't think I ate a god hearty meal. The little I ate soured on my stomach, and caused gas to press up into my chest and throat until I could hardly breathe. I had awful headaches that kept me confined to my bed for days at a time, and left me in a teribly weakened condition. At night I was so nervous and restless I could scarcely sleep, and would just get up and walk the floor. When morning came I had no energy to do my housework and I thought I was going to have to give up altogether as I getting worse all the time in spite of everything I could do.

"In my search for something to help me I got a botle of Tanlac one day, and it gave me so much relief I kept on taking it until I had finished my seventh bottle and all my troubles had disappeared. My appetite is just splendid, and I no longer suffer from indigestion or gas on my stomach. My breathing is free and easy, and I never have a sign of a headache. At night I slep like a child and I've regained all my strength and energy so that my housework is a real pleasure to me. I've also gained ten pounds in weight and am feeling just fine in every way. Tanlac is simply the grandest medicine I've ever heard of, and I hope others suffering like I did will try it."

Tanlac is sold in Charlottetown by Reddin Bros., in Montague by H. J. Mabon, J. P. White Murray River H. M. Chisholm North Tryon, R. H. Cameron & Co., Crapaud and H. P. Coohon Murray Harbor.

LIEUT.-COL. BRUCE CALDWELL

ST. JOHN, N. B., August 30.—A message from Dalhousie, on the north shore of the province reports the sudden death of Lieut.-Col. Bruce Caldwell there last night at 11.30 o'clock He was visiting there apparently in the best of health, when he was stricken with apoplexy. Col. Caldwell was one of the best known men in Canada. For years he was in the railway mail service. Early in the war he volunteered for service and went overseas, where he became officer commanding the Canadian Postal Corps His work won for him the Order of the British Empire. He was prominent in sport in his younger days and had rowed in Winnipeg and Toronto crews. He won friends readily and enjoyed a very wide acquaintanceship.
