JACK JOHNSON LEADS IN PRAYER.
 CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Jack Johnson, Johnson was greeted with cheers

the negro puglist, led a prayer service in the Cook County Jail Sunday the bars of his cell that he was like Napoleon. Napoleon conquered the nations, he said, and I had many men to overcome. We both won out.

I'm a fatalist. This was all cut and dried, all mapped out for me, long before I was born. It does no good to worry I'm not worrying, just taking things easy and waiting. What is going to happen to me is bound to happen anyhow, and I am just as happy in jail as anywhere else.

All efforts to release Johnson on bail have thus failed. He has settled down to await the result of his appeal to the Supreme Court. Attorney Bachrach declared today, I do not think it is possible that the Supreme Court will refuse to grant our request that Johnson will be released on bail. I do not think Judge Landis should have refused the bond offered by Johnson's mother or the cash bond that Johnson himself was willing to put up.

when he entered the bull pen of the county jail to attend church services. The applause was stifled speedily by the jailers, however.

In the morning Johnson attended services in the Methodist Episcopal Church and in the afternoon a session of the Catholic Sunday School. At both services he prayed aloud, asking blessings upon all afflicted ones, including prisoners. He also led in the singing.

Tom McDonough, assistant jailer, asserts that Johnson is one of the most tractable prisoners in the jail.

OBITUARY NOTICE.

Early Sunday morning, on the third inst., there took place an event of very sad occurrence at the home of Samuel Pound, Fredericton, when the stern and inevitable vision, Death, claimed his much beloved wife.

Although the deceased had been ailing for two years, she showed no marked symptoms of her disease, but always exhibited a mild and genial character, which was a striking characteristic of her life, until a month ago or more, when Death, in spite of all that medical aid and kind and thoughtful neighbors could do, hovered peeringly and stealthily about the home and finally claimed her as his victim.

The loving esteem in which the deceased was held by the community was amply testified when upwards of forty carriages accompanied the remains from the home to its last resting place in Greenvale cemetery. The pallbearers were Otis Seary, George Ferris, Norman McLennan, James R. Elliott, George Stevenson, Fred Wees.

The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. G. B. Gough. The deceased leaves to mourn besides a sorrow-stricken husband, three sons—J. Thomas, Millinocet; Otis, in Sydney; William, at home; and four daughters—Mrs. F. Bagnall, Hazel Grove; Mrs. Ira Hughes, Sydney; Mrs. Avery Elliott, Livermor; Falls, Me.; and Mrs. Geo. Hughes, Sydney.

The late Mrs. Pound was, in the community, and to all her acquaintances a general favorite and a woman of good and pleasing qualities. The community at large shares in the sorrow which accompanies the grief-stricken family in their sad bereavement.

There is no death, an angel-form Doth walk this earth in silent tread, He bears our best-loved ones away And then we call them dead.

IN THE DAYS OF YOUR GRANDMOTHER.

No doubt you remember, as a child, the simple but effective remedies that your mother or your grandmother used to give you when you weren't feeling well. No matter what the trouble might be, her little preparations were pretty sure to hit the mark and restore you to a normal condition. All of which serves to illustrate how much virtue there is in many of the old-fashioned preparations.

We don't hear so much nowadays about the medicines of grandmother's days. One preparation, however, can be mentioned that has been a household word for more than a hundred years. It owes its long life and widely increasing popularity to just one thing—merit. The name of this preparation is Johnson's Anodyne Linctament. The quickness with which it relieves many internal and external ailments is nothing short of remarkable.

If you have a sprain, a wrenched knee or ankle, a lame back, sore muscles, lumbago, stiff joints, muscular rheumatism, Johnson's Anodyne Linctament will give quick relief.

Taken internally, a few drops on sugar, it is equally effective in relieving coughs, hard colds, sore throat, catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, cramps, etc.

Tell your druggist you want Johnson's Anodyne Linctament and not any other kind. 25c a bottle. Large bottle 50c.—Adv.

THE OLD SCHOOLMASTER.

An old fable has it that once upon a time the great artists and craftsmen of the world met at Mount Olympus in order that Jove might decide who was the most worthy of immortality. Let me hear your merits, commander Jove," I am a sculptor," said one. "I fashion imperishable marble into shapes more beautiful than life itself." "I am a painter," said another, even the birds cannot tell my fruit's from those on the boughs. "I am a musician," shouted a third, "the very animals of the forests flock to listen to my lyre." So the poet, the architect, and all the train of the skilled workmen of the world pleaded their special merits. And what art thou? enquired the mighty Jove, as one modest fellow stood back listening to the recital of the claims of his co-workers. Hast thou no right to a prize? "I modestly explained the hoary-headed man, am but a teacher, and all these great men have been my pupils. Is that so?" "Then crown him," shouted the mighty Jove, with a tremendous voice that made the very rafters ring; "Crown the humble, earnest and faithful teacher of the young." And the laurel crown of immortality was placed upon the brow of the silver-haired and broad browed head of the old schoolmaster, and there it remains until this day, enabling the Astronomer to stand with one foot upon the dusty while the other is lost in the dust of the stars—enabling the philosopher to search the heavens for power—the scientist to delve into the bowels of the earth and gather wisdom from the hidden rocks where the finger of God had placed it in the dawn of creation.

Hon. J. H. FLETCHER, St. John Oregon, U. S. A.

"Millionaire tramp," has his way. He is considering establishing a "hobo college," where the unemployed may spend their spare moments studying the arts and sciences. "There is a workingmen's college in England instituted by an American student at Oxford that has been very successful. My idea is to establish something similar here. "If we could get a building such as the old City Hall I think we could do much good. When the men are not working they could go to school and study whatever struck their fancy."

"I Sleep Soundly, Feel Like New"

ALL WHO LACK VIGOR, THOSE WHO ARE DISPIRITED AND WORN OUT, SHOULD READ THIS CAREFULLY

Proof That Health and Renewed Vitality Quickly Return When Right Remedy is Used.

"I am only thirty years old yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night, and in the morning felt so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should be unfit to do my work and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicines and mixtures, Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged-up system. My spirit rose, I felt much better. The sluggish action of the system gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color and ambition to work returned, and have remained. I am like a new man, and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, 5 boxes for $1.00, or postpaid from the Cattaraugus Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

IN FLAMING PURPLE SHE PARADES AVENUE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—If one were within a block of it one heard it and if one heard it one looked, and if one looked one stopped. One couldn't help it; it was compelling. A crowd followed its garish and lightning like swish down Fifth Avenue yesterday afternoon. "It" was a purple velvet walking suit, accompanied by purple suede shoes and a purple hat and a purple ostrich plume. But such a purple! It was garish, it was gay, it was flaming and flamboyant; it was vivid and virulent. When one looked at it one thought of a purple flash of lightning and heard a purple peal of thunder. And how Fifth Avenue brought out its smoked glasses! A cab horse, old in the ways of the avenue, saw it cross Forty-second street and shied almost into a baby carriage. But the infant didn't realize the danger—he was dazzled by the purple, glare until she cried.

When "it" had passed and the pedestrians emerged from the purple atmosphere the remarks were numerous and in some instances startling. "Well, I'd rather see it than be in it," remarked one young woman to her companion, paraphrasing that old time college song, "The Purple Cow."

But she who wore it walked on, apparently unconscious.
