are a form of life insurance for those who are prone to colds or lung troubles. They are especially valuable for those who are exposed to all sorts of weathers or who have to do much driving. We are showing a fine line of ladies' and gentlemen's chamois vests in all sizes. These are finely made, nicely finished and have the wool elastic sides, a great improvement over the rubber elastic which soon spoils.

Price $2.00 each for any size.

THE CHARLOTTETOWN GUARDIAN

FRIDAY MORNING NOVEMBER 3, 1905.

A CASE FOR TREATMENT.

We feel it our duty to prescribe for the editor of Summerside Journal. A diagnosis of his case discloses two salient symptoms. First a hide-bound partyism which is evidently chronic and incurable. Second a weak and flabby condition of the organs of veracity, tending toward a complete breakdown. We sincerely hope that this feature of his generally demoralised condition may yield to treatment. We venture to prescribe inward penitence with an outward exhibition of sackcloth and ashes to be continued for one month.

His case is a curious one, the disease of unveracity manifesting itself in strange perversions of fact and truth. A recent instance occurred in connection with the Fort Augustus election trial, upon the revelations in connection with which The Guardian made some comments at the close of the trial. This is what The Journal man says we said. We quote:

"And still all the Independent Religious Organ has to say is, 'While the revelations are regrettable, no doubt, there was like blameworthiness on the Petitioner's side.'"

What The Guardian really said was this:

"The revelations of the trial so far as they went were of a most regrettable nature and seriously compromised some officials of the Public Works Department and others, as noted in yesterday's summary of the evidence. Those who have had experience of election trials in which only the wrong-doing of one side is exposed will be slow to believe that the other side was wholly free from blame, though nothing was proven. It was clearly the duty of the Judge to void the election in view of the evidence taken."

As the discerning reader will see at a glance, black and white are not more unlike than what we are charged with saying and what we really said. Still, we would make allowance for a diseased moral nature. Perhaps the Journal man came as near to the truth as he could in his present condition. We invite the good clergymen of Summerside to take up his case, to labor with him and bring all moral agencies to bear upon him with a view to his restoration. We think they will agree that his is a case urgently demanding treatment, and that our prescription given above is a safe one. But even if the disease should yield to curative measures there will be in this as in all chronic cases great danger of a relapse.

If it turns out be true that Admiral Train of the U. S. naval service has been assaulted by Chinese peasants near Nankin and his son held as a hostage, as is reported, we may rest assured that the Chinese Government will be called to sharp account and must make apology and reparation. But the incident will not lead to war.

Russia has not been wholly pacified by the Czar's proclamation of liberty. Odessa, the great southern port is in a state of anarchy, with riot and pillage going on day and night, and there is unrest and disturbance at many other points. A colossal task awaits Premier Witte and his colleagues in making the transition from despotism to free institutions and in restoring tranquillity. The task is not only colossal in its proportions, but is one which will require much time to complete.

An Ottawa despatch tells that H. M. Armstrong, Controller of the Mail Service is coming to this province to inquire into the service between the Island and the Mainland. It is to be hoped that this matter may be so arranged that the breaks and delays so frequent in past years, and the want of co-operation between the three departments having to do with the transportation of the mails may be avoided. We believe there is now a sincere desire to improve our winter communications in every way, and we take the visit of Mr. Armstrong to be made in pursuance of this disposition on the part of the powers that be.

THE MARCH OF EVENTS.

A great deal of history has been made within the past seven or right years and at the present moment such vast issues are trembling in the balance as show we are living in a time of great events. Boys still in their teens were old enough to be interested in world affairs when the Spanish American war swept the Spanish fleet from the ocean, set Cuba free and transferred the Philippines and Porto to the American flag. Later, South Africa was shaken by a political earthquake and the Boer Republics added to the British Dominions.

Within two years past we have seen Japan single handed defeat the hosts of Russia in stupendous battles, capture her strongholds, utterly destroy her fleets, seize a portion of the Czar's territory and conquer a peace. We have seen also how with the making of peace Russia's troubles have increased at home, until armed revolution has taken Nicholas by the throat and compelled him to surrender his autocratic power, proclaim freedom to his people, call together a national Parliament and grant freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

This brief recital is sufficient to show that within a very brief space of time a tremendous transformation has been wrought in the world, the effects of which may last to the end of the ages. It is yet too soon, we are too near in point of time to weigh and estimate the momentous character of these overturnings so recently enacted and still going on. Russia that was a terror to the nations has in a brief space become a subject for their pity. The Autocrat has, in his own language "effaced himself" and made a formal surrender of his despotic power. The friends of freedom everywhere rejoice at this. It has caused great perturbation in the mind of the German Emperor, who is only a little less autocratic than was the Czar.

The pleasing feature in these momentous events of the past decade is that they all tend toward the extension of liberty, civil and religious; toward equal rights and human progress; toward the uplifting and development of great masses of the human race, and toward the general betterment of the world. Blind is the man who cannot see in this march of great events the hand of an overruling Providence, turning and overturning until the right shall prevail, and the night of oppression and despotism shall pass forever away.
