was various ranging devices which had been adopted throughout the British Army.

ARMOR-PIERCING shells were made and have given British anti-tank guns an extra range.

Our mines branch was asked to find tungsten in Canada.

Gen. McNaughton credited Canadian engineers with solving methods for the rapid construction of air-fields.

He made only a brief reference to the reinforcement situation. In his closing remarks he said:

"That army of ours is equipped with the best there is. It has been denied nothing that is required; it is properly reinforced to carry through our part in the battle still ahead; it is highly trained and skilled in all the arts of war; there is youth in the ranks and youth in command; it is under wise, determined leaders; it will fully maintain until victory is achieved."

MADE 14 TRIPS TO LAND OF THE MIDNIGHT SUN

OTTAWA, Feb. 22 (CP) - The Eskimos, trappers and missionaries in the forbidding Arctic Circle have seen the last of white-haired David Livingston McKeand - the "little white father" of Canada's eastern arctic.

McKeand, now 67, has travelled 168,000 miles in the land of the midnight sun during 14 years as chief of the Northwest Mounted Police's Arctic patrol on the Hudson's Bay Company supply ship Nascoope, but he has made his last journey in a frozen north. No more will he be aboard the Nascoope on her annual voyage, creeping into inlets, bays and lagoons to bring civilization and supplies to lonely outposts.

Retiring In June He is retiring in June as superintendent of the Eastern Arctic and Territories Council for the Mines and Resources Department and his hobby of gardening. No successor has been named yet.

McKeand, still vigorous and chunky, confessed in an interview that he was going to miss the close associations he formed among the people in the north. And he chuckled reminiscently as he recalled the mixings with which he took $10,000 worth of first Victory Loan Bonds aboard the Nascoope.

I thought I'd be lucky to sell $200 worth, he said. But he returned with $11,500 in cash, contributed by trappers, hunters, fur traders, Royal Canadian Mounted Police and others met during the trip.

When the King and Queen visited Canada in 1939, McKeand was the only Canadian to accompany them. He was the only Canadian to accompany them.

Earlier this week appeared a report on the activity of the Allied Club which now under the energetic leadership of the president, Cpl. D. I. Ganshof van der Meer, and the chairman, LAC. Jan W. Leuzon, has achieved an official status.

The Commanding Officer of No. 2 Path Squadron, Cpl. D. I. Ganshof van der Meer, has expressed his feeling that the Club will serve a most useful purpose in this Station in bringing Canadian and Allied nationals together. This is facilitated by the recent organization of an information room under the care of F/O Giles, in which each main Allied country, including Canada, is equally represented by cards and documents. The movement has met with a favorable response from both civilian and Air Force circles.

The meeting will be opened by the president, Cpl. D. I. Ganshof van der Meer, who will devote a few words to his fatherland, Belgium.

The first main talk to be given by LAC. Ogden, promises to be highly interesting. LAC. Ogden has travelled widely in South and North America, and has a thorough knowledge of the South American continent. He is expected to leave the Air Force shortly to work for U.N.R.R.A. for which he will be substituting a highly valuable, sales position being a certified accountant he speaks Spanish, Italian, Portuguese, English and French and is a qualified medical officer.

It is expected that the second speaker will be from Poland. The last speaker, LAC. Skidde of Norway, has also had varied and interesting experiences. His escape from Norway brought him via Russia to Singapore where he witnessed the first bombing of that city by the Japanese, and from there via Trinidad and New York he reached the Norwegian training center in Canada.

The chairman, LAC. Jan W. Leuzon, will devote a few words to the Netherlands before introducing the documentary films which will conclude the program.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Feb. 22 (AP) - The Navy today announced a sight of home now almost a reality, nearly 2,000 Canadian soldiers are being sent to the battlefronts of the Mediterranean and northwest Europe.

Included in the returning veterans are about 1,000 medical personnel, some men who had been wounded in the bitter fighting but now are fit for duty.

Some came back under the "triumph" leave plan that allows them to return to their homes.

Aboard the big grey-clad troopships are the members of the navy and air force, some returning Canadian firemen, the first five of whom were to return from overseas service as well as 2,000 A.C. and R.C.A.F. Women's Division personnel.

Over, but for others the war was a prelude to newer, and perhaps more exciting, adventures.

The officers aboard, Capt. G. N. Magry of Montreal, at least 90 per cent of the returning veterans were about 1,000 medical personnel, some men who had been wounded in the bitter fighting but now are fit for duty.

Full Employment Measure Introduced

2,000 Men Home From Battlefronts

BY JOHN DAUPHINEE

LONDON, Feb. 22 (AP) - The Government introduced in Parliament today one of the major measures in its "full employment program for after the war."

The "distribution of industry bill" under which expenditures up to £7,000,000 are authorized to be used for industrial development to the "war economy" in the eastern half of the country.

Closely following proposals advanced in a white paper issued in 1944, the bill not only envisages the development of new industrial and social development in retarded areas but also Government control of any further development in high industrial areas like London, Birmingham and Manchester.

The board will merely seek to set up machinery for handling the program the white paper made it plain that the Government will give priority for building of new factories and extension of old ones to areas which in the past have been neglected.

Points of the bill: The Board of Trade is empowered to acquire land in retarded or "development" areas so premises in the "full employment program for after the war."

The bill sets up four "development areas"
