

The Greatest House In The World

In the older rooms the carpets are rather shabby. But it is a privilege to suggest alterations at No. 10 whose old-world state and faded grandeur, is jealously preserved, outside as well as in. The iron link extinguishers at the front door speak of a remote past, oddly revived by the cimmerian darkness of London's streets today, and the real need of torches for my lady's carriage as she drives home from a reception or the play.

Exactly over the Council Chamber is the main drawing-room, in cream and gold. Elaborate walls and ceiling show Disraeli's taste in mural decorations. Here is a series of portraits—former Premiers, from Lord Portland (dated 1693) to Lord Rosebery. A second salon opens hence, and was made cosy by Miss Alice Balfour during her brother's regime as First Lord.

Guest Rooms. A handsome morning-room and a few vague corridors then, one reaches two more apartments which Mrs. Asquith and her daughters have transformed during their seven years' reign in this haunted house of mighty memories.

There are guest-rooms, of course, and spare bedrooms, but these are curiously mixed up, and trail off into the Chancellor's adjoining house in a baffling and mysterious way. The finest salon of all is Pitt's dining-room, where that strange genius Lady Hester Stanhope presided as hostess and wit years before she went to queen it as an Arab chieftain over tribes of the Syrian desert.

On the walls here are several works by Burne-Jones, one of them left unfinished at the painter's death. Here Mr. Asquith gives his famous Ministerial dinners before Parliament opens; here the King's Speech is read aloud to the most important supporters of the Government. Down below in Pitt's kitchen a whole hierarchy of chefs have reigned since the grand old days.

The little garden is eerily tranquil, as if weighted with mighty events it has witnessed. Here Parnston strolled, deep in Crimean anxiety; these trees heard Disraeli's triumph when he brought "Peace Horor" from the Berlin Conference. Here Gladstone planned Home Rule as he strolled, and Asquith watched a world war lowering in the Near East.

Where Fighting Cocks Were Kept.

Where the Chancellor's house joins the Premier's is a low dining room in which fighting cocks were kept in the long ago. Mrs. Asquith and her daughters have steered a middle course between improving this glorious old residence and leaving it altogether in sombre decay. The interior is now one of solid comfort—at any rate, in the living rooms. But the business and official departments remain the same.

This is an unvarying tradition of the hoary mansion, to which access is more difficult than to Buckingham Palace itself. No. 10 Downing Street may well be called a museum of history—a temple as well as an official residence. Each chair and table, picture and cabinet, is full of hallowed associations, not lightly to be replaced or moved, but held in trust for succeeding Prime Ministers and their ladies. These in turn reign for a season in this awesome, echoing place—at once the best-known and least-known dwellings on earth.

To be married from the White House is the highest flight of bridal dreams in America, but a wedding at 10 Downing Street like that of Miss Violet Asquith is a far rarer and prouder distinction.—W. G. Fitz-Gerald.

Ladies! Look Young, Darken Gray Hair

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two its natural color is restored, and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Fattening Cockerels by Electricity

The Poultry Department of Macdonald College has recently been using artificial light for fattening purposes, and with marked success. The days are made longer, the birds eat more mash, and consequently more gains are made than when no lights are used. By the proper use of electric lights mash consumption can be increased by about thirty per cent. This means that the birds gain in weight faster and do not require being fed as long, thus giving larger profits. This practice at Macdonald College is to have the lights turned on at 5.30 a. m., when breakfast is already served for the birds. This means an extra feed every day.—M. A. J.

Women's Institutes

Linkletter. The regular meeting of this Institute was held at the home of Mrs. J. G. Baker, on Oct. 6th. Fifteen members and five visitors were present. After the regular business was completed, knitting was commenced for the Company. A quilt is also being made. A social hour was enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

Malpeque Women's Institute met for the regular monthly meeting at the Institute room on October 12. Ten members were present. Means were discussed to raise funds to be used in Institute work. One new member was added to the club at this meeting.

Central Bedouque. The regular meeting of this Institute was held at the school on October 2. There were twelve members present. The meeting opened with the Institute Ode; this was followed by the reading and adoption of the minutes of last meeting. Four instructive readings were given at this meeting. It was decided that the blackboard and desks should be moved and four blinds bought for the school. One new member was added to the Club at this meeting.

Murray River Women's Institute met for the regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Adam Reynolds on October 16. Seventeen members were present. The roll call was answered with "Hints for Keeping Young." A discussion on Institute plans for the winter was then held. It was decided that the Club hold a sale of cookery at the store of Mr. Cook on November 4th. One new member was added to the Institute at this meeting.

Sherbrooke. The regular meeting of this Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Leighton Milligan on October 19. There were fourteen members and three visitors present. After the singing of the Ode and the reading and adoption of the minutes of the last meeting, the report of the school committee was given regarding the repairs to the school pump. A debate was held, namely, "Resolved that Anticipation is Better than Realization." The vote resulted in five to eight in favor of the latter. The water in the school pump is to be analyzed. Night shirts and boys' shirts are to be made for the Mt. Herbert Orphanage. It was resolved that efforts be made to assist the school teacher in all possible ways such as by the offering of prizes to the children and by contributing of money to the School Fairs.

O'Leary. Eleven members and two visitors met at the home of Mrs. Robert Carruthers on October 19. The time was taken up mainly by the regular business, after which a social time was spent. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. W. McWilliams on Tuesday, November 14.

Hazel Grove. A Women's Institute was organized in this district on the afternoon of Friday, October 27th. The meeting was held in the school. After a short talk on the work of these clubs by Miss Carruthers, the following officers were appointed: President, Mrs. Garfield Stevenson; Vice-President, Mrs. Pope Bagnall; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Alma Weeks; Auditor, Mrs. Frank Bagnall and Miss Margaret Howatt; Directors, Mrs. Catherine Buchanan, Mrs. Andrew Bagnall, and Mrs. Annie McEachern. The third Tuesday of each month was chosen as the day of meeting. The first regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Buchanan on Tuesday, November 21st, at 8 p.m. All who are interested in the work of the Institute are cordially invited to attend.

Priest Pond. The regular meeting of this Institute was held at the school house on October 25. Ten members and two visitors were present. The former Secretary having left the district, Miss Margaret Keays was appointed in her place. Roll call was answered by the giving of pumpkin recipes. A new school committee was appointed. An interesting paper on "Breakfast Foods" was read. A new map has been ordered for the school. The remaining funds are to be deposited in the bank at Souris. It was suggested that a box be sent to the Orphanage at Christmas, and all members are asked to bring their sewing or knitting to the next meeting. While the work is being done the reading of an interesting book is to be taken up. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Joseph D. McEachern.

Spring Park. The regular meeting of this Institute was held at the home of Mrs. B. M. Gough, on September 22. There were sixteen members and five visitors present. It was decided to hold a parlour concert at the home of Mrs. Cairns and to charge an admission of 10 cents. A sale of candy will also be held at this time. The program of the meeting was taken up largely with music, namely: duet, by Mrs. Cairns and Mrs. Burke; solo by Miss Jessie Andrew. Mrs. Groume gave a reading, which was also much enjoyed. Two new members were added to the club.

The remaining five cows would look well in any show ring and it was the opinion of many on the ring-side that there should be a class for newly freshened cows and one for dry cows in all the pure bred classes of three years and over.

The showing of three year olds was not large but quality was at a premium in every entry. Another daughter of Prince Colanthus Canary B. Cobequid Fayne, Rag apple was placed first. SOME things naturally and logically go together—and you always associate one with the other. For Instance:

Pork and Beans,
Ham and Eggs,
Bread and Butter,
OGILVIE and "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" FLOUR

Of course, you could have bacon and eggs—or bread and jam—but you can't have "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" FLOUR unless it is OGILVIE'S.

So—when you order Flour, use the full name, OGILVIE'S "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" FLOUR—the best flour that is made from the finest wheat in the world
