Sermon On Reconciliation

words. But it was at Capernaum He stayed longest, preached oftenest and worked miracles; hence the responsibility of those places. They did not bring forth fruit according to their privileges. Capernaum had the best privileges of all, was exalted up to Heaven with privileges, but failed to improve her privileges, and will suffer accordingly, she shall be thrust down to hell; and Christ will be the judge that will execute this judgment on her. Matt. 21, 24. So it shall be with individuals. Those who have the best privileges will have most to answer for. Such as are brought up in Christian homes, and Gospel churches, will have more to answer for than those brought up in graceless homes or in dead or formal churches. It shall be more tolerable for these in the judgment; but tolerable will not save. It is only those that hear and believe that shall be saved.

Sin brings its rewards in pain and sufferings, which cannot be set aside. The Divine Law requires the punishment of every sin; the honor of God requires it. Sin is committed against God and puts dishonor on Him, and He will have the offence corrected and satisfaction given Him for the evil done. Satisfaction will be taken in the person who committed the sin, or in a substitute that God will accept, but the sin will be punished either in the person who committed it or in his substitute. Satan and his angels rebelled against God in Heaven, and were banished out of Heaven, and sent down to hell, a place prepared for them, and where satisfaction is being taken of them for their sins, and as there is nothing in them that can give satisfaction they must suffer forever under the wrath of God. All mankind sinned with their primeval head and would have to suffer forever for the sin committed; but that God accepted a substitute for them. Christ took our human nature upon Himself, sinful as it was. He took our sins upon Himself. It is thus that our sins are forgiven, because they were transferred to Christ, the Son of God who was God manifest in the flesh. In Christ was no sin; and will not God forgive these sins which He took upon Him without suffering for them, as He did not commit them? No He must suffer for them as if He had committed them. They became His sins having taken them upon Him. He had to drink the cup of sufferings to the last drop. Not one iota of the sins of His people or in other words, of believers, was forgiven Him. Jesus paid it all. It was thus our righteousness was secured; that is the righteousness God requires, perfect righteousness. Without this righteousness we cannot please God nor enter Heaven. It is Divine righteousness. We are made the righteousness of God in Christ; by believing in Him and thus accepting Him as our Saviour. In believers in Christ, God sees no iniquity. They are pure and Holy in His sight as His own Son, because they are clad in the righteousness of Christ.

Paul the ambassador is praying in Christ's stead, and urging upon sinners to be reconciled to God by believing in Christ, and so become followers of the Lamb of God that takes away the sins of the world. There is enough in Christ to take away the sins of the whole world; but will only take away the sins of such as believe in Him. He presses the reason for being reconciled to God. First the preparation He made by giving His Son for us, sending Him into a sinful world to suffer and die for us. To give His only beloved son to suffer and die for us was a great sacrifice on the part of God the Father. It will serve for a subject of wonderment for the church in time and in eternity. Second the object He had in view in giving His Son for us, that we might be made righteous, and prepared for eternal glory. This shows His unspeakable love to us. Who can declare all the goodness of God? None can, but we should be considering it daily and thus setting our affections on things which are above. We are apt to be too worldly minded. In view of all that God has done to secure our Salvation, and His great and loving interest in us, the ambassador urges on us to be reconciled to God; to lay aside our enmity to Him. All mankind are born sinners and therefore at enmity with God, and unless this enmity, which means ill will and hatred of God, and unless this enmity is removed the sinner must go to the place of suffering which Divine justice has prepared for those who continue in their sins. There are only two places in eternity—Heaven and Hell,—and all the human race will be in those places; some in the place of misery, where the worm

Remembrance Day At St. Eleanor's

Remembrance Day was fittingly observed at St. Eleanor's by holding a short service at the monument. Before the service started a short address appropriate to the occasion was given in the school by Major F. F. May. Besides the pupils of St. Eleanor's School, there were present pupils from North St. Eleanor's and a few visitors. A vote of thanks moved by Mr. Fred Compton and unanimously carried was tendered the speaker for his very inspiring address. The pupils were later treated to candy which had been donated by Major May. The scholars then marched to the monument where the following program was carried out:

O Canada. Placing of wreaths on monument by Mrs. P. D. Crosby and Albat MacDougall. O God Our Help in Ages Past. Call to "Cease Fire" by Bugler Smith of Charlottetown. Two minutes' silence. The Last Post and Reveille by Bugler Smith. National Anthem.

Drains Skull Fluid To Picture Brain

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—Pouring out part of the contents of the skull and replacing it with air is a new twist in taking people apart and putting them together again.

Doctors can drain off a portion of the liquid in which your brain floats—cerebro spinal fluid, they call it—and take a look at the workings of your brain. The looking is done by X-rays. They reveal brain disease otherwise undetectable. This elaborate technique has been advanced by two doctors of the University of California Medical School—Dr. Robert S. Stone, of the Department of Roentgenology, and Dr. O. W. Jones, of the Department of Neuro Surgery—to a point where a clear picture of the entire brain may be obtained. Substitution of air for the cerebro

Style Story Of 1845 Is Apt Now

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Listen to this. "After the marriage of a Princess of the Two Sicilies to the Duc d'Aumale in 1845 coral once more became fashionable. Gay colored effects in enamel were very popular, bracelets and brooches were made in the form of wide bows and ornaments in general could hardly be too large or too startling. It was considered indispensable to carry several wide bracelets on the arm at once, while earrings became very long and elaborate in construction and brooches and medallions became veritable placards.

"For the evening toilet precious stones were worn when possible. The Empress Eugenie had a border made for a ball dress into which were worked the French crown jewels; it was made of rubies, emeralds, sapphires, turquoises, hyacinths, topazes and garnets blended together with many hundreds of diamonds.

This bit of information comes from Max Von Boehm in his book on "Modes and Manners," and is particularly applicable because it applies as well to modern fashions as it does to those of the Empress Eugenie.

REMEMBRANCE DAY AT BELFAST—Seldom has Belfast witnessed such an imposing ceremony as that last Friday when people of all classes and creeds gathered together by the hundreds at the soldiers monument which stands so impressively inside the Belfast Church grounds. Apart from the magnificent wreath presented by the local branch of the Legion, ten or twelve others were presented by various schools, missionary bands, and private individuals. The ceremony was most capably guided by Rev. D. L. Griffiths, who, along with the Branch had left no stone unturned so that the whole proceedings would be in perfect keeping with the occasion and worthy of it. The ceremony at the monument included an appropriate address by Rev. R. J. Skinner. The "Last Post" sounded by Bugler Smith, Charlottetown and the "Reveille" at the close of the two minutes silence. On behalf of the returned men who were under the direction of Capt. Burns, Iona, Flight Lieut. H. R. Stewart, Charlottetown, made a very appropriate speech. The Legion wreath was laid at the foot of the monument by Mrs. Simon Murchison who had lost a son in the war. Following the half hour at the monument, the hundreds of people crowded into the adjoining church, where the Presbyterian choir, leading the audience, rendered appropriate hymns with a devotion that was beyond praise, the chanting of the Lord's Prayer being especially impressive. The Rev. D. L. Griffiths then addressed the congregation, taking as his subject "The Challenge of the heroic dead" keeping his bearers spellbound for nearly half an hour, as he dwelt upon the deeds of that great democracy which forgot all the distinctions of class and went "all the same way home." He pleaded eloquently for a square deal for the returned man, and also pressed home the need of the church throughout the world, regardless of nationality, and creed, to plan one mighty effort, whereby they might support those who are trying to wipe out of the world the horrors of war. A League of Christian Churches is needed to support the League of Nations. The meeting ended with the benediction and God Save the King. The new branch of the Leg'on now includes twenty-six members and it was this Society most especially which felt that for once Belfast would do well to celebrate Remembrance Day on a big scale.
