THE MORNING GUARDIAN, CITY AND COUNTRY

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6, 1901. The esteemed editor of the Examiner affects a shyness in regard to the Wellington blueberry plains, and makes some denials which only require to be read between the lines to show that they are no denials at all.

A HALIFAX despatch of March 5th says: The death occurred in the Victoria General Hospital yesterday of Michael Penbergast a former Intercolonial brakeman and native of P. E. Island, 46 years of age.

THE Trustees of the P. E. Island Hospital desire to express their sincere thanks to Mr. Frank Heartz for the sum of $32.20 being the proceeds of the concert held in Heartz Hall; also to Professor Earle and his talented family and the performers, as well as to every person who in any way contributed to make it such a success financially while giving so much enjoyment to those who were present.

A NUMBER of ladies met at P. W. College yesterday afternoon in order to form an afternoon class of the Historical and Literary Society. After the appointment of officers a discussion followed as to the course of study the class would pursue. And it was decided that the women should make it their special work to collect information regarding the early history of P. E. Island, and as much of this would be verbal information it would devolve upon them to put it into manuscript before handing it to the secretary of the general society.

OWING to the extensive thaw men were kept busy yesterday opening drains, thus preventing the flooding of cellars. THE GUARDIAN'S Telephone Directory Card for the city, which is being distributed free to all telephone subscribers, is exceedingly convenient. All who have not yet received one will kindly send or call at this office at once.

LAST night, in the Y. M. C. A. parlour Mr. W. J. Balman, B.Sc. catered to their enjoyment and instruction of the members and invited guests of the Natural History and Antiquarian Society by reading a most interesting paper upon Earth Sculpture, in which he enumerated and described in eloquent and lucid terms the many forces of Nature which have for ages been, and still are at work building up mountains, carving out chasms, eroding valleys, gorges and canons, wearing out caves, denuding cliffs and shore lines, building up deltas, filling up lakes and in many other ways sculpturing the face of the earth and changing its form and character.
