Hauptmann Sticks To Story As Cross-Examination Ends

bank deposits Hauptmann made between 1932 and 1934, the deposit of silver that the state claims was "changed" from ransom bills that the carpenter slipped into trade.

Reilly, the defence chief, brought out in the brief redirect examination that Hauptmann, contrary to testimony of a state witness, worked on April 2, 1932. That was the date of Dr. John F. Condon's certificate of ransom payment of $50,000 to the "John" he has testified is Hauptmann.

Reilly also elicited the statement that Hauptmann had admitted in the Bronx before his garage was searched, that he had hidden $14,000 there and that he had admitted ownership of a closet panel on which Dr. Condon's telephone number and address were written, but had stated he could not make out the handwriting. The defence attorney read part of the transcript of Hauptmann's testimony to stress his points.

Wentz, at one point of the cross-examination, read two phrases from the ransom notes—"This kidnapping was planned for a year already," and "this kidnapping was prepared for a year already," and then pointed out to Hauptmann that he had said: "Oh, that is planned for a year already" in referring to a trip to Germany.

"Yes," the carpenter replied. "How can I say it otherwise?"

Q. Well, you can say "planned for more than a year," "planned already for a year," "planned a year ago."

Reilly objected to the cross-examination as "unjust and improper" but the court suggested Reilly could take it up in re-direct examination.

The attorney general sought at another point to show that Hauptmann "staged" the demonstration in the courtroom when his wife was reported last night to have capacity house. After the performance the members of the cast were entertained at supper at the Y. M. C. A. by the committee in charge of the play.

AT THE SUPREME COURT which resumed yesterday the non jury case, John B. Murley and Lillian Murley, plaintiffs vs. George W. Gardner, defendant was heard in chambers before Mr. Justice Arsenault. The case is an action for damages. Mr. D. L. Matheson appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. Mark McCulligan for the defendant. The case will continue this morning at eleven o'clock.

Sportmen's Show Being Held In Boston

(Special to The Guardian)

MONCTON, N. B., Jan. 29.—The New England sportsmen's show this year being held in Boston February 2nd-9th promises to be one of the most outstanding events of its kind yet staged. Guides from New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island will be on hand to take part in various contests and there will be exhibits of native life.

An excellent opportunity is being afforded to people in the Maritime Provinces to see this show and also to visit relatives and friends and do some sight-seeing in a low fare excursion being operated to Boston by the Canadian National Railway in conjunction with the Eastern Steamships lines via Saint John and Yarmouth. Tickets will be on sale from Thursday, January 31st, to Friday, February 8th, both dates inclusive, and are good to return not later than Wednesday, February 13th, 1935, thus providing for a fairly lengthy trip. In connection with this excursion R. J. S. Weatherston, general freight and passenger agent of the Canadian National Railway here, pointed out that passengers should see to it that they secure a letter, in duplicate, from the Canadian National Railway certifying as to ability to read and write; that they will return within time limit of ticket and are not liable to become a public charge. This letter may also be used when re-entering Canada.

the latter years of Mr. King's administration, Canada retained low tariff policies in the face of ever-increasing nationalistic sentiment among other nations. Between 1923 and 1928 he claimed the United States put up two barriers against Canadian exports which had been "remissive to Canada's trade with them."

Mr. King had declined to take reciprocal action at that time for fear of being provocative, the Minister said. "This was the attitude of a traitor."

"Not only was Canada's trade suffering, but the country lost nearly 1,000,000 young men and women owing to Mr. King's fiscal policy. They went because stifled industry made it impossible for them to thrive here."

People of Canada should stand for a policy of "Canada first," he believed. They should believe in protection as an instrument for trade with other nations.

Mr. Hanson agreed that a party needed more than a record to show in the election. "This government," he said, "has had a record of agreements since Aug. 1930 which has not been equal since Confederation. But a record is not sufficient. A party to appeal to the country must have a programme and we have a very definite programme."

He reviewed again Canada's trade progress and economic reform policies instituted by the Prime Minister.

The claim of the Maritime Provinces in respect to subsidies paid to the Prairie Provinces in lieu of lands was taken up. All three Maritime provinces stated counsel in their submissions had made contentions based on the argument that as the Prairie Provinces in 1930 had transferred to them the natural resources within their boundaries and also had ceded the subsidies paid to them in lieu of lands, the Maritime Provinces should receive some compensating subsidies. "It is submitted that the claims of the Maritime Provinces based on the fact that land subsidies are still payable to the Prairie Provinces are unfounded and should not be accepted," counsel proceeded to argue.

SEES BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR TRADE TREATY

(C.P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

LONDON (N. Ont., Jan. 28.—While not prepared to sacrifice the country's industrial life to get trade, Hon. R. B. Hanson, Minister of Trade and Commerce, declared today the government was ready to enter into any trade agreement which would be "fair to Canada."

Negotiations had been going on between Canada and the United States for two years, the Minister said, the annual meeting of the London Liberal-Conservative Association, and he was convinced there was a wide variety of commodities on which reciprocal preference arrangements could be made.

Striking back Liberal allegations that the Conservative government had "stuffed" trade, Mr. Hanson sought to show that Canada's trade progressively declined prior to 1930 when the present government was given the reins of office.

"Not only did Mr. Hon. Mackenzie King leave the country with a deficit of $88,000,000, declining revenues and adverse trade balance of close to $100,000,000 but also a heritage of unemployment never before equalled in Canada," the Trade Minister asserted.

The depression struck the country in 1929, he recalled. Yet in 1930 Mr. King failed to even admit there was an unemployment problem. He poked fun at the Opposition leaders who "said he advocated economic reform 25 years ago and put his ideas in a book."

"Yet, he never entered his ideas in the House of Parliament. Let alone crystallize them," Mr. Hanson declared.

Mr. Hanson, recalled how, during

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. BERNARD MACCOCKMACK

Mrs. Bernard MacCockmack, whose maiden name was Margaret Stowe, departed this life at her home in West Covehead, P. E. I., on October 6, 1934, at the advanced age of 82 years, having survived her late husband fifteen years. An unfortunate fall in the early summer had resulted in a broken arm, from which however, with skilled care she had recovered, despite her age. But seemingly the shock to her system had been too severe, and for some months Mrs. MacCockmack had been confined to her bed, under the loving care of her two daughters, Lydia from Moncton, and Belle at home. Slowly however, her strong constitution weakened, with occasional rallies until October sixth when she passed to her eternal reward. She left to mourn her loss four sons and two daughters, seventeen grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. The sons surviving their mother are Joseph Duncan and John Stirling in Charlottetown, and James Henry and Charles Melville in Brackley Point; and the surviving daughters are Lydia, Mrs. Wallace Dymond of Moncton, N.E., and Sadie Belle, Mrs. Cecil Maye, living on the home place in West Covehead. In the absence of her minister, Rev. Thos. A. Wilson, B.Sc. the funeral services were conducted by Rev. George Christie, M.A. of York, in St. James' United Church, West Covehead, nearby her late home, and her remains were buried in the cemetery of the old church, beside her husband's grave. The pall bearers were Messrs. Lewis MacCormack, John Chandler and Colin MacLure.

The forenoon are given over to lecture periods, while the afternoons are taken up as much as possible with demonstrations at outstanding farms in the vicinity of Charlottetown, and at the Experimental and Falconwood farms.

The staff is composed of the officials of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, The Federal Live Stock Branch, the Experimental Farm and others.

Twenty-six students are in attendance, distributed in regard to homes from Tignish to East Point. They are taking a keen interest in the work and seem to be anxious to get the greatest possible amount of information from the course. The Provincial Department of Agriculture is to be commended for the assistance it is giving the students.

of the different churches should include a short talk on Scouting in their sermons for the day, the Scouts attending church in this area. Mr. Warren went on to say that it was very necessary to have the moral support of the public as well as their money. Without either, the work could not succeed.

If the campaign for funds is successful, then the money raised by each individual troop will be able to be expended by them for their own individual Scout needs.

Mr. Warren was assured that when the people of the Province once realized what an important part Scouting has in the life of every Scout. The influence it has on his character and the influence it will have on the future generations of the Province they will become just as enthusiastic over it, as they are over improving a certain breed of cattle; and after all surely the method of the Province is just as important and a great deal more so than livestock or anything else.

In answer to questions put by Mr. Holman as to the Scout movement, whether it was connected with military organizations, Mr. Warren very emphatically said it was not. He regretted that many people had that idea, but it was entirely wrong. Scouting was just the opposite of militarism. The aim of Scouts is to serve God and their country, and a Scout is taught to be a friend to everyone and a brother to every other Scout. Scout laws teach brotherly love and the intercourse of Scouts of every nationality. Mr. Warren said the greatest proof that Scouting was not military is the fact that the Imperial Council in England refused an annual contribution of $500,000 if they would include some military training in their course.

Mr. Warren gave a detailed description of life at the Provincial Scout Camp and of the Rover Scouts, which is open to all men from 17 years until they passed out of this mortal life.

A committee was named, consisting of Mayor W. J. Lidstone, J. LeRoy Holman and Joseph Callaghan to appoint captains for the teams that will be asked to solicit funds for the campaign.

Four teams were formed, the captains being Mr. J. LeRoy Holman, Mr. F. J. Arnett, Hon. A. F. Arsenault, K.C., and Mr. Joseph Callaghan.

Mr. Enman reported that he had approached Mr. Gaudet manager of the Capitol Theatre in regard to putting on a picture in aid of the campaign and Mr. Gaudet had signified his willingness to assist and would do his best to assist the Council to procure a suitable film.

Commissioner Warren is remaining in Summerside for a few days to give classes of instruction to several gentlemen who wish to take the course for leaders.

worked without relief to halt the ravages of the poison while chemists in the laboratory analyzed stomach juices to determine with what particular type of lethal alcohol they had to deal.

Federal, state, county and city authorities sought the sources of the poison. John Archdeacon was arraigned at Ulica on a charge of selling liquor without a license. He pleaded not guilty. A woman victim's dying gasp landed Archdeacon in the enforcement net. To the question shouted at each dying person "where did you get it?" Mrs. Mabel Rose weakly replied: "Archie."

Virtually all of the 25 men and seven women victims were poor. Many of them were derelicts. Several had long police records of drunkenness. Some of them were found distorted by agony, cold in death, in begrimed hovel. Others collapsed in the streets. A few staggered into hospitals.

Louis Bondsman, 39, called police and said his wife died in bed. Officers found him shuffling along the street. As he was rushed to a hospital, he said a charge of "Oh, well, I'll be dead shortly. I've been drinking alcohol."

He was dead when the ambulance stopped at the hospital.
