TRADES UNION BILL DEBATED IN COMMONS

Labor Interruptions Bring Warning from Speaker—Sir Douglas Hogg Explains.

(Special to the Guardian) LONDON, May 2.—Sir Douglas Hogg, the attorney general, moved the second reading of the Government's Trades Union Bill, designed to prevent coercive strikes, in the House of Commons this afternoon. Five minutes after he began speaking, he was being interrupted by broadsides of angry cries of protest from the labor lobby.

The speaker of the House warned several laborites that if they did not restrain themselves from interruptions, they would have to leave. He finally ordered Jack Jones to withdraw, and the laborite did so after angrily haranguing the house.

Sir Douglas referred to the proposal to make general lock-outs illegal as being general strikes. The government, he said, had regarded inclusion of general lock-outs in the bill as useless since such a lockout was never likely to happen. If one occurred the right course would be not to fine the companies or imprison their directors, but to take possession of the works and run them. However, if a case were made out, the government had no objection to including lockouts in the bill.

SMUGGLING CHINESE BY AEROPLANE

Aviator Shot and Killed By Immigration Officers.

(Canadian Press) LOS ANGELES, May 2.—Arthur A. Daugherty, 24, aviator, was shot and killed, seven other aviators were taken into custody and three aeroplanes were seized by federal immigration officers, Saturday, in what they declared was the breaking up of an aeroplane alien smuggling ring.

The officers said Daugherty was fired upon when he attempted to escape in his plane, as the three planes landed at Eagle airport after being reported by federal agents to have taken aboard ten Chinese in Tia Juana, Mexico, Friday night. Rex Purcell, one of the arrested aviators, declared that Daugherty was killed without a chance for his life. The officers said that when they ordered the pilots of the landing planes to throw up their hands, Daugherty put on speed apparently to take the air to escape. Chief immigration inspector Walter Carr charged that Hugh McLennan, owner of the Red Top distillery in Tia Juana, was the financial backer of the Eagle airport and of the entire alleged aeroplane alien smuggling ring.

An all day search by police and Sheriff's deputies had failed to find any trace of the ten aliens which immigration officers charged probably had unloaded in an oat field somewhere on the outskirts of the city. The officers caught on the running gear of two of the planes was proof of the landing of the ships. They declared the arrested aviators failed to make any explanation of the presence of the oat stalks.
