LET US "CARRY ON"

When in the dark days of Mons and later in the darker days of March last the fortunes of war seemed dead set against us, the slogan which rang from Ypres to Verdun was "carry on."

Our boys in the battle line never let up. Nil desperandum was their motto in deed as well as word and they wrote and spoke in a manner which left no doubt of their sincerity. They had faith in their cause, faith in their country, faith in their God and they "carried on" with the determination to win out at all hazards, or if not, to die with their face to the foe, their pennons flying for the world to see that their courage was undaunted and their faith undimmed.

Here today we have an undue prevalence of bad cold, in some cases with pneumonia supervening, in a fewer with fatal result. The number of fatalities attributed to the complaint is not one in five thousand cases. But the name given this bad cold is malignant in itself, viz: Spanish Influenza and we immediately take fright and refuse to "carry on."

We have no hesitation in saying that this is greater than a crime, it is a fatality, for as a consequence we may develop an epidemic of fear—ten thousand times worse than any epidemic of influenza for it undermines the public morale and saps the foundation of resistance.

The best means of counteracting this tendency is for us to proceed at once "to carry on" as our boys did in Flanders.

Canada, or this Province, is not the first place to have this so-called Influenza.

The Mother Country in pre war days used to be called decadent, effete, etc. by our neighbors to the south and by "supermen" in Europe, simply because she "carried on" without let or hindrance, boasting or undue display of her resources in agriculture, industry, science, finance and manpower.

But this same old Mother Country has since proved that no country in the world has anything on her in the way of juvenility or even juvenescence, and that she never sleeps without at least one eye open, ready to handle any emergency, coming out on top with hardly a hair unruined. Let us strive to imitate if not to emulate the Mother Country more than we have even done in the past.

Old England had the Spanish Influenza in different parts of the country during June, July and August. How did she treat the malady and meet the emergency?

She refused to consider it an infectious disease.

She refused to call it epidemic.

She refused to interfere with entertainments, meetings, gatherings or business of any kind.

All she did was to close the schools in districts where the trouble was more than usually prevalent. Otherwise "business as usual" was her motto. People were invited to minimize their own trouble and think more imperially.

In a word, the Mother Country sought to ignore the base intruder, and where the Spanish Jade would not be ignored to dose her well with Asperin and Whiskey.

views—making life one long somber expanse of depression. All this has a tendency to cause people to become afraid, to lower the vitality and to invite disease to lay its fell fangs upon an all but unresisting constitution.

Remove fear and Spanish Influenza will vanish as quickly as she came.

To remove fear enbutage people to "carry on" as usual as though there was nothing to fear.

Let us act quickly and let us have Church Service on Sunday and all other Meetings on Monday.

ONLY FIRST FRUITS

Our war news of late has been slightly overshadowed by Germany's peace manoeuvres, the progress being made on the western front both in Belgium and France is of the utmost importance. The Belgians have cleared away before them practically, the British have entered Lille, while the French have made great headway north of Laon and in Champagne. These are immense gains, but they are only the early fruits of victory. As Premier Clemenceau says, only the first sheaves are being gathered. The progress of the Allies has been so rapid, especially in the sector east of Cambrai and St. Quentin, that time must be taken by the Allied forces to bring up heavy guns, transport, and other material. For a moment, the offensive there lags, but if the Hindenburg line defences were quickly smashed, the Valenciennes line will not hold long, once the battering ram is in position.

The general hammering the Germans have been getting all along the front is telling heavily on the number and strength of the troops. The German losses of military supplies have already been crippling. One-fourth, at least, of the German artillery is gone. We have not seen any great encircling of German armies, because the German Staff has been clever enough in its defence tactics to prevent a breakthrough at points at which this might occur. The cutting off of troops in the Laon sector has evidently been averted by a hasty withdrawal all along the southern line.

The inactivity of the British Second Army north of the Lys River up to yesterday is explained in its splendid position to push on to Courtrai, and thus outflank Lille, and the whole northern end of the Valenciennes line. Also in the Campagne splendid progress has been made in the last few days. Gouraud's men reaching Vouziers. General Berthelot's army is pushing on toward Rethel, one of the main strategic centres of the southern front. What we are witnessing is a steady, consistent retirement now to a line at the easterly border of France. The Germans will soon have only a few square miles of French territory in their possession, and it may be left to Marshal Foch and his group of commanders and armies to push through the new German line without much delay. The truth is that the German army has been so badly battered this season that it is a beaten army, not able now to withstand the Allied troops.

NOTES

Can't that man Wilson say the nastiest things in the nicest language.

We are quite sure now that Mr. Wilson doesn't have to swear even when he fans on the tee.

One of the punishments of K. Wm. these days must be the recollections of his boasts about the German army.

With a quarter of a million of their men beating it home, it wasn't a bit surprising Germany wanted an armistice.

Another soldier boy has given up his life for his country and flag

Corporal Jordan Ernest Phee enlisted in the U.S. Army in May 1917. He was soon made a first class private in Jan he was promoted to Corporal and sailed for France early in April where he was in active service until killed on July 29. Word was sent his parents by a friend from the same Co His friend wrote in part "Your son received seven wounds and died almost instantly I helped to bury him in a pretty little place called La Charnel in France and you can always say he died like a hero at his post." Corp. Phee was born in Boston on Nov 30, 1896 He was the son of Henry F and Helen Ellsworth Phee both of P.E. Island. He was a graduate of the George Putnam school and entered high school at the early age of 12 years. Prior to his entrance into the service he was a well known amateur boxer in the Jamaica Plain and Cambridge districts. Besides his sorrowing parents he leaves to mourn the loss of a loving son and brother one sister Marjorie Eileen at home and one brother E.H. Phee who is in business out west. PRIVATE SCOTT STUART KILLED.

Mrs. Stewart, of Grand View, received the sad news yesterday that her husband, Pte. Scott Stewart, of Charlottetown, had been killed in action. Pte. Stewart, who was only twenty-four years of age, left here about three years ago, in the 106th Battalion, and had been in France since April last. He was the son of the late Mr. Peter Stewart, Charlottetown, and had many friends in this city, who will regret to learn of his death. He leaves a widow and young son three years of age; also his mother, one brother, William, and three sisters, May, Louise and Viola, in Charlottetown, and one sister, Hazel, in New Glasgow. To the sorrowing relatives the sympathy of all will be extended.

SAVE FOR VICTORY

Consider what you would do if you suddenly found your income reduced a certain amount—How would you save if you were compelled to save? Do you buy only clothing that is necessary and which will wear well? Are you wearing out your old things. By doing so you are saving labor and material that should be employed for war work.

Your Problems Solved BY REV. T. L. LINSCOTT, D. D. (All rights reserved)

Dr. Linscott, in this column will help you solve your heart problems religious, natural, social, financial and every other anxious care that perplexes you. If a personal answer is required, enclose a five cent stamp. No names will be published; if you prefer, sign your initials only, or use a pseudonym.

BAND MUSIC: "Is it comely" asks Mrs. W.B. "to worship with the aid of a brass band?" Everything depends upon the worshippers. For many years devout men in the Presbyterian church in Scotland opposed the introduction of music other than vocal in their assemblies. They said the pipe-organ was an instrument of the devil. I think some churches have not yet admitted instrumental music. The Salvation Army have band music and I think these people are more nearly like the church Jesus Christ founded than any other.

FAMILY WORSHIP: How much more does God bless the home where there is family worship than other homes? I cannot tell how much those who have family worship are benefited more than others, but I know that those who worship God as families do enjoy a great many blessings others do not. The prospect in life for children raised in a religious atmosphere is much more prophetic of good than for the children from godless homes. In all Christian countries the majority of the men at the top are from homes that have family worship.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of John MacTavish, who passed away at his home in Belfast, P. E. I., Oct. 14 1917.

Just a year ago dear father, You were called from earth away, To join the Heavenly Host of Angels, In that land of endless day.

We have missed you dearest father, But our loss is sure your gain, And we know your waiting for us, In that home that's free from pain. Loving Wife and Family 1949-10-18M11pd.

Daily Selections For Guardian Readers

By Edgar A. Guest I have to live with myself and so, I want to be fit for myself to know, I want to be able, as days go by, Always to look myself straight in the eye: I don't want to stand with the setting sun, And hate myself for the things I've done.

I don't want to keep on a closet shelf A lot of secrets about myself, And fool myself, as I come and go, Into thinking that nobody else will know The kind of a man I really am; I don't want to dress up myself in sham.

I want to go out with my head erect, I want to deserve all men's respect But here in the struggle for fame and pelf I want to be able to like myself, I don't want to look at myself and know That I'm bluster and bluff and empty show.

I never can hide myself from me; I see what others may never see; I know what others may never know, I never can fool myself, and so, Whatever happens I want to be true, and contented.

Proof that Some Women do Avoid Operations. Mrs. Etta Dorion, of Ogdensburg, Wis., says: "I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." How Mrs. Boyd Avoided an Operation. Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well. My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 6th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio. Every Sick Woman Should Try LYDIA E. SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE. Don't stay Gray! He's an Old-timer Receptive to it Any body can Apply. The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, grey hair to its natural colour dates back to Grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair. A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the grey hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

The Exclusive Curved Wing Center-Piece. A FEW years ago the farmer bought a separator because it made a tremendous saving of butter fat over the old-fashioned pan skimming method. Nowadays farmers all over America are throwing out the old separators and getting the Renfrew because this up-to-date machine is almost as great an advance beyond the old separator as the early machines were ahead of pan skimming. The Renfrew is the only separator made that can give you the easy-to-clean, close-skimming advantages of the wide open bowl with curved wings. The discs in the Renfrew are different in both size and shape. In the wide space between discs and the tubular shaft, half the skimming is already done. The curved wings, providing a longer space for the milk to travel, increase the skimming force many times, and insure perfect and even distribution, and prevent clogging of the discs with cream. It is the easiest of chores to clean the Renfrew discs. And remember this—there is no whipping of cream as with straight wings. Globules of fat are not broken. Thus you get Quality butter fat and a better cheque when you sell your cream. Besides, you get more butter fat, more profits. The Renfrew gets all but 1/10 pound of butter fat in 1,000 lbs. of milk skimmed. The Renfrew not only outskims others, it gets cream that makes the firmest and best of butter quality that other machines cannot produce. The Renfrew catalogue describes the Renfrew's exclusive interchangeable capacity features, automatic oiling system, enclosed gear and other advantages. Write for literature to-day.
