There are Boy Scouts in 47 countries of the world in addition to all parts of the British Efpire and Commonwealth.

Boy Scouts of Truro, N.S. had the honour to be the first Boy Scouts in Canada to be inspected by Lord Alexander, Canada's new Governor-General and Chief Scout. They were inspected by his Excellency at a break in his journey to Ottawa for his investiture as Governor-General.

Life saving seems to be a habit in the Van Allen family at Kemptville, Ont. Recently John A. Stiles, Chief Executive Commissioner of the Boy Scouts Association, presented a Silver Cross to Scout Stanley Van Allen for life saving. An elder brother Glen Van Allen won the same award for a similar act six years ago.

Probably the most northerly Boy Scout Troop in the British Empire, if not in the world, is that located at Dawson City in the Yukon Territory. The Scoutmaster is Corporal A.K. Bond of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. This Group not only does active Scouting but has generously assisted in the various Boy Scout war chairty drives.

Lord Rowallan, Chief Scout of the British Commonwealth recently inspected the site of the first Post-war World Scout Jamboree at Moisson, about 50 miles North-west of Paris, France. The site, about three miles long and three quarters of a mile wide, is expected to be the camp home of 30,000 Scouts from all parts of the world, during the summer of 1947. Definite dates of the Jamboree will be announced in the fall, when it is seen if French transporation and food problems are likely to be solved by that time.

One of Canada's most unique Boy Scout Troops is conducted at the Queen Alexandra Solarium at Mill Bay on Vancouver Island. There are nine boys in the Troop, mostly bedridden. Three are Canadian, one Chinese, one Japanese, three Indian, and one Swiss. Their Scoutmaster is CVol. M.E. Dopping—Hepenstal, Duncan, B.C. who drives more than 20 miles each week to their regular meeting. He has been connected with Scouting almost since its inception. At 74 years of age he insists on wearing the full uniform, including shorts, at all Scout events.

ZION CHURCH

The Sacrement of the Lord's Supper was observed at the morning service at Zion Presbyterian Church yesterday. The Minister, the Rev. G. Carlyle Webster, preached from the text John 20-25, "The other disciples said unto him we have seen the Lord."

This statement to the Apostle Thomas was incredible; except he would see for himself the prints of the nails in the Master's hands he could not believe. Presently, however, the glad experience became his and through it he too was able to say "I have seen the Lord."

Such a revelation belongs to those who have spiritual discernment, said the Minister. For those who have only the natural eyes the bread and wine remain bread and wine; but for those who have eyes to see they become the symbols of the risen Lord.

The anthem "Hallelujah! Christ Is Risen" (Simper) was sung at the morning service.

At the evening service the Rev. G. Carlyle Webster spoke on "The Miracle of Resurrection" taking as his text 1st Corinthians 15-36-37. "Thou foolish one that which thou savest is not quickened except it die and that which thou sewest, thou sewest not that body that shall be but God giveth it a body as it has pleased Him."

A quartet consisting of the Misses June MacPherson and Norma Dalziel and Messrs. Harry Craswell and Wendell Phillips sang the selection "O Thou Whose Sweet Compassion" by Maunder. The choir rendered the anthem "Hosanna in the Highest" (Strainer).

Good Friday evening the sacred cantata "Olivet to Calvary", J. H. Maunder, was very finely rendered by the choir of Zion Church under the direction of Mrs. A. H. Roper. Organist was Miss Helen Stewart. Soloists were Mrs. A. H. Roper, Messrs. Wendell Phillips, Harry Craswell, Norman MacPherson, John MacLeod and Rev. G.C. Webster.

FAMOUS BRITISH—

Morgan once met Keynes at a dinner during the depression and asked, "What great depression of history might be compared to this one?" Keynes was supposed to have replied: "There was one called the Dark Ages. It lasted 500 years."

Lord Keynes made several visits to the United States. He headed the British delegation to the monetary conference at Bretton Woods, N.H., in the summer of 1944 and was co-author of the basic plans for an international monetary fund and world bank.

He also was in this country in connection with lend-lease discussions with United States officials during the war. When lend-lease was abruptly terminated shortly after the war ended, he returned to Washington to arrange for something in its place. His role sometimes was described as that of an economic ambassador.

Lord Keynes was educated at Eton and at King's College, Cambridge, from which he graduated in 1905. He joined the Civil Service in the India office, but left after two years to return to Cambridge His first book, published in 1913, was "Indian Currency and Finance".

Interested in Arts

A man of many ideas, he had the courage to put them in plain words. Several of his books related to money. For 34 years he edited the Economic Journal, an influential periodical, resigning in 1945 because of the pressure of other work. The war caused him to curtail his business activities, but he remained a director of an insurance company and an investment concern.

Keynes was successful in personal as well as world finance. His investments during the lush 1920s proved judicious and, as an economist, he foresaw the 1929 crash in time and acted accordingly.

In 1936 he was among a group of prominent laborites, liberals and intellectuals who issued a biting condemnation of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's solution of the Czechoslovak-German dispute. Their statement said that Britain was in danger of forgetting "to our lasting dishonor" that Chamberlain's peace price was paid by Czechoslovakia, "a civilized, brave and tolerant people whose steadfastness and dignity evoked the admiration of the whole world."

Lord Keynes was interested in the arts and in the well-being of Cambridge. He built and sponsored an arts theater there and served as bursar of King's College, whose finances he successfully remodeled. A collector of paintings, he was a trustee of the National Gallery and served also as chairman of the Council for the Encouragement of Music and the Arts.

In 1925 he married Lydia Lopokova, a famous Russian ballerina.

after being inspected according to strict government standards" he said.

Despite these high standards, Canadian seed potatoes are not well known in France. Only in 1945 did France buy Canadian seed potatoes when it purchased a total of 279,333 bushels. The testing in France of this sample shipment may eventually lead to further orders, said Mr. Browne.

Canadian farmers are indebted to France for the parent stock of practically all vegetables except potatoes. Yellow celery, radishes and broccoli are only a few of the Canadian-grown veetables originated by French horticulturists, he said.

WORLD'S CHIEF—

Lady Baden-Powell, before her marriage in 1912, was Olave St. Clair Soames, the third and youngest child of Harold Soames. She was born on February 22, 1889, her birthday being on the same day as that of her future husband. Her greatest interest in childhood was in the outdoors, and in riding, swimming, boating and skating, all of which she did well. It was on a trip to Jamaica with her father that she met the Chief Scout, then General Baden-Powell, and eight months later in England they were married.

Before the advent of Lady Baden-Powell, the Guides were all more or less separate units, each working on their own, and it was she who united them into one big family. It was not until 1916, however, that Lady Baden Powell took up active work for the Guides, and it was in that year that she was appointed County Commissioner for Sussex. In 1918, Lady Baden-Powell became the Chief Guide of Great Britain, a title which she preferred to that of Chief Commissioner. At the Sixth Annual International Conference of the World Association in England in July, 1930, Lady Baden-Powell was appointed the World Chief Guide, an appointment which she still holds.

place has been curtailed sharply in the touchy position he now holds. No longer can he go and come as he pleases. Because of close association with the powerful Security Council and the magnitude of his own job, friends have pointed out to Mr. Lie that meetings with "factions" might be interpreted in some quarters as affecting decisions of the world organization he serves.

This has served only to intensify his devotion to his family which includes his wife, Hjoerdis, 46; and three daughters, Mette, 15; Guri, 20, and Sissel (Mrs. Jens Halvard Bratz), 23.

Mr. Lie's associates say he never makes an important decision without talking it over with his wife. She stays entirely out of the limelight and in her own words spends "all my time taking care of my husband."

Lives Modestly

Mr. Lie gets $20,000 annually plus another $20,000 in expenses but associates declare he can't break even. He lives modestly but the necessity of entertaining within the organization eats into the total.

Mr. Lie chain-smokes Turkish cigarets. His principal hobbies are people, hunting, tennis, and skiing. He speaks Norwegian, English and German, understands some French, enjoys good wine and likes to eat. His taste in food is strictly quality and not quantity.

He was born in suburban Oslo (Grorud), the son of a carpenter, and became secretary-general of the Norwegian labor party after being graduated from the university of Oslo and receiving a law degree.

From 1922 to 1936 he was general counsel to the Norwegian trades union federation and became minister of justice in 1936. Four years afterward he took over as minister of supply and shipping.

When the invasion of Norway came, Mr. Lie fled to England with the Government. As head of the Norwegian merchant marine, he made the decision to turn over to the allies 3,500,000 tons of shipping and the services of 25,000 Norwegian sailors.

In 1940 Mr. Lie became acting foreign minister of the government in exile and later was named to the permanent post. Throughout the war he kept in contact with the underground in his native land.

In politics a social democrat Mr. Lie was a compromise candidate for secretary-general after losing out to Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium in the contest for presidency of the general assembly.

THE KIRK PULPIT

Preaching last evening on "The Road to Emmaus", the Minister, the Rev. T. H. Bussell Somers, said: If it be not true that Christ is alive for evermore and goes before us, the sun of life is fallen from its heavens. If it be not true, then the angels' message is the most tragic of hollow mockeries. If it be not true then the sublime historic faith that builded this Church is and has been a hideous lie, two thousand years of certainty and love and adoring worship have poured forth their spiritual treasures into nothingness and at the heart of all things there can be neither justice, truth nor reason. But, blessed be God's Name, it is true. That is the Easter assurance.

We come to celebrate a triumph. The darkness forever is gone. And we, who have been redeemed would join ourselves to the redeemed in heaven, would take our part in that high song of praise and adoration with which our Divine Lord is acclaimed; Who died once, but Who is alive for evermore; Who was indeed buried in weakness but Who rose in power; Who reigns upon the Throne, with the grim powers that thought to master Him beaten down and cringing beneath His triumphant feet. He lives and the aching heart knows its sorrow blessed and sanctified. He lives and the weak are strong, the cowards brave, the beaten rise to fight again. He lives, and the weary find their rest, the lonely a Friend that sticketh closer than a brother and the darkest and most broken life a love that wipes its sin away. He lives, and life and death are ours, and we are His and He is God's now, henceforth and forever.

50 Children Are Guests Of Contact Club

Some 50 children of war veterans, many accompanied by their mothers, were the guests Saturday afternoon of the Contact Club at an Easter Party held at the Canadian Legion Home, Grafton St.

The party got underway at 3.30 and for over two hours the kiddies were kept in a high state of excitement with a varied program of entertainment which ranged from a puppet show to an exhibition of club swinging, from the laugh-producing antics of a clown to the captivating capers of "Bossie" the cow.

Music during the afternoon was furnished by Mr. Walter MacNutt.

Those helping provide the entertainment were Mr. W. E. Scantlebury, James Ibbott, George Scantlebury, J. MacDonald and Billie Gillespie.

Elaine and Paul, twin children of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Matthews, Kensington, celebrated their fourth birthday at the party. They were presented with twin cakes to mark the occasion.

President of the club is Mrs. A. W. Rogers, vice-president is Mrs. Joyce Chandler, secretary is Mrs. Nan Kirby.

Among members of the club assisting in Saturday's entertainment were Mrs. Kay Walsh, Mrs. Alice Harding, Mrs. Jean Pickard, Mrs. Peggy Heckbert, Mrs. Gladys Howlett, Mrs. Helen Chandler.

The club expressed sincere appreciation of the efforts, assistance and co-operation of Mrs. Arthur Henry, president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Charlottetown Branch of the Legion, in helping make the party the success it was.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

The service in Trinity on Sunday morning was a fitting climax to a period of special preparation for understanding and realizing the meaning of the cross of Good Friday and the resurrection of Easter morning. Despite the very inclement weather, there was a large congregation which joined in worship with particular remembrance of the living spirit of Christ. A large number of communicants participated in the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Among them 83 new members, 56 who united by profession of faith in Christ and 27 by transfer from other congregations.

The Choir sang the anthem Blow, Golden Trumpets"—Walter Wild.

In the evening, the minister chose as the subject of his sermon "The Risen Christ". The anthem "This joyful Eastertide was sung by the Choir with Miss Sally Wood taking the solo part. The carol "Now let the Heavens be Joyful" arr. by Alfred Whitehead, was also sung by the Choir.

AUSTRALIAN PRESS

exchange arrangements between papers in different cities and by staff correspondents maintained by individual papers in various localities.

The papers are served with foreign news, British, European and American happenings getting about equal play, by Australian Associated Press, a co-operative agency formed by proprietors to pool the costs of importing news. As well as the Australian staff of AAP, the big Australian papers keep special correspondents abroad to amplify foreign coverage.

While the Australian papers, a few of which have nine-column pages uncommon in Canada, follow the English style of news presentation, they carry a great deal of material from American publications few of which appear here.

Practically all the metropolitan papers put out fat Sunday editions heavy with reports and photographs of week-end sports events but also containing large world news supplements. Hollywood news and comic strips enjoy great popularity.

Daily and Sunday papers feature columns by special writers at home and abroad and two Sydney dailies, The Daily Telegraph, morning tabloid, and the Sun, an afternoon paper, have daily columns of local gossip on their front pages.

All papers are generous with space for sports events, particularly horse racing. There is all kinds of stable and track gossip as well as news of actual races and altogether total space is probably three times as much as Canadian papers give to hockey or baseball at the height of the seasons. Boxing, cricket, football and tennis also get good play.

The dailies which usually have 14 full-sized pages or 24 tabloid-size, operate on a newsprint ration which the Customs Department figures and which is about half the pre-war supply. Much of the newsprint used here is Canadian and the remainder, produced from suitable forests in the island State of Tasmania.

Queens Co. Farms Purchased Under Veterans Land Act

The following question and answer appears in the Hansard report of the House of Commons proceedings, April 17:

Mr. McLure:

1. How many farms have been purchased in Queen's County, Prince Edward Island, under the Veterans Land Act?
2. Where are these farms located and from whom purchased?
3. What acreage in each farm and what price was paid for each?
4. How many veterans are now established on farms in Queen's County?
5. Who are the officers in charge of Veterans Land Act in Queens County, Prince Edward Island Island?

Mr. Tucker: The same observations would apply in regard to this question as in regard to the question of the hon. member for Leeds (Mr. Webb). I have spoken to the hon. member who asks this question, and he is satisfied that the third part should not be answered. Subject to that, the question is answered as follows:

CENTRAL CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Special music and special emphasis was placed upon the resurrection story at Central Christian Church on the Lord's day. The minister, Rev. M. D. Dunbar, B. Th., conducted both the morning and the evening service.

Taking for his text Luke 24:34 "The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared unto Peter", the minister suggested among other things that Calvary reveals the heartbreak of the God of love. There were other crosses that day and they were often seen along the roads of that part of the Roman empire. When we look at the cross we should not merely see a man in trouble—we should see God in action. Easter is more than simply an event in history—it is the symbol of the living Christ, triumphant in that hour and Lord of all.

Here we have hope triumphant over gloom and despair; here we have courage triumphant over fear; here we have confidence triumphant over doubt; here we have love triumphant over hate and life triumphant over death.

In closing the minister suggested that there are two pictures of the cross as depicted by a great artist. One is the picture of the Latin Cross upon which is hung the dead limp body of a dead Christ. Under it is the inscription, "Is it nothing to you, all ye that pass by?" The other is the Anglo-Saxon cross which pictures Christ stepping from it—triumphant, victorious and alive forever, more. This is the needed message for the world today.

Taking for his evening message, Mr. Dunbar spoke upon the subject "They Sing A New Song." His supporting text was taken from Revelations the 5th Chapter.

Children's Art Exhibition At Harris Gallery

The following rules and suggestions are in connection with the annual children's exhibition of art to be held in the Harris Memorial Gallery May 20-25.

All work must be turned in to the teacher by Friday, May 17. A jury of Art Club members will judge the work Saturday, May 18., and the exhibition will be open to the public from Monday, May 20 through Saturday, May 25.

Will the Principals arrange to deliver all entries to H.W. Dick, Bank of Montreal, before Noon, Saturday, May 18th.

Rules.

Maximum size of drawing, 16" x 24": minimum 9" x 12".

No prizes, ribbons only.

No copying.

Paints, chalks, crayons, pencil may be used. Work must be original, the children's own work. The 100 most interesting pictures will be hung. Only one picture of any one subject will be hung.

Suggestions.

To get an interesting picture:

Be original.

Choose a good subject.

1. Illustration for story, poem, episode in history, etc.

2. The life or things about you.

3. Prince Edward Island subjects, farm pictures, animals, water, boats, houses, school-work or play.

Show life and action.

Clear bright colors. Light and dark values. Good spacing and careful placing on the paper. For example: Do not make a small drawing in the corner of a large piece of paper. Do not put an object directly in the middle of your picture, or have the sides too evenly balanced—this is poor spacing and placing. Work free, not small or cramped. Action. Easily obtained by using stick figures. Lifelike figures showing motion a sure way to be interesting.

Record Baby Crop Expected In U.S.

WASHINGTON, April 21 —(CP)—Statistical experts expect a record crop of more than three million babies in the United States this year.

Though no definite predictions can be made this early in the year, it is pointed out that the birth rate follows the marriage rate rather closely and that since VE Day the marriage rate has jumped sharply. U.S. marriages in January and February of this year were 67 per cent above those for the same months in 1945.

The record in U.S. births was set in 1943, with approximately 3,118,000 new Americans born. For the next two years, in 1944 and 1945, the birth rate dropped slightly.

Figures for the last five years, based on estimates made by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company from census records of recorded births, are as follows: 1941, 2,670,000; 1942, 2,984,000; 1943, 3,118,000; 1944, 2,969,000; 1945, 2,900,000.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Easter services were conducted by Pastor I. J. Levy and were largely attended. The Easter spirit was enhanced by the many beautiful spring flowers arranged by the Church's Flower Committee.

Pastor Levy chose for his Easter morning topic, "The True Meaning of Easter," basing his sermon on verses 16 and 18 of St. John, Chapter 20. Too often the physical symbols of Easter, the stone rolled away, the empty tomb, the presence of the Angels and their proclamation have been emphasized and the spiritual truths given lesser significance. In our present day conception of Easter, we regard it as a time of light, gladness and abounding joy. Such was not true of the first Easter morning, for, from the four Gospel accounts, we find it was a time of consternation, perplexity and weeping, and it was only when, in the words of the Gospels, "It began to dawn", that the true meaning of Easter was revealed and joy and gladness were brought to birth.

The turning point in the Gospel stories from gloom to gladness came when the women and the disciples met and recognized the Lord and this for them was Easter, the personal meeting, recognition, speaking to and being spoken to, the coming together of the human souls and the Risen Lord. Verse 16 was quoted as being "the most beautiful verse in the whole Bible" as it denotes the real dawning of Easter, when the loved tones of the Blessed Saviour's voice spoke the name, "Mary" and brought forth the glad recognition, "Master." Mary believed not because of the empty tomb but because she came into the personal presence of her Lord. All, who would see the Risen Lord, must look in faith beyond the physical resurrection symbols to the spiritual truths for religion is "the insight of faith." We rejoice that, in the long ages, since that first Easter, millions have, through faith, been as absolutely convinced, as Mary was, of the real presence and power of the Risen Lord and bowed in recognition of Him, Risen, Glorified, Victorious.

The music at the morning service was led by the Junior Choir which had been capably trained by its leaders, Miss Pearle Burns and Miss Florence Simmons. The Pastor spoke appreciatively of their bright appearance and tuneful singing which added greatly to the spirit of Easter worship.

The evening service was largely of a choral nature, with a brief Easter Meditation by Pastor Levy, on "After Easter What Then?", as suggested by Christ's farewell message.

The choir rendered effectively the following numbers:

Anthem: "Christ the Lord is Risen" (French Melody, arr. Voris.) Soloist, Mr. Ivan Robinson.

Anthem: "Come Ye Faithful" (Thatcher).

Chorale: "O Sons and Daughters Let Us Sing" (Palestrina). Soloist, Mr Barry Bugden.

Solo: "He Shall Feed His Flock" (Messiah - Handel). Miss Pearle Burns.

Mrs. G. Elliott Full, organist and choir director, enriched the service with the following selections:

Organ Prelude (a) "Barcarrole" (Rubenstein); (b) "In Spring Time" (Hollins).

Offertory: "Melody" (Guilmant.)

Organ Postlude: "Poccata in D Minor" (Bach.)

An open session of the Sunday School was held at the usual hour, 12 o'clock noon. The Easter Story was presented with slides and appropriate hymns and pictures.

At the conclusion of the evening service, the Communion of Lord's Supper was partaken of by a large number of communicants and many new members were received into the Church fellowship.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

The Feast of our Lord's Resurrection was observed at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday by having three celebrations of the Holy Eucharist at 7 and 8 and at 11 a.m. In spite of the inclement weather there were more communicants than last year and the middle service was just as well attended as usual.

The Sung Eucharist at 11 was preceded by a Procession and the music was the fine setting of C. H. Lloyd. The accustomed Easter Hymns were sung and the sermon was preached by Rev. F. D. Henderson, the Incumbent being the celebrant.

At Evensong the Psalms appointed for the day and the Office Hymn were sung to Plainsong, as were the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittio, the former having certain verses rendered with faux-bourdons.

The lessons were read by the assistant Priest and the sermon preached by the Incumbent.

At the end of the service there was a Procession around the Church, ending at the altar before which a solemn Te Deum was sung as an act of Thanksgiving.

The music at both services was finely rendered by the Choir, Mr. MacNutt being at the organ.

Many gifts of flowers added to the festal appearance of the altar, lectern and font and the sanctuary presented a beautiful setting for the splendid services of worship appointed by the choir for Easter Day.

Fashion Horoscope by Colette

Waistlines have dropped, skirts are longer, necklines plunge, jackets and peplums are elongated — all of which should be good news for the very tall gal. The longer look to summer fashions makes it easy for you to find smart cottons. Fine cottons, the kind that assure the serene, groomed look that make smart city women accept them for city wear, are again available in good looking suit dresses with all the fine tricks of superb tailoring—hipline detail, sleek shoulders. Don't buy the short look of bodice, tight skirt, especially in cottons. Looks like you're wearing baby sister's outfit.
