Sabatini's greatest story of love and adventure

The SEA HAWK

by RAFAEL SABATINI

SYNOPSIS

To Sir Oliver Tressilian, renowned for his exploits on the Spanish Main, comes Peter Godolphin, insulting and threatening, to forbid Sir Oliver's marriage with his sister, Rosamund. Because of personal enmity growing out of land disputes, both Peter and Rosamund's guardian, Sir John Killigrew, oppose the marriage. Incensed at Sir John's reference to him as a "pirate", Oliver engages him in a duel. His younger half-brother, Lionel, awaits his return, anxiety tempered with speculation as to how Oliver's death would affect his own fortunes. Oliver, he realizes, accumulated considerable wealth through his adventures on the Spanish Main.

CHAPTER II.—Continued

And meanwhile Lionel had remained at home taking his ease. His nature was inherently indolent: and he had the wasteful, extravagant tastes that usually go with indolence. He was not born to toil and struggle, and none had sought to correct the shortcomings of his character in that respect.

Sometimes he wondered what the future might hold for him should Oliver come to marry. When his thoughts did turn to it in momentary uneasiness he would abruptly dismiss them with the reflection that when all was said Oliver loved him and Oliver would never fail to provide adequately for all his wants.

In this undoubtedly he was fully justified. Oliver was more parent than brother to him. When their father had been brought home to die for the wound dealt him by an outraged husband—and a shocking spectacle that sinner's death had been with its hasty, terrified repentance—he had intrusted Lionel to his elder brother's care.

At the time Oliver was seventeen and Lionel twelve. But Oliver had seemed by so many years older than his age that the twice-widowed Ralph Tressilian had come to depend upon this steady, resolute and masterful child of his first marriage. It was into his care that the dying man had poured the wretched tale of his repentance for the life he had lived and the state in which he was leaving his affairs with such scant provision for his sons.

For Oliver he had no fear. His anxieties were all for Lionel, whom he also judged with that same penetrating insight vouchsafed a man in his last hours. Hence his piteous recommendation of him to Oliver, and Oliver's ready promise to be father, mother and brother to the youngster.

All this was in Lionel's mind as he sat musing there, and again he struggled with that hideous insistent thought that if things should go ill with his brother at Arwenack, there would be great profit to himself; that these things he now enjoyed upon another's bounty he would then enjoy in his own right. A devil seemed to mock him with the whispered sneer that were Oliver to die his own grief would not be long-lived.

So wrought up was he by the welter of his emotions, by that fierce strife between his conscience and his egotism, that he came abruptly to his feet, a cry upon his lips—

"Vade retro, Sathanas!"

Old Nicholas, looking up abruptly, saw the lad's face, waxen, his brow bedewed with sweat.

"Master Lionel! Master Lionel!" he cried, his small, bright eyes concernedly scanning his young master's face.

"What be amiss?"

Lionel mopped his brow.

"Sir Oliver has gone to Arwenack upon a punitive business," said he.

"An' what be that, sur?" quoth Nicholas.

"He had gone to punish Sir John for having maligned him."

A grin spread upon the weather-beaten countenance of Nicholas.

"Be that so? Marry, 'twere time. Sir John he be over long i' th' tongue."

Lionel stood amazed at the man's easy confidence and supreme assurance of how his master must acquit himself.

"You—you have no fear, Nicholas?"

He did not add of what. But the servant understood, and his grin grew broader still.

"Fear? Lackaday! I hain't afeered for Sir Oliver, and doan't 'ee be afeered. Sir Oliver'll be home to sup with a sharp-set appetite—'tis the only difference fighting ever made to he."

The servant was justified of his confidence by the events, though through a slight error of judgment Sir Oliver did not quite accomplish all that he promised and intended. In anger, and when he deemed that he had been affronted, he was—as his chronicler never wearies of insisting—of a tigerish ruthlessness. He rode to Arwenack fully resolved to kill his calumniator. Nothing less would satisfy him.

Arrived at that fine embattled castle of the Killigrews which commanded the entrance to the estuary of the Fal, he found Peter Godolphin there before him: and because of Peter's presence Sir Oliver was more deliberate than he had intended.

Sir John, however, came half-way to meet the quarrel. His rancor against "the Pirate of Penarrow"—as he had come to dub Sir Oliver—rendered him almost as eager as was his visitor.

They found a secluded corner of the deer park for their business, and there Sir John—a slim, sallow gentleman of some thirty years of age-made an onslaught with sword and dagger upon Sir Oliver, fully worthy of the onslaught he had made earlier with his tongue. But his impetuosity availed him nothing. Sir Oliver was come there with a certain purpose, and it was his way that he never failed to carry through a thing to which he set his hand.

In three minutes it was all over, and Sir Oliver was carefully wiping his blade whilst Sir John lay coughing upon the turf tended by white-faced Peter Godolphin and a scared groom, who had been bidden thither to make up the necessary tale of witnesses.

Sir Oliver sheathed his weapons and resumed his coat, then came to stand over his fallen foe, considering him critically.

"I think I have silenced him for a little time only," he said. "And I confess that I intended to do better. I hope, however, that the lesson will suffice and that he will lie no more—at least concerning me."

"Sir Oliver was carefully wiping his blade whilst Sir John lay coughing on the turf."

"Do you mock a fallen man?" was Master Godolphin's angry protest.

"God forbid!" said Sir Oliver soberly. "There is no mockery in my heart. There is, believe me, nothing but regret—regret that I should not have done this thing more thoroughly. I will send assistance from the house as I go. Give you good day, Master Peter."

From Arwenack he rode round by Jenryn on his homeward way. But he did not go straight home. He paused at the gates of Godolphin Court, which stood above Trefusis point, commanding the view of Carrick Roads. He turned in under the old gateway and drew up in the courtyard. Leaping to the kidney-stones that paved it, he announced himself a visitor to Mistress Rosamund.

Crop Report

Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the Head Office of the Bank of Montreal from its Branches. The Branch Managers have complete and intimate knowledge of each local situation and are in close touch with Crop conditions in all sections of the districts mentioned.

GENERAL

Crop conditions on the whole in the Prairie Provinces are favourable and recent hail damage reports are exaggerated. Wheat is filling out well. Cutting will be general in Alberta and Saskatchewan about 1st. September and in Manitoba a week earlier. In Ontario continued wet and cool weather has retarded harvesting. In Quebec the weather has been favourable to growing crops which are generally in good conditions. In the Maritime Provinces potatoes, continue to do well and apple conditions have been improved by recent rains. In British Columbia general heavy rains have been of great benefit, principally to roots and pastures. Details follow:—

PRAIRIE PROVINCES.

EDMONTON DISTRICT—Crops ripening evenly and heads well filled. Yield will be heavier in some sections than formerly expected. Wheat within radius fifty miles of Edmonton should yield 20 to 25 bushels. Eastern section will yield less than ten bushels. Average yield whole district probably fifteen bushels. CALGARY DISTRICT.—Wheat should average 17 bushels. Conditions very promising in south, in northwest fair, and in east light. LETHBRIDGE DISTRICT.—Crops heavy West, North and Southwest. Dry, warm weather needed. Southeastern section will have nominal yield only and in east and northeast very poor. Crops being harvested. SASKATOON DISTRICT — Weather warmer and seasonable for ripening grain. Wheat filling well but yield will be uneven ranging from poor to fair average. Frost damage reported from few points and sawfly in evidence several districts. Cutting will not be general for week or ten days. REGINA DISTRICT.—Prospects continue good for average crop in South and fair in Northeast, Northwest poor. Hail losses reported from some districts. Cutting will be general last week of month. WINNIPEG DISTRICT.—Wheat ripening slowly. Weather cool and showery. Frost damage reported but effect on wheat not yet determinable. Hail in some localities. Satisfactory crop barley and rye being cut.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC

Cereals are somewhat slow in ripening but oats are filling rapidly and cutting has begun. Yield expected to be above average. Root crops doing well, good yield anticipated especially in potatoes. Small fruits are plentiful but only a moderate apple crop is looked for. Grass pastures generally in excellent condition.

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO

Hay and fall wheat are practically all harvested. Yield above average. Spring grains good average crop. Corn and roots making good progress. Warmer weather and sunshine now required to bring the corn crop to maturity. Small fruits heavy crop. Early apples poor quality. Peaches and plums below average. Grass pasture excellent.

MARITIME PROVINCES

NEW BRUNSWICK.—More than is needed. Potatoes promise a large yield of good quality. NOVA SCOTIA.—Recent rains have benefited all crop. Annapolis Valley apples now in better condition, no droppings reported for several days. PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND. —All crops improved by recent rains. Conditions generally good.

PROVINCE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

Okanagan fruit crop estimate down to 70% of last year due to late dry spell. Harvest well under way. Grain good average crop. Roots only fair. Potatoes average, excepting Fraser Valley where it is est mated at only 80% of last year's crop. Hops very good crop. Okanagan orchards badly need more rain. "Duchess" apples over. "Wealthy," "Gravenstein" and "Cox's Oranges" being picked, which is fully two weeks ahead of last year. Heavy drop in prunes. Pasturage still short.

AN APPRECIATION

A Halifax admirer speaking of Mr. J. D. O'Connell says:—J. D. O'Connell, the "Picnic King," the orphans' friend, and more than all, the temperance worker, who has been the means of many a man giving up his nights among a bunch of drunken debauches and spending them at home with his wife and children.

I consider it more of an honor to meet a man like J. D. O'Connell than the greatest politician in the land.

Thousands and thousands of children unite with me in saying that we are thankful to God that wealth falls into the hands of such a noble person.

The public is never jealous of a man having wealth when he gladly spends his time and money, and the gifts God has given him, in helping the poor and uplifting the downfallen.

I trust that J. D. O'Connell may himself read these lines and know that many hearts appreciate him and his good work, while he is here with us. The politician reads his speech in blazing headlines; the clergyman reads his eloquent sermons; the millionaire sees portrayed in the press, pictures of his beautiful estates, and why should not a man, who might have all these, know that the great masses of the public love and honor him for his kindly generosity and never-tiring efforts in striving to bring joy and sunshine into the hearts of thousands and thousands of little children. For "When e'er a noble deed is wrought
When e'er is spoken a noble thought
Our thoughts in glad surprise
To higher levels rise."

Herriot Receives Vote of Confidence

(Canadian Press)

PARIS, Aug. 24.—The Chamber of Deputies early this morning voted confidence in the Herriot government 336 to 304, following a long debate in the chamber on the governments action at the London conference.

EXCRUCIATING PAINS, CRAMPS

Entirely Remedied by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Eberts, Ont. — "I started with cramps and bearing-down pains at the age of eleven years, and I would get so nervous I could hardly stay in bed, and I had such pains that I would scream, and my mother would call the doctor to give me something to take. At eighteen I married, and I have four healthy children, but I still have pains in my right side. I am a farmer's wife with more work than I am able to do. I have taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel that it is helping me every day. My sister-in-law, who has been taking your medicine for some time and uses your Sanative Wash, told me about it and I recommend it now, as I have received great relief from it."—Mrs. NELSON YOTT, R. R. 1, Eberts, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for ailments common to women. It has been used for such troubles for nearly fifty years, and thousands of women have found relief as did Mrs. Yott, by taking this splendid medicine.

If you are suffering from irregularity, painful times, nervousness, headache, backache or melancholia, you should at once begin to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is excellent to strengthen the system and help to perform its functions with ease and regularity. G
