Happenings of The Week

The King and Queen danced until the small hours Wednesday at a debutante party in Mayfair. It was the King's first real night out since he was stricken with a leg ailment last November. The party was for the debut of the Queen's twin 17-year-old nieces, Mary and Patricia Bowes-Lyon.

Princess Elizabeth visited the British Travel Association's information centre in Leicester Square and met two Winnipeggers, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. P. Riggs, who were inquiring about a trip to Scotland when the Princess appeared. "We in Canada remember with happiness the visit of the King and Queen before the war," Mrs. Riggs told the Princess, "and we are hoping you and your husband will come to see us one day." "I hope we will," the Princess replied, "but we have been very busy since the war." The King and Queen visited Canada in the spring of 1939. The Princess, vice-patron of the association, wished Mr. and Mrs. Riggs a happy stay in Britain.

Ellen's Diary

By an Island Farmer's Wife

Finally on a strange impulse, born neither of body, mind nor spirit, but of a combination of all three, we returned to Alderlea this evening, when the twilight was blessing the countryside, touching it with quiet fingers as it was being wrapped in its week-end peace. Our returning ended our holiday which had been rather brief for us, though much enjoyed, and of almost a week's duration. We spent it with "the old folks at home" a couple not at all aged at heart but to their own and friends, two who keep perpetually young.

It has been a privilege for us to come there, to listen again to their tales, to enjoy familiar walls once more, to slip into well-remembered duties and to walk old trails. One of these that we love much, perhaps more than the delightful, woody ones we have learned to esteem at Alderlea, is the path which leads us shoreward, though James, inlander that he is, does not share a like enthusiasm. Nor can he catch the rare charm of the scene, we always find set picturesquely there at end of trail.

Except for the absence of schoolers with white sails ahead, we

For Sunday, July 24

Sunday's astrological forecast is for a curious state of affairs in which schemes, curious and crafty turns, with subtlety and intrigue rampant. It may be difficult to sidestep entrapment in sinister snares or secret machinations, involving all work-a-day affairs as well as personal relations in which feelings, emotions and inner urges may seem overwhelming. Attend to the physical condition as well as reputation or curious alliances.

For the Birthday
Those whose birthday it is, may have a difficult year in eluding peculiar affiliations of transactions of a subtle or intriguing complexion. These may have disagreeable reactions on the standing, reputation and probably health. Strange schemes, sinister involvements, personal entanglements may find disagreeable reactions in plans, prospects, emotions or inner faculties.

A child born on this day may be inclined to be guided by strange compelling urges or drives, involving it in complications, reacting on reputation, possessions and happiness.

For Monday, July 25

Monday's horoscope encourages a very astute, clever and direct integrity.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Is it correct to say, "I haven't had time to write to you because I have been so busy," when answering a letter after a long delay?

A. No; if you are embarrassed about the delay, say that you are sorry.

Q. When a young man takes a girl to dinner, and the food is not very good, should she ever criticize it?

A. Never; this would be very poor form.

Q. At a house party, who has the privilege of suggesting that everyone retire?

A. Only the hostess.

RINSING
Probably one of the biggest factors in keeping the white clothes white and the colored clothes a clear color is thorough rinsing. They should be rinsed until the water is clear and free of any suds.

FAT
All fat should be drained through a cheesecloth. In this way all food particles are removed and the fat may be used over and over.

THE RANGE
Clean the steel on oven doors by rubbing it briskly while still warm with a soft cloth that has been dipped in vinegar.

Engagement Announced

This week the engagement was announced of Miss Jean Beryl MacDonald, only daughter of Miss E. Earle MacDonald and Mrs. MacDonald to Mr. Gerald Douglas Barrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Rupert Barrett of Shelburne, Nova Scotia. The marriage will take place on August the twentieth at Zion Presbyterian Church.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS--

Children Are Loans

Wise Parents Relinquish Ties To Adult Offspring

Most of the struggle between the older generation and the younger is over the question of personal liberty. It is the fight of the young for freedom and the battle of the old to hold them prisoners. The desire of the young to go forward, free and unhampered, and the determination of the old to hold them back.

The old say: "We are older. We are wiser. We have had more experience than you have had. Listen to our warnings. Let us hold you by the hand and we can keep you from stumbling and falling and hurting yourselves."

And the young reply: "Life turns wisdom into foolishness because life is eternally different. The circumstances are never the same and no situation occurs twice. Your experience cannot teach me anything because my problem will not be your problem, and because my mind, my temperament, my talents are different from yours. Where you failed I may succeed. Where you succeeded I may fail. The work that you loathed may set my soul aflame with ambition. The woman I will love may be one you would hate. The one who would appeal to you may leave me cold. Besides, I live in a different world from yours, a new world with new manners and customs and standards. Let me go. Let me try my strength. Perhaps I shall fall and hurt myself, but my wounds will teach me to walk more warily. No doubt I shall make mistakes, but out of them I shall learn something I would never have known if I had followed your copybook rules. "If you love me, do not try to keep me hidden away from danger. Brace me up with the courage to meet it bravely when it comes. Do not try to keep me unspotted from the world, ignorant of its temptations. Teach me how to resist them. Let me be my own master. Let me

THE WOMAN'S REALM

ENCOURAGEMENT

How far one cheering word will go, is never given us to know.

The hammer blows on steel or wood may not result in lasting good.

May change the life of him who hears

And be remembered down the years.

A youth with dreams of enterprise, With courage to his task may rise.

He'll tell, in his declining days: "Because I heard a word of praise

I am what I have grown to be, Knowing one man had faith in me." —Edgar A. Guest.

A delicious dessert can be made by lining sherbet glasses with lady fingers (split or halved), then filling the glasses with chocolate tapioca cream and topping with whipped cream and maraschino cherries.

Creamed cottage cheese makes a savory spread for crisp crackers or melba toast when it is mixed with drained, shredded anchovies and a little finely minced chives. If chives are not available add a little onion juice. Turn the spread into an attractive small serving bowl, dust with paprika, and garnish with parsley if you like.

Scorching can be eliminated from the housewife's repertoire of "ironing-board blues," says Samuel Kravitz, stovekeeper and inventor. He has patented the "Hook," for "m-lady's" pressing pleasure. It's a sturdy piece of metal that fastens under an ironing-board and curves up to form a hook on which you hang your iron when the door-bell rings or the baby yowls.

At the Island Tea Room, 174 Queen Street, City, I met Angus Mackenzie, owner and operator of this restaurant, where he has conducted business for the past two years. Like most busy business men, Mr. Mackenzie has a hobby which he likes to indulge in when the opportunity to do so comes along. Mackenzie's hobby is fishing; and like others who have a flair for this sport, he has fished about all the streams in the Garden of the Gulf and knows all the high-ways and byways that lead to the better places. His favorite spot, however, is the old Montague dam, where in 1948 he landed a rainbow trout that measured exactly ten inches from snout to tail. Mac never had the finer weighed, but anyone who is familiar with the rainbow species will tell you that a fish measuring seventeen inches is quite a playboy when it comes to landing him on terra firma.

How Can I!!!

By Anne Ashby

Q. How can I keep icing from running off the cake?

A. Double a piece of stiff paper and pin closely around the cake, letting the paper extend about an inch above the top of the cake. Spread the icing and do not remove the paper until the icing has set.

Q. How can I keep flour paste for any length of time?

A. Chop up a few cloves as fine as possible and add them to the paste. This will preserve it and keep it from souring.

Q. How can I clean an oil mop when soap and water have failed?

A. Use hot water, ammonia, and a little washing powder and the mop will be cleaned satisfactorily.

Morning Smile

The train came to a sudden stop, jerking the passengers around.

"What has happened, conductor?" cried one nervous old lady.

"Nothing much," said the conductor. "We hit a cow."

"Was it on the tracks?"

"No," replied the disgruntled conductor. "We chased her into the barn."
