

ECHOES OF THE ANGLICAN SYNOD

Some of the Points Which Impressed the Delegates.—Hotel Accommodation in Quebec—Many Old Landmarks are Missing.

If one who was a delegate to the Anglican synod in Quebec were asked his impressions, were urged to put in as few words as possible the general effect the meetings of the synod had upon him, he would be perplexed as to what particular feature left most deeply its impress on his mind. He might mention the dignity and ceremonial of vespertine services, the long processions of vested clergy and prelates in their robes of white and scarlet. Yet this would be but to dwell on an exterior and incidental aspect of the synod. Rather would he, being really anxious to convey to those not present the real greatness of the occasion, speak of the activity and earnestness of the members in the lower house of which he was a member. The standing of the lady in the church, their unquestioned position, the responsibilities resting on them and the duties they are called to perform would perhaps be the paramount idea in his mind. People often speak of the church as it were made up solely of bishops, priests and deacons. The unquestioned rights of the lady in the Church of England in Canada are prominently alluded to, as it were, in the proceedings of the synod. So is it in the United States, so is it in England yet. So will it be, no doubt, in time in the mother land. As was shown in the passage of the canon on divorce, no law of the church can be made or altered without not only the assent of the laity, but the actual decision by a majority of the laity. Bishops and clergy alone cannot carry a canon, no matter how came the majorities for it. We hear much in these days the expression "the mind of the church." Who can say that the mind of the church has not, for years, been against remarriages after divorce? How many Anglican priests have solemnized such marriages in the Episcopal church of the United States, with the law as it now stands, although the remarriage of the innocent party after divorce is allowed, no clergyman is to be disciplined for refusing to solemnize such a marriage. So that the action of the church in Canada was simply a step forward—a step likely in time to be made by the sister church across the border.

The Canadian church to have its own hymn book is a step toward unity in use of hymns, and illustrates the complete independence as well as union of the whole church in Canada. It is only recently that we have heard of a prayer book published by a Canadian firm. At this synod there were on exhibition some beautifully gotten up prayer books put out by the Mussen Publishing Co. of Toronto. Of course they are exact copies of the common prayer book published by authority in England. Only one change was noted, and a convenient change. At the foot of the page in small type was the date of the immovable feasts. Delegates came from Quebec with the warmest feelings towards the citizens.

SPLENDID GOLF AT BELVIDERE

Saturday a Big Day With Two Interesting Matches—Miss Anderson Wins Canada Life Medal and Championship—the Men's Finals Yet to Play—the Scores.

Not since the golf links were opened has there been such interest displayed in the game as on Saturday afternoon. Probably the greatest interest was in the two championship matches but the other two competitions were keenly contested. In the finals of the ladies championship Miss Anderson defeated Miss Tooker by 4 up and 3 to play, winning the championship and the Canada Life medal. Both played good golf but Miss Anderson secured the lead early in the game and by very steady play maintained it. In the men's championship and Standard Cup match Dr. Alley and W. K. Rogers, Percy Pope and R. G. Wallace, were paired. Mr. Wallace wins from Mr. Pope, 4 up and 3 to play. Mr. Rogers wins from Dr. Alley 2 up and 1 to play. A great deal of interest appeared to be taken in the match between the latter pair and a good gallery of enthusiastic spectators followed the players or watched them from the best points of observation. Mr. Rogers secured a good lead in the early stage of the match, being four up at the fifth hole and this he held and increased until he was downy 5. With this handicap and a chance to tie the match Dr. Alley started out to play brilliant golf, winning the next three holes and leaving his opponent two up and two play. The 17th hole however was halved thus giving Mr. Rogers the match, 2 up and one to play. The final 36 hole match is now between Mr. Wallace and Mr. Rogers and this will be played on next Saturday the 30th, starting at 1 p. m., sharp. Very keen interest was taken in the approaching and putting competition and in the clock golf match. The approaching competition was from 100, 75, 50 and 25 yards and the following is the score: Miss Anderson 13, W. K. Rogers 14, Miss Pope 15, Percy Pope 16, Dr. B. Stewart 17, H. B. Longworth 18, Judge Fitzgerald 19, Rev. Mr. Woodroffe 20, F. L. Hazard 21, Mrs. W. S. Stewart 22, Mrs. W. W. Clark 23, Miss Mary Hazard 24, Mrs. Musgrave 25, Mrs. Alley 26, Miss Anderson 27, Judge Fitzgerald 28, In the play off between the 4 ties Dr. Alley won first and Mrs. McCreedy second place. It is intended to have similar competitions next Saturday. Tea was served by Mrs. G. D. Longworth, Miss Etta Farquharson and Miss Jenkins.
