A REMINDER FOR M. P.'S

Sir.—A few days ago the Queen's County Federal representative, Mr. R. H. Jenkins, M.P., had a lengthy resume of all his activities during the session at Ottawa.

There is one special sin of omission that we would like to have some information about.

Sometime last year there was a meeting at Rustico Bank regarding a Branch Railway. Will Mr. Jenkins tell the fishermen and farmers of Rustico what he said at Ottawa regarding this railway branch to Rustico. We want to know was this in his activities.

I am, Sir, etc.
RUSTICO.

P. W. C. CLASS LISTS.

Sir.—In an up-to-date town of my acquaintance, with a population of 7,000, and a $650,000 high school, which I mention merely to show that it is considerable in a school, there is published in the local newspaper at regular intervals of about four or five weeks a list in order of merit of all high school students with their standing for the term up to that time, giving their exact percentage to one decimal.

I do not know whether this is the common practice of high schools or not, but I have often wondered if there is any reason why similar publicity would not be feasible for Prince of Wales College. Some of the benefits are obvious. In the first place it is an incentive to the students to work hard from the very beginning of the term, and in the second place it enables parents to see exactly what their children are doing in comparison with other children of whose ability they have knowledge.

If at the end of the first four or five weeks period a parent sees his child with a standing of 48%, and his neighbor's child, who he knows is less clever, with a mark of 54.8, he is going to ask his child the reason. And if at the end of the second period his child is again behind, it is altogether likely that he will try to stimulate the child's ambition sufficiently that at Christmas he may make a pass mark and likewise at the end of the school year in May or June.

It seems to me such lists would have sufficient news value that the Guardian and Patriot would be willing to publish them promptly.

There would possibly be no necessity of publishing third year lists, as any student who gets along that far is not likely to then begin neglecting his studies.

For the first two years, however, and especially the first year a great

WHY A RETURNED SOLDIER LEFT CANADA

Sir.—It is a generally accepted axiom that the second dearest thing to a man's heart is the place of his birth—why, then, should he leave it? The following explanation will account for one case at least, that of the undersigned.

In 1916 I was very satisfactorily employed in the United States, a country then at peace. Being a Canadian, however, I realized my country needed me and I accordingly returned to Canada, offered my services and was accepted. I enlisted on February 1st, 1917, at Hamilton, Ontario, and in April of the same year was in France packing a rifle in the front line trenches. The signing of the Armistice found me still there, carrying on to the best of my ability. I was now faced with the problem of deciding upon my future—on discharge, should I stay in Canada or return to the U. S.?

If I returned to the States, who would look after my aged Mother and Father, then 78 and 80 years old respectively? They had been receiving my assigned pay while in the C. E. F. but that would shortly cease although my responsibility for their care remained. Boyhood memories and the attractive promise held out by the Canadian Government for settling returned men or farms made me decide to take up farming in the place where I was born. Shortly after getting my discharge from the C. E. F. in Charlottetown, the Soldier Settlement Board took me into its bosom and purchased a farm for me at Abram Village, P. E. I. This farm cost $2600.00 (far more than it was worth even at that time although I was quite ignorant of farm values and was depending entirely upon the S. S. B. to protect me) and I paid $260.00 in cash. This was in 1919, since then I made such payments on account as my circumstances permitted, approximately, $200.00. In 1923 I called an auctioneer and turned the whole proceed over to the Board, about $600.00. During the following two years I rented the farm to a neighbor and the full rental was also paid into the Board. During this period I was locking after my infirm and helpless parents and raising a small family of my own. Nevertheless I found time and money to fence about 12 acres to clear and break 2 acres and to repair the dwelling house to the extent of about $100.00. In 1927 my father died, aged 81—thank God he did not see the ultimate result. In the fall of 1927 I was notified by the Soldier Settlement Board that if I did not pay all my arrears to clear, I would have to get out. In December I too double pneumonia and while hovering between life and death, an officer of the S. S. B. called one evening about 10 o'clock wanting me to sign a quit claim giving up my interest in the farm. I was saved this indignity for the time being as I was too weak to even lift my head but this official did not forget. It two weeks he returned and I had to sign the many documents presented. Thus went the farm and the only home of my aged Mother, wife and four small kiddies. What was there left for me to do. The land of my birth obviously did not want us so we were compelled to seek a living in the United States. Before leaving Canada however I saw the sequel to this land settlement venture of mine and it is the strangest part of my story. Shortly after I relinquished my interest in the property, the Soldier Settlement Board sold it to a civilian for $1500.00! After two years' service in its army and nine years' poorly paid and mighty hard work on its farm the country of my birth sold to its returned soldier, "Get off this farm we are going to sell it to a civilian for $1100.00 less than we will sell it to you!" Is it any wonder that I now fail to get any thrill out of "Oh Canada"?

JUMMER COLD FRAME CROPS

With early vegetables out of the frames and into the garden, the practical gardener will put his frames to work at once for valuable early summer crops, notably cucumbers or melons or a start summer squash, late season tomatoes, peppers or eggplants.

The sash will be ample protection for these tender plants until settled weather.

Early cucumbers are most successful for the home gardener who has a frame of the usual dimensions, 6 by 6. One hill may be planted in the center of the frame and the vines may be allowed to spread out to fill it. Under the protection of the sash the vines may make good growth all from the stacks of insect pests and by the time the covers are removed they will have sufficient start to be able to withstand the ravages of bugs that take so many of the cucumber in their infancy.

One such hill will furnish early being cucumbers until the main crop planted in the open after danger of frosts is over comes to bearing. A hill of melons may be grown in the same warmer bed give an early supply of cantaloupes. By using frames some ambitious experimental gardeners have been able to open honeysuckles by giving them an early start and protecting them with the frame in the fall. This is too long a season melon or northern gardens under ordinary circumstances.

The supply of eggplants, peppers and tomatoes, however, forms the most practical use to which the cold frame can be put after the earliest crops are removed and they will be ready to transplant into the open by the
